Request Use Of Tear Gas

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. military command in Saigon has asked Washington to re-examine U.S. policy against using nonlethal tear gas under certain conditions in the war in Viet Nam, it was learned in Saigon today.

In the field, Viet Cong guerrillas attacked in the Mekong delta and B52 bombers from Guam hit suspected Viet Cong positions for the 30th time in the war.

Saigon informants said the request on tear gas, made two weeks ago, asks that field commanders be permitted to use it in special instances.

A Marine field commander earlier this month used tear gas to rout Viet Cong guerrilas from a tunnel where they had taken refuge among civilians. The commander was said to feel it was the best way to rout the guerrillas with the least harm to civilians.

Clear Path For Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON AP - A fight between the House and Senate over governors' veto powers in the antipoverty program was quickly settled today, clearing the way for final action on a bill authorizing $1.78 billion for the program.

Conferees from the two houses agreed to accept the House version of the veto, which gives the director of the Office of Economic Opportunity power to override a veto in certain cases.

Crop Outlook In State Good Except Cotton

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) -The State-Federal Crop Reporting service says the outlook for all crops, except cotton, is good, in spite of harvest curtailment due to recent rains.

They report:

The soybean harvest, with a rate behind that of recent years, has been halted.

Wind and rain have caused some corn to fall, but the crop remains good and 95 per cent is expected to escape normal frost.

Cotton picking came to a standstill last week.

Small grain seeding dropped off and only small percentages of the grain have been sown.

Pasture condition was good to excellent.

Brown Wins In Ohio Vote

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)— Clarence J. Brown Jr., political newcomer with a noted Republican name, squared off today against a young prosecuting attorney in a nationally watched fall election for the congressional seat Brown's father had 27 years.

Brown swamped six opponents for the GOP nomination in a special primary Tuesday while James A. Berry, prosecutor of Clark County, most populous of the 7th District's eight counties, easily defeated a lone Democratic opponent.

The term sought by his 38-year-old son and Berry, 35, runs to Jan. 3, 1967. The winner will be determined in a Nov. 2 election.

Ike Spades Dirt For New College

SENECA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) -Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower turned the first spadeful of earth in starting construction of a college named for him, then heard comedian Bob Hope quip:

"Where else but in America could a man in command of our armies, leader of our country and a leader in the field of education wind up in Seneca Falls shoveling dirt?"

Hope's remarks, and Eisenhower's smiling reaction, came at groundbreaking ceremonies Tuesday for Eisenhower College, a liberal arts school scheduled to open in 1967. A crowd of about 12,000 attended.

The institution will have about 1,500 students and will be on a 265-acre tract on the shore of Cayuga Lake.

Blame Arson For Blaze

A fire at 9:38 p.m. last night is suspected of being arson. The door and an office wall of the sheet metal building were damaged. There was no damage to contents.

Police and Fire Chief L. D. Ramsey reported that the Sikeston Auto - Transmission company of 117 South Handy was set afire by gasoline or kerosene.

"I found pieces of newspapers which were soaked in gasoline," Ramsey told Policeman Marshall Moore. "There were three plastic containers filled with kerosene or gasoline and the building had a strong odor of kerosene or gasoline."

The fire started in the southeast corner of the building. According to police, a plastic container filled with gasoline and gasoline soaked shop towels were used to start the fire.

The owner of the building is Eugene Phillips, 316 Edmundson. The building is leased to Howard Overton, 119 South Handy.

Overton told police that he locked the building between 6 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

The door was hard to lock and unlock and I wasn't sure the door was secure," he told police.

Chief Ramsey said the doors were locked when he reached the fire.

Police do not have anyone in custody.

Kiwanis Told About 4-H

Bill Bogart, 4-H supervisor for Scott and Mississippi counties, spoke to the Kiwanis Club at the Holiday Inn Tuesday night.

He explained the 4-H setup and then presented a movie of the last 4-H congress in Chicago.

Bogart explained that there were 12 4-H clubs in Scott county, with a membership of 283. An effort is being made to enroll youths in the small towns in addition to rural youths.

Thirty training projects are available to members, the most popular being electricity, woodworking, photography, sheep or hog raising and public speaking for boys, and public speaking, dressmaking, and cooking for girls.

Directors voted to donate $100 to the mental health site fund drive.

Draft Doctors

WASHINGTON AP -- The Defense Department moved today to draft 1,979 doctors, dentists and veterinarians because of the armed forces buildup.

The Pentagon asked the selective Service to call 1,529 doctors, 350 dentists and 100 veterinarians for service in the Army, Navy and Air Force starting in January.

President Johnson has approved a 340,000-man boost in the armed forces, to a new total of nearly three million.

Lilbourn Festival To Open Monday Night

LILBOURN -- Lilbourn's annual Fall Festival and Homecoming will open Monday night with the Travelers, a Sikeston group, providing entertainment on the midway stage.

Each evening during the six-day festival, a special, free event will be held. Following the Travelers appearance Tuesday night, an amateur talent contest will be held.

C. D. Wright, general chairman, said today that entries are needed in the talent contest. Anyone wishing to enter, may do so by contacting Jimmy Dambach at the Stone Insurance Agency. Wright also noted that talent has entered from as far away as Bell City.

Wednesday night is stunt night. The stunt night will be conducted by Owen J. Taul, principal of the high school.

A big parade is on tap for Thursday night. Bands from high schools throughout the Bootheel will participate along with queen contestants, floats, new automobiles, the latest in farm machinery, and other entries. Parade time is 8 p.m.

The search for Miss New Madrid County of 1966 will be concluded Friday night in the Lilbourn high school gymnasium. Lovelies from every town in the county are expected to compete for the coveted crown, which entitles the winner to compete in district and regional contests. Jim Baughman, chairman, said that he expects 20 or more participants.

The last feature of the festival will be the selection and crowning of a junior king and queen Saturday night. This contest will be held on the midway stage. To be eligible, lads and lasses must be four or five years old and not enrolled in the first grade.

As at all Lilbourn festivals, a clean carnival midway will be set up on Third street. The carnival will cater mainly to the whims of children as it will be made up for the most part by rides and games which children can play. There will be concessions for the older people.

Cash attendance prizes will be awarded each night. In order to win, the person whose name is drawn must be present. Names will be drawn until someone wins each night.

Six Hurt In Three-Car Collision Near Marston

Six persons were injured in a three-car accident on highway 61, at 6 p.m. Tuesday, one half mile south of Marston.

Involved were a 1963 Pontiac, driven by Guy DeLisle. 65, Portageville; a 1965 Volkswagen, driven by Ferrell Duncan, Ripley, Miss., and a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Robert Keen, 20, Memphis.

DeLisle suffered possible broken ribs, chest injury and face cuts. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau. A passenger in his car, Lola Lee, 43, Portageville, received a mouth injury and leg cuts. She was treated by a Portageville physician.

Marcus Duncan, 5, Ripley, a passenger in the Volkswagen, received a possible skull fracture, and was taken to a Hayti hospital.

Keen received cuts on the scalp and right knee. He was taken to the Sikeston hospital. A small child in the car, Robert Louis Keen, was cut on the leg, and the mother, Jane Keen, 18, was cut on the left leg.

The accident happened during a rain as DeLisle attempted to pass a string of cars. The Volkswagen was attempting to turn off the highway. The DeLisle car sideswiped the Volkswagen, and struck the Keen car headon. The highway patrol reported DeLisle suffered from a heart condition, and will be cited for careless and imprudent driving.

In an accident at 10 a.m. on highway D in Lilbourn, Alonzo Kerney, 30, Lilbourn, who was traveling in his 1965 Mustang, lost control on a curve, and turned over two times. The car landed on its top. He was treated by a physician and released. He was arrested for careless and reckless driving.

Cars Sent Four To Emergency Room

Four persons were taken to the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital yesterday.

Tony Russell, Charleston, caught thumb in car door; Jane Keen, Memphis, Tenn., Robert Keen, Memphis, Tenn., and Robert Louis Keen, Memphis, all in car accident.

Congress Clears Defense Funds

WASHINGTON AP -- Congress has cleared for President Johnson's signature a $46.88-billion defense money bill that includes $1.7 billion for a Viet Nam war build-up.

The measure goes to the President carrying also a provision that frustrates Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's desire to merge the Army Reserve and the National Guard.

No merger can be ordered by the Pentagon within a year without Congress' express approval, under terms of the bill passed Tuesday by the Senate and last Friday by the House.

The Senate also forwarded to the President a $1.76-billion appropriations bill for the construction of military bases and military housing.

Charge Man In Slaying

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. -- (AP) - James Meacham, 34, of Cape Girardeau was charged in a warrant Tuesday with first degree murder in the death of Henry Love, 42, of Cape Girardeau.

Love, on parole from a burglary conviction, was found in an alley and died about 30 minutes later in St. Francis Hospital.

Coroner Don Kramer, of Cape Girardeau County said Love had been beaten, but died of strangulation from regurgitating food.

Police said Meacham told them he thought Love had taken a pistol, clothing and about $20 in cash from his house.

Two Face Driving Charges

A man and a woman, were in city court to face charges filed against them by police this morning.

Grace Collins, route four, pleaded innocent to a driving while intoxicated charge. Her case was to be heard at one p.m.

Doyle Archie, 502 West Gladys, was fined $50 and costs for driving while intoxicated, $1 and costs for having an improper exhaust on vehicle and $5 and costs for violating the city's curfew ordinance.

Lucille Ball Must Seek Name Change

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Comedienne Lucille Ball must remain Mrs. Lucille Goldaper unless she asks to become Mrs. Lucille Morton.

That was the gist of a ruling Tuesday by Superior Court Commissioner James P. Natoli, who approved a request by comedian Gary Morton, Miss Ball's husband, to change his name from Goldaper to Morton.

Morton, 48, asked that Miss Ball's legal married name also be changed but Natoli said she must file her own petition.

Symington To Vote Against Foreign Aid

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Stuart Symington has told the Senate that he will vote against the foreign aid bill, although he has supported the bills in the past.

The Missouri Senator said he had made the decision because of the "unfavorable balance of payments," which is draining off American gold.

He told the Senate that this drain is second only to the problem of nuclear war. It is necessary to have funds with which to carry on foreign trade, he told the Senate. But added that in the past the funds for the trade have come exclusively from U. S. dollars. He said he does not believe it should continue to come from these dollars.

He told the Senate that America now has only about $6 billion in free gold dollars, or gold above that which goes to guarantee paper money. He said this $6 billion has to answer to possible call of more than $28 billion in obligations held by foreign banks.

If these should demand their payment at once it would take $28 billion to fulfill the obligations. This means that the United States would have to default in its obligations, which could plunge the country and much of the world into a serious panic.

Convict Drug Ring Leader

LAREDO, Tex (AP) - Lucien Rivard, who managed a smile even though a jury had just found him guilty of directing an international narcotics smuggling ring, faced a maximum of 40 years in prison today.

The 50-year-old French-Canadian, whose case caused political turmoil in Candad, was convicted Tuesday of two counts of federal narcotics law violations of conspiring to smuggle heroin into the United States and of actually causing heroin to be smuggled.

Each count carries a maximum of 20 years in prison. U. S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally said, however, sentencing would be delayed for 30 to 40 days until he had time to study the case.

Three other Montreal, Canada, men, Julien Gagnon, 36, Charles Emile Groleau, 56, and Joseph Raymond Jones, 28, also drew guilty verdicts on the conspiracy charge as Rivard's associates.

Rivers Roll Over Banks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rivers rolled over their banks in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma today, driving thousands of persons from their homes and damaging crops and property.

Snow and cold stung the West and a new storm headed into the area which was snowed under last week.

Floodwaters poured through Smithville in northwestern Missouri and for the second time in two months the 300 residents fled their homes

Families were evacuated in Mosby and Tracy, Mo.

War In Kashmir Edging To Truce

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Kashmir war ebbed today toward a truce, with the armed forces of both India and Pakistan ordered to quit shooting before another sunrise.

Red China's threat of immediate action against India also eased, but Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told his Parliament that nation presents "an even greater challenge" and the Indians must firmly resolve to meet it.

Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan announced a cease-fire is to become effective in their three-week-old war at time translating as 5 p.m. EST today.

That is 3:30 a.m. Thursday in India; 3 a.m. in Pakistan — 15 hours beyond the deadline originally set by the U.N. Security Council.

Shastri wept as he announced the development in Parliament. He said the two Asian neighbors must live in neighborly peace.

Ayub said in a broadcast from Karachi he had ordered the cease-fire in the interests of international peace and he hoped it will lead India and Pakistan to an honorable settlement of their 18-year-old quarrel over Kashmir.

In this regard, Shastri said India has accepted the good offices offered by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Kosygin had suggested that Shastri and Ayub meet in Soviet territory to discuss their differences.

Troops of both sides temporarily intend to stay put, stretched along a truce line similar to the Kashmir cease-fire boundary established by the United Nations in 1949 to divide the largely Moslem state between Moslem Pakistan and India, which is predominatly Hindu.

Shastri, speaking of Communist China's recent moves to beef up its military stretch in Tibet along the Himalayan frontier opposite India and its buffer state protectorates, said: "We do not know what the Chinese will do next."

Pakistan Insists On Honorable Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Pakistan and India agreed early today to end their undeclared war, but Pakistan threatened to withdraw from the United Nations if it does not find a fair and honorable settlement of the Kashmir dispute.

Pakistan's acceptance of the Security Council's cease-fire order came at a dramatic predawn meeting of the council almost precisely at 3 a.m., the deadline set by the 11-nation body 48 hours earlier.

India previously had notified the United Nations it would stop shooting if Pakistan would do so. In view of Pakistan's late acceptance, India requested an extension of the deadline to permit orders to go out to the field commanders.

The council agreed to move the cease-fire hour forward to 6 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time today, a 15-hour delay.

U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, council president, hailed the agreement as a great day for the United Nations.

One Of Most Wanted Men Escapes Miami Jail

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — One of the most wanted men in the Western Hemisphere, arrested with the help of the Early Bird satellite four months ago, has escaped from jail by the ancient method of a rope down a wall.

Georges LeMay, a dapper Canadian wanted in the spectacular burglary of a Montreal bank, made a clean getaway Tuesday night from the seventh floor of the modern County Jail.

He shattered the panes of an unbarred window, slid 90 feet down a cleaning house anchored to plumbing, and screeched away with three men in a 1965 white sedan.

Police said they were investigating the possibility that LeMay had some inside help getting from his fifth floor cell to the unoccupied seventh floor.

LeMay is charged with leading a crew that tunneled under the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1961 and blasted open 377 safety deposit boxes.

They escaped with between $500,000 and $4 million, but the exact amount was never established because of the reluctance of the box owners to talk.

Lack Of Cash Crimps GOP Election Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican challengers for two of the year's top political prizes are campaigning on shoestring budgets that could become even tighter as election time nears, party officials said today.

At stake: the governorships of New Jersey and Virginia, both held by Democrats. Those two races will be the first statewide political contests since President Johnson's 1964 landslide victory over Barry Goldwater.

The Republican nominees, State Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr. in New Jersey and Roanoke attorney A. Linwood Holton of Virginia, both are cast as underdogs in the Nov. 2 elections.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes seeks re-election in New Jersey; Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. is out to succeed Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. of Virginia.

Republican chairmen in the two states said they doubt campaign funds will approach their targets of $500,000 in New Jersey and $250,000 in Virginia.

Some campaign projects already have been curtailed because of the financial situation. The party leaders said it could get worse late in the race, when expensive radio and television time becomes a major campaign need.

Jewelry Store Stickup Strikes A Few Snags

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The robbery went off without a hitch — well, almost.

Two gun-waving bandits stepped coolly into a downtown jewelry store Tuesday afternoon and held the co-owner, Harry Kagan, at gunpoint while they scooped up cash and gems valued at more than $5,000.

Then they ran outside to their waiting getaway car, an old convertible. It wouldn't start.

As the bandits desperately tried to start the motor, things began to happen. Kagan called police. In a camera store two doors away, Donald L. Adams, a shipping clerk and amateur photographer, saw the men with guns get into the car and rushed out, camera in hand.

"The back window of the convertible was out, so I stuck the camera inside and snapped some pictures," he said.

One of the bandits turned and aimed his gun at Adams.

"It went click," Adams said, "but I got out of the way."

The bandits did, too.

They leaped from their car and headed toward a sports car being parked nearby. The driver saw them coming and fled with the keys.

The bandits then commandeered another car. The driver, Ruth Schrumpf, tried to get out with her poodle, Lucky. Her husband, Al Schrumpf appeared on the scene and rescued both wife and dog.

The bandits roared off in the Schrumpf car — for about 100 feet. Then it stalled.

They leaped out and separated. One of them tried to commandeer another auto, but the driver — another woman — roared off, leaving him standing at the curb, gun in hand.

He was still standing there when policeman Robert Frederickson came up on his motorcycle. The bandit pointed the gun at Frederickson, and ordered him off the cycle.

The officer got off all right, but grabbed the gunman and wrestled him to the ground.

He was identified later as Walter E. Bigelow, 31, who was recently paroled from San Quentin where he had been serving a sentence for robbery.

At police headquarters, Bigelow was asked about the trouble with the getaway cars.

His answer: "I've been in The Joint so long, I forgot how to drive."

The second bandit? Oh yes . . . he got away with the loot.

WASHINGTON AP -- The Defense Department moved today to draft 1,979 doctors, dentists and veterinarians because of the armed forces buildup.

The Pentagon asked the selective Service to call 1,529 doctors, 350 dentists and 100 veterinarians for service in the Army, Navy and Air Force starting in January.

President Johnson has approved a 340,000-man boost in the armed forces, to a new total of nearly three million.

Lilbourn Festival To Open Monday Night

LILBOURN -- Lilbourn's annual Fall Festival and Homecoming will open Monday night with the Travelers, a Sikeston group, providing entertainment on the midway stage.

Each evening during the six-day festival, a special, free event will be held. Following the Travelers appearance Tuesday night, an amateur talent contest will be held.

C. D. Wright, general chairman, said today that entries are needed in the talent contest. Anyone wishing to enter, may do so by contacting Jimmy Dambach at the Stone Insurance Agency. Wright also noted that talent has entered from as far away as Bell City.

Wednesday night is stunt night. The stunt night will be conducted by Owen J. Taul, principal of the high school.

A big parade is on tap for Thursday night. Bands from high schools throughout the Bootheel will participate along with queen contestants, floats, new automobiles, the latest in farm machinery, and other entries. Parade time is 8 p.m.

The search for Miss New Madrid County of 1966 will be concluded Friday night in the Lilbourn high school gymnasium. Lovelies from every town in the county are expected to compete for the coveted crown, which entitles the winner to compete in district and regional contests. Jim Baughman, chairman, said that he expects 20 or more participants.

The last feature of the festival will be the selection and crowning of a junior king and queen Saturday night. This contest will be held on the midway stage. To be eligible, lads and lasses must be four or five years old and not enrolled in the first grade.

As at all Lilbourn festivals, a clean carnival midway will be set up on Third street. The carnival will cater mainly to the whims of children as it will be made up for the most part by rides and games which children can play. There will be concessions for the older people.

Cash attendance prizes will be awarded each night. In order to win, the person whose name is drawn must be present. Names will be drawn until someone wins each night.

Six Hurt In Three-Car Collision Near Marston

Six persons were injured in a three-car accident on highway 61, at 6 p.m. Tuesday, one half mile south of Marston.

Involved were a 1963 Pontiac, driven by Guy DeLisle. 65, Portageville; a 1965 Volkswagen, driven by Ferrell Duncan, Ripley, Miss., and a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Robert Keen, 20, Memphis.

DeLisle suffered possible broken ribs, chest injury and face cuts. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Cape Girardeau. A passenger in his car, Lola Lee, 43, Portageville, received a mouth injury and leg cuts. She was treated by a Portageville physician.

Marcus Duncan, 5, Ripley, a passenger in the Volkswagen, received a possible skull fracture, and was taken to a Hayti hospital.

Keen received cuts on the scalp and right knee. He was taken to the Sikeston hospital. A small child in the car, Robert Louis Keen, was cut on the leg, and the mother, Jane Keen, 18, was cut on the left leg.

The accident happened during a rain as DeLisle attempted to pass a string of cars. The Volkswagen was attempting to turn off the highway. The DeLisle car sideswiped the Volkswagen, and struck the Keen car headon. The highway patrol reported DeLisle suffered from a heart condition, and will be cited for careless and imprudent driving.

In an accident at 10 a.m. on highway D in Lilbourn, Alonzo Kerney, 30, Lilbourn, who was traveling in his 1965 Mustang, lost control on a curve, and turned over two times. The car landed on its top. He was treated by a physician and released. He was arrested for careless and reckless driving.

Cars Sent Four To Emergency Room

Tony Russell, Charleston, caught thumb in car door; Jane Keen, Memphis, Tenn., Robert Keen, Memphis, Tenn., and Robert Louis Keen, Memphis, all in car accident.

Congress Clears Defense Funds

WASHINGTON AP -- Congress has cleared for President Johnson's signature a $46.88-billion defense money bill that includes $1.7 billion for a Viet Nam war build-up.

The measure goes to the President carrying also a provision that frustrates Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's desire to merge the Army Reserve and the National Guard.

No merger can be ordered by the Pentagon within a year without Congress' express approval, under terms of the bill passed Tuesday by the Senate and last Friday by the House.

The Senate also forwarded to the President a $1.76-billion appropriations bill for the construction of military bases and military housing.

Charge Man In Slaying

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. - (AP) - James Meacham, 34, of Cape Girardeau was charged in a warrant Tuesday with first degree murder in the death of Henry Love, 42, of Cape Girardeau.

Love, on parole from a burglary conviction, was found in an alley and died about 30 minutes later in St. Francis Hospital.

Coroner Don Kramer, of Cape Girardeau County said Love had been beaten, but died of strangulation from regurgitating food.

Police said Meacham told them he thought Love had taken a pistol, clothing and about $20 in cash from his house.

Two Face Driving Charges

A man and a woman, were in city court to face charges filed against them by police this morning.

Grace Collins, route four, pleaded innocent to a driving while intoxicated charge. Her case was to be heard at one p.m.

Doyle Archie, 502 West Gladys, was fined $50 and costs for driving while intoxicated, $1 and costs for having an improper exhaust on vehicle and $5 and costs for violating the city's curfew ordinance.

Lucille Ball Must Seek Name Change

HOLLYWOOD AP -- Comedienne Lucille Ball must remain Mrs. Lucille Goldaper unless she asks to become Mrs. Lucille Morton.

That was the gist of a ruling Tuesday by Superior Court Commissioner James P. Natoli, who approved a request by comedian Gary Morton, Miss Ball's husband, to change his name from Goldaper to Morton.

Morton, 48, asked that Miss Ball's legal married name also be changed but Natoli said she must file her own petition.

Symington To Vote Against Foreign Aid

Special to Daily Standard

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Stuart Symington has told the Senate that he will vote against the foreign aid bill, although he has supported the bills in the past.

The Missouri Senator said he had made the decision because of the "unfavorable balance of payments," which is draining off American gold.

He told the Senate that this drain is second only to the problem of nuclear war. It is necessary to have funds with which to carry on foreign trade, he told the Senate. But added that in the past the funds for the trade have come exclusively from U. S. dollars. He said he does not believe it should continue to come from these dollars.

He told the Senate that America now has only about $6 billion in free gold dollars, or gold above that which goes to guarantee paper money. He said this $6 billion has to answer to possible call of more than $28 billion in obligations held by foreign banks.

If these should demand their payment at once it would take $28 billion to fulfill the obligations. This means that the United States would have to default in its obligations, which could plunge the country and much of the world into a serious panic.

Convict Drug Ring Leader

LAREDO, Tex (AP) - Lucien Rivard, who managed a smile even though a jury had just found him guilty of directing an international narcotics smuggling ring, faced a maximum of 40 years in prison today.

The 50-year-old French-Canadian, whose case caused political turmoil in Candad, was convicted Tuesday of two counts of federal narcotics law violations of conspiring to smuggle heroin into the United States and of actually causing heroin to be smuggled.

Each count carries a maximum of 20 years in prison. U. S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally said, however, sentencing would be delayed for 30 to 40 days until he had time to study the case.

Three other Montreal, Canada, men, Julien Gagnon, 36, Charles Emile Groleau, 56, and Joseph Raymond Jones, 28, also drew guilty verdicts on the conspiracy charge as Rivard's associates.

Rivers Roll Over Banks

Rivers rolled over their banks in Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma today, driving thousands of persons from their homes and damaging crops and property.

Snow and cold stung the West and a new storm headed into the area which was snowed under last week.

Floodwaters poured through Smithville in northwestern Missouri and for the second time in two months the 300 residents fled their homes

Families were evacuated in Mosby and Tracy, Mo.

War In Kashmir Edging To Truce

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Kashmir war ebbed today toward a truce, with the armed forces of both India and Pakistan ordered to quit shooting before another sunrise.

Red China's threat of immediate action against India also eased, but Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri told his Parliament that nation presents "an even greater challenge" and the Indians must firmly resolve to meet it.

Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan announced a cease-fire is to become effective in their three-week-old war at time translating as 5 p.m. EST today.

That is 3:30 a.m. Thursday in India; 3 a.m. in Pakistan — 15 hours beyond the deadline originally set by the U.N. Security Council.

Shastri wept as he announced the development in Parliament. He said the two Asian neighbors must live in neighborly peace.

Ayub said in a broadcast from Karachi he had ordered the cease-fire in the interests of international peace and he hoped it will lead India and Pakistan to an honorable settlement of their 18-year-old quarrel over Kashmir.

In this regard, Shastri said India has accepted the good offices offered by Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Kosygin had suggested that Shastri and Ayub meet in Soviet territory to discuss their differences.

Troops of both sides temporily intend to stay put, stretched along a truce line similar to the Kashmir cease-fire boundary established by the United Nations in 1949 to divide the largely Moslem state between Moslem Pakistan and India, which is predominatly Hindu.

Shastri, speaking of Communist China's recent moves to beef up its military stretch in Tibet along the Himalayan frontier opposite India and its buffer state protectorates, said: "We do not know what the Chinese will do next."

Pakistan Insists On Honorable Settlement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Pakistan and India agreed early today to end their undeclared war, but Pakistan threatened to withdraw from the United Nations if it does not find a fair and honorable settlement of the Kashmir dispute.

Pakistan's acceptance of the Security Council's cease-fire order came at a dramatic predawn meeting of the council almost precisely at 3 a.m., the deadline set by the 11-nation body 48 hours earlier.

India previously had notified the United Nations it would stop shooting if Pakistan would do so. In view of Pakistan's late acceptance, India requested an extension of the deadline to permit orders to go out to the field commanders.

The council agreed to move the cease-fire hour forward to 6 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time today, a 15-hour delay.

U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, council president, hailed the agreement as a great day for the United Nations.

One Of Most Wanted Men Escapes Miami Jail

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — One of the most wanted men in the Western Hemisphere, arrested with the help of the Early Bird satellite four months ago, has escaped from jail by the ancient method of a rope down a wall.

Georges LeMay, a dapper Canadian wanted in the spectacular burglary of a Montreal bank, made a clean getaway Tuesday night from the seventh floor of the modern County Jail.

He shattered the panes of an unbarred window, slid 90 feet down a cleaning house anchored to plumbing, and screeched away with three men in a 1965 white sedan.

Police said they were investigating the possibility that LeMay had some inside help getting from his fifth floor cell to the unoccupied seventh floor.

LeMay is charged with leading a crew that tunneled under the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1961 and blasted open 377 safety deposit boxes.

They escaped with between $500,000 and $4 million, but the exact amount was never established because of the reluctance of the box owners to talk.

Lack Of Cash Crimps GOP Election Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican challengers for two of the year's top political prizes are campaigning on shoestring budgets that could become even tighter as election time nears, party officials said today.

At stake: the governorships of New Jersey and Virginia, both held by Democrats. Those two races will be the first statewide political contests since President Johnson's 1964 landslide victory over Barry Goldwater.

The Republican nominees, State Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr. in New Jersey and Roanoke attorney A. Linwood Holton of Virginia, both are cast as underdogs in the Nov. 2 elections.

Democratic Gov. Richard J. Hughes seeks re-election in New Jersey; Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. is out to succeed Gov. Albertis S. Harrison Jr. of Virginia.

Republican chairmen in the two states said they doubt campaign funds will approach their targets of $500,000 in New Jersey and $250,000 in Virginia.

Some campaign projects already have been curtailed because of the financial situation. The party leaders said it could get worse late in the race, when expensive radio and television time becomes a major campaign need.

Jewelry Store Stickup Strikes A Few Snags

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The robbery went off without a hitch — well, almost.

Two gun-waving bandits stepped coolly into a downtown jewelry store Tuesday afternoon and held the co-owner, Harry Kagan, at gunpoint while they scooped up cash and gems valued at more than $5,000.

Then they ran outside to their waiting getaway car, an old convertible. It wouldn't start.

As the bandits desperately tried to start the motor, things began to happen. Kagan called police. In a camera store two doors away, Donald L. Adams, a shipping clerk and amateur photographer, saw the men with guns get into the car and rushed out, camera in hand.

"The back window of the convertible was out, so I stuck the camera inside and snapped some pictures," he said.

One of the bandits turned and aimed his gun at Adams.

"It went click," Adams said, "but I got out of the way."

The bandits did, too.

They leaped from their car and headed toward a sports car being parked nearby. The driver saw them coming and fled with the keys.

The bandits then commandeered another car. The driver, Ruth Schrumpf, tried to get out with her poodle, Lucky. Her husband, Al Schrumpf appeared on the scene and rescued both wife and dog.

The bandits roared off in the Schrumpf car — for about 100 feet. Then it stalled.

They leaped out and separated. One of them tried to commandeer another auto, but the driver — another woman — roared off, leaving him standing at the curb, gun in hand.

He was still standing there when policeman Robert Frederickson came up on his motorcycle. The bandit pointed the gun at Frederickson, and ordered him off the cycle.

The officer got off all right, but grabbed the gunman and wrestled him to the ground.

He was identified later as Walter E. Bigelow, 31, who was recently paroled from San Quentin where he had been serving a sentence for robbery.

At police headquarters, Bigelow was asked about the trouble with the getaway cars.

His answer: "I've been in The Joint so long, I forgot how to drive."

The second bandit? Oh yes . . . he got away with the loot.

Sikeston provides a fine example of genorsity, leadership and civic spirit that will cause other Bootheel communities to set up and take notice.

We think that it deserves attention all over Missouri.

Sikeston is on the move. It has the kind of leadership and the kind of people that want it that way and are keeping it on the track of progress.

All virtue in the state is not confined to the relatively small area which our community occupies but Sikeston is providing fine leadership for a progressive state.

The community needed $68,000 to purchase an 11-acre site for a state mental retardation clinic, one of nine to be built in Missouri. In one week $60,000 had been pledged.

Without any active solicitation more than $45,000 was raised. No city would have any trouble reaching any type of fund raising goal if it could obtain this kind of voluntary cooperation from its community leaders. Sikeston is doing it the easy way.

The fine early start toward reaching this goal was due to the generosity of many Sikeston business and professional men and community leaders. The $25,000 gift of the Joel Montgomery family is an outstanding contribution, providing more than 35 per cent of the required funds by itself.

It's no wonder that Sikeston continues to grow and prosper.

With the active interest of so many people willing to contribute time, money and effort to a worthy civic cause, how can a community miss?

A bow to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Wendell Weathers and Earl Jarvis, co-chairmen of the whirlwind fund raising campaign, now within sight of victory.

If there are any persons who have not been contacted and who wish to contribute they can mail a check to Box 485, Sikeston, in care of the Jaycee Mental Retardation Site Fund.

THIS IS A BAD ONE

One of the most controversial measures affecting the American people is up in Congress.

It goes by the foreshortened title of 14-B. That is, the bill would repeal section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act which grants states the authority to enact right-to-work laws. Such laws, which 19 states now have, forbid labor contracts that require all employes to be or become union members as a condition for working.

This is an Administration - endorsed measure, and it has behind it the power of the labor unions and the labor lobby.

It is also a bad measure.

A few years ago it would have been inconceivable, and it is still unbelievable that the Government could be so coerced as to be a partner or accessory of a group whose aim is to restrict the freedom of an individual to earn a living for himself and his family unless he joins and pays dues to a union.

It is grossly unfair.

In fairness to American workers it should be killed.

Before the changing of the guards at the post office department in which Politician Lawrence F. O'Brien replaces Politician John A. Gronouski it is delightful to observe a phenomenon.

It is almost as rare as a June snow to see the post office department bend a little. In its policies for releasing information the department is stiff necked, arbitrary, high handed and usually anti-public.

In this instance under pressure the department with Gronouski calling the signals retreated.

The department decided after all to release the names of young people who worked in post offices during the summer. It will be done, where requested at the nation's post offices.

Before he succumbed to a heat wave directed at him, Gronouski took the position that the department's usual policy of secrecy was "designed to protect the privacy of individual postal employes."

He wrote Rep. John Moss, California Democrat who is chairman of the House subcommittee on government information, that "such lists can be turned into mailing lists and used for commercial purposes."

Apart from the fact that widespread use of such mailing lists might help reduce the postal deficit, this argument, if carried to its illogical conclusion, could bar the use of any names in newspapers.

Disclosure of any name might put the individual on a mailing list.

Long standing postal regulations forbid giving out lists of postal employes and their pay despite the fact that they are paid by the public, who is entitled to know what it is buying and the cost. This policy of secrecy is still being maintained.

Moss complained of the earlier Gronouski refusal to disclose the names of the summer workers with this telling logic:

"I don't think the employes' right to privacy is anywhere near as great as the public's right to know the public's business."

The reason that the nation's temperature rose on the policy of secrecy applied to summer workers was due reports that the Post Office Department did not follow the recommended youth opportunity campaign practice of hiring summer workers on a basis of need.

In many cases relatives of political figures were employed--in one the son of a congressman.

President Lyndon B. Johnson directed federal agencies to make available 25,000 summer jobs to needy youths to enable them to make money to return to college in the fall.

The post office department hired 8,577.

Before asking the employment service in the states to supply names of worthy students, Gronouski contacted Congressmen and made a political grab bag out of the program.

A total of 3,380 jobs were filled as a result of the recommendations from congressmen.

Before relenting and permitting the names of summer workers to be disclosed, Gronouski, refused, saying it might "embarass some of these innocent individuals by implying that they were guilty of an offense."

Nonsense. It was the department that was on the pan not the youths.

Gronouski should be more at home in the more dictatorial governmental atmosphere of Poland, where happily he soon is going to be this country's ambassador.

With President Lyndon Johnson being as busy as he is almost nobody noticed the 100th anniversary of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

"What is the use of a book," thought Alice, "without pictures or conversations?"

A tale told to three little girls more than 100 years ago continues to make publishing history. A publishing subsidiary of the Xerox corporation is reprinting by photo offset "Alice's Adventures under Ground" using Lewis Carroll's original and hand-printed script to mark the centennial of the publication of "Alice in Wonderland" in 1865.

Making a book from the facsimile of the author's handwritten work is hailed as a new publishing concept.

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, lecturing in mathematics at Christ Church College, Oxford, found great delight in the company of the three little daughters of Dean Liddell, the head of the College. One of these was named Alice.

On a day in early July in 1862, Dodgson rowed up the Thames with the three little girls. They had tea in a hay field and afterwards the girls insisted that he tell them a story. It was quite a tale, so entrancing that it was half past eight of the long summer evening before they got home to Christ Church.

There, on later days, the tale was written. Three years after the picnic of that golden afternoon the story was published as Alice's Adventures in Wonderland. From the beginning it was a popular book.

Dodgson, using the pen name Lewis Carroll, published "Through the Looking Glass" and "What Alice Found There" seven years later. Together the books are known popularly as "Alice in Wonderland."

The mingling of absurdity and logic, of the familiar and the fantastic has made Alice a continuing delight to adults as well as the children. Fortunately the manuscript of "Alice's Adventures under Ground" survives. It was bought by an American from Alice Liddell for $50,000. This, the first form in which Dodgson set down the Alice story, was given in 1946 to the British Museum by a group of U.S. donors formed by Luther H. Evans, former Librarian of Congress.

As a mathematician should, Dodgson wrote with a remarkably precise hand. His drawings strike one as less imaginative than his prose, and traditionalists may miss the illustrations of Sir John Tenniel that have been associated with Alice since that first printing 100 years ago.

How unfortunate that the 100th anniversary of Alice should fall on this, a year of the Great Society, whose miracles wrought by President Johnson make the imaginative creations of Dodgson fade into insignificance and seem by comparison to be only a pale, puny, unworthy and trifling effort.

There is nothing so prosaic now as a magic mirror what with the bottomless federal treasury and all of the wonders it produces.

But there is no want of femininity or of adventure.

While thoughts of Alice and her three sisters have all but vanished, there are the exploits of Lady Bird, Lynda Bird and Luci Baines to stir the imagination of the people.

BOOT HILL, Dodge City, Kan.- He was not Coleridge's Ancient Mariner, but he was at least a kissing cousin of the old nuisance. Rather than skin, he wore tanned leather on his face and hands, the product of decades of action by sun, wind and sand. He was so lean he had to stand twice in the same place to cast a shadow; his Levi's clung to his legs and pelvic area as if they had been applied with an aerosol spray and his 10-gallon hat, a Stetson felted during the William Howard Taft presidency, testified to long use as drinking fountain shelter from the elements, wash basin, and weapon to turn stampeding cows.

We had coffee in the museum which stands between the town of Dodge City and the grim exhibits, including the hanging tree, on Boot Hill. Our waddie-from-way-back-yonder didn't care for it, for the brew was not "biled" coffee, and when the cups were half emptied, you could see the bottom.

"It don't take a lot of water to make good coffee," he growled, adding; "I don't aim to drink a whole creek dry to get a little bit of coffee."

* * *

He was in garrulous mood, and I encouraged him with a few snorts of Lem Motlow's pride of Tennessee elixir. "Does it ever rain here?" I asked as he wiped his mouth with the back of his hand and reached for the flagon again.

"Well," he replied, "I went for 37 years once without seeing it rain, and when one finally come, the drops knocked me out. The other boys had to throw sand into my face to bring me to."

* * *

"But we get wind out here," he said. I knew it was so for all the trees had a way of leaning toward the northeast. "Sometimes it gets so bad it blows all the barbs on a barb-wire fence to the corners and it takes a crew a week to space 'em again."

"It gets cold too," he told me. "I out with some more waddies to set up a new drift fence one bitter cold day--the wind was howlin' down off the Rockies, an' we grabbed whatever we could find for posts. We drove 'em into the ground without payin' no mind to what we had. Next day, it come a thaw, and all them rattlesnakes thawed out and crawled away, and carried 17 miles of wire off with 'em."

* * *

"Well, sir," he went on, after I had prompted him with another sample of Lem Motlow's elixir, "one time I made a bet with a bunch of greenhorns that I could drink water faster than a windmill could throw it out. I knowed at that season of the year there come a calm about when the sun got to the top, but they didn't know that. So I watched my time, and commenced drinking out of the pipe, and shore enough, the wind quit and the mill stopped and there wasn't no mo' water comin' out, and I collected my bet."

"Do you know how come we druther water our cows at the windmill tank instead of in a creek at the foot of the mountain? Well sir, we had a chuckwagon cook who wanted to color down his coffee, and he always roped a fresh cow and got a little milk from her. When he commenced finding minnows in the milk, we kept the brutes away from the creek."

That was the same cook who swore "I do wash my hands. How do you think I get the dough off'n 'em?"

The worst thing that has happened along the Santa Fe Trail, my waddie said, "is that they took off all the steam engines that had cabbagehead smokestacks, an' put on these disel engines that blows rings out of pipes. The boys used to have a lot of fun a-ropin' engines, but I never saw a engine throwed so you could tie it up."

They still talk big around Boot Hill and Dodge City. You can tell the natives from the tourists, because the latter are togged out in Levi's, big hats, and rattlesnake belts. Natives dress Ivy League.

WHERE THE ATOM IS SAFE

A top officer of a leading electric manufacturing firm has called for an industry-wide program to inform the public on the safety of atomic power plants. "The nation's utilities and reactor manufacturers should join forces to spearhead this industry effort," he said. He then described the attack on atomic power as being as baseless as the "fanatical crusade that was carried on 75 years ago against alternating current."

He also pointed out that in the 17 years of the civilian atomic power program there has been no injury and no loss of life. Finally, he said that "We are now building fifth-generation plants whose reliability and safety are a proven fact."

We all have a certain built-in fear of the unknown, and the atom, in all its uses, is still a profound mystery to the average person. And the terrible destructive power of atomic weapons, which has been the subject of endless articles and news reports, has undoubtedly created a woefully false impression of the safety factor in nuclear power plants. Every real authority is certain that the chance of a nuclear accident occurring in these plants is so remote as to be hardly worthy of consideration. The safety program, in sum, has been solved so far as the most advanced science can tell. It would be a pity if nuclear power development was slowed by a false public impression of the safety element involved."

WASHINGTON LION-TAMERS

The boys at the mahogany desks in the Department of Agriculture in Washington, says President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation, remind him of the local yokel who constantly snapped his fingers.

He said, Mr. Shuman explains, that it was to "keep the lions away," and when people laughed at him he declared: "It works! You don't see any lions around here, do you?"

The finger-snapping in Washington, says Mr. Shuman in his monthly commentary, "This We Believe," comes from the same bureaucrats who told farmers there would be no wheat legislation if they voted "No" (as they did) in the last May 21 referendum and who now are trying desperately to dream up a new farm bill "in time to claim credit for saving the wheat farmers from the free market 'lions.' "

He notes that state Farm Bureau delegates attending the recent AFBF national convention were unanimous in their vote against "such 'finger - snapping' nostrums as (Brannan - type) compensatory payments and two-price certificates" while continuing support of sound wheat legislation.

"Naturally," concludes Mr. Shuman, "those whose jobs depend on Government programs do not want farmers to discover that the competitive market price is often higher than the political price and that the period of transition to the market may not be as rough as pictured."

Considering how wrong the Federal farm - planners have been through the years -- at the cost of billions to the tax - payers -- the only sane solution to the "farm problem" is the dissolution of the master minds in Washington -- as Mr. Shuman and the Farm Bureau have contended for so long.

THE VICE-PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION, 1960

The propriety of those closely connected with the administration disclosing their part in the selection of the Vice-Presidential nominee at the Los Angeles Convention has been questioned. I shall not comment upon their ethics in publicizing what they believed to be their part in the Vice-Presidential nomination. One of them now offers a different version of the Kennedy-Johnson affiliation than he wrote four years earlier.

A young man who had worked in the campaign occupied a room in my Los Angeles hotel suite. January 12, 1961, UPI quoted him regarding my activities in connection with the Vice-Presidential nomination. Because the incoming administration was only getting organized, I felt that this publicity was unfortunate and could result in dissension, and I made a statement to discourage further discussion of his story.

In reading the "insider's reports" it was apparent they had "come into the act" many hours after an agreement had been made between Kennedy and Johnson and had only participated in the light sparring and window dressing between the time of the decision and the implementation of the agreement.

The Principals needed to satisfy divergent segments of the party before the announcement of the final selection of the Vice-Presidential nominee in order to keep minorities from attacking the selection from the Convention floor.

WASHINGTON -- The Army's Walter Reed Hospital, where wounded GIs from Viet Nam get their plastic surgery and artificial limbs, is a picturesque complex of buildings, shrubbery and fountains. The grounds are park-like, the grass trim, the atmosphere serene.

On warm days, soldiers in blue pajamas lounge on the benches, and birds nestle in the Maple and Oak trees lining the paths. The marble steps at the main entrance are fit for a president, and indeed presidents come here for their hospital care. The lobby is dazzling white.

But behind the impressive front, there are drab halls, low-hanging water pipes and dingy rooms that reek of alcohol.

There are only one shower and four wash basins for all the men in the ward. Dirty uniforms have been tossed in a bin 10 feet from the basins. The floor is covered with filth.

CRIES IN THE NIGHT

The patients say there is only one nurse and one orderly on duty during the night. They tell how a man, suffering from a stroke, struggled out of bed to call the nurse after being awakened by the cries of a fellow patient.

The orderly was asleep, the nurse doing paperwork in her office. She heard nothing.

As you leave, you wonder about a sign on the door: "Air conditioned. Please do not leave open." For the room is unbearably warm.

Downstairs in the officer's quarters. The ward is partitioned into semi-private rooms. The toilet facilities are adequate and clean. The air is comfortably cool. You learn that the cool air from the officers' quarters is supposed to be channeled into the enlisted men's wards. But the chill is lost somewhere en route.

Back outside, you wonder why so much money is spent keeping the outside freshly painted when the wards look as if they hadn't seen paint in years.

You drive along curving roads to the gate, and a guard salutes smartly. But as you pull away, your mind is back in the dismal wards with the neglected heroes of the Viet Nam war.

Football officials asked President Johnson literally to kick off the professional football season last weekend by booting the first football at the Washington Redskins' game.

The President was willing, and officials tried to arrange the game on Saturday, the day before the other teams play—the same as the baseball opener.

But the TV executives refused to change their schedule. Result: There was no opening game and no kick-off ceremony by the President.

SOCRATES AND SANTA

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler, asked in Europe what advice he had come to give the financial community, said he had taken to heart what a grade-school girl once wrote about Socrates.

"Socrates was a wise man," she wrote. "He gave advice. He was poisoned and died."

Afterward, aides presented Fowler with a miniature Santa Claus. An attached note declared: "This is one fellow they will never poison."

PRAISE FOR LBJ

Most of our European allies are critical of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies, but West Germany's acting Secretary of State Felix Von Eckardt has come out in strong support.

In an article in Quick Magazine, one of the most widely read in West Germany, Von Eckardt declares:

"The worldwide engagements which the United States took upon itself for the national and personal liberty of the non-Communist states must be looked upon as a whole. Such guarantees must be fulfilled to uphold the political and military value of all such U. S. commitments.

"It's not only the national prestige of the United States which is at stake, but the value of American power as a protecting nation."

Sikeston provides a fine example of genorsity, leadership and civic spirit that will cause other Bootheel communities to set up and take notice.

We think that it deserves attention all over Missouri.

Sikeston is on the move. It has the kind of leadership and the kind of people that want it that way and are keeping it on the track of progress.

All virtue in the state is not confined to the relatively small area which our community occupies but Sikeston is providing fine leadership for a progressive state.

The community needed $68,000 to purchase an 11-acre site for a state mental retardation clinic, one of nine to be built in Missouri. In one week $60,000 had been pledged.

Without any active solicitation more than $45,000 was raised. No city would have any trouble reaching any type of fund raising goal if it could obtain this kind of voluntary cooperation from its community leaders. Sikeston is doing it the easy way.

The fine early start toward reaching this goal was due to the generosity of many Sikeston business and professional men and community leaders. The $25,000 gift of the Joel Montgomery family is an outstanding contribution, providing more than 35 per cent of the required funds by itself.

It's no wonder that Sikeston continues to grow and prosper.

With the active interest of so many people willing to contribute time, money and effort to a worthy civic cause, how can a community miss?

A bow to the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Wendell Weathers and Earl Jarvis, co-chairmen of the whirlwind fund raising campaign, now within sight of victory.

If there are any persons who have not been contacted and who wish to contribute they can mail a check to Box 485, Sikeston, in care of the Jaycee Mental Retardation Site Fund.

THIS IS A BAD ONE

One of the most controversial measures affecting the American people is up in Congress.

It goes by the foreshortened title of 14-B. That is, the bill would repeal section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act which grants states the authority to enact right-to-work laws. Such laws, which 19 states now have, forbid labor contracts that require all employes to be or become union members as a condition for working.

This is an Administration - endorsed measure, and it has behind it the power of the labor unions and the labor lobby.

It is also a bad measure.

A few years ago it would have been inconceivable, and it is still unbelievable that the Government could be so coerced as to be a partner or accessory of a group whose aim is to restrict the freedom of an individual to earn a living for himself and his family unless he joins and pays dues to a union.

It is grossly unfair.

In fairness to American workers it should be killed.

Before the changing of the guards at the post office department in which Politician Lawrence F. O'Brien replaces Politician John A. Gronouski it is delightful to observe a phenomenon.

It is almost as rare as a June snow to see the post office department bend a little. In its policies for releasing information the department is stiff necked, arbitrary, high handed and usually anti-public.

In this instance under pressure the department with Gronouski calling the signals retreated.

The department decided after all to release the names of young people who worked in post offices during the summer. It will be done, where requested at the nation's post offices.

Before he succumbed to a heat wave directed at him, Gronouski took the position that the department's usual policy of secrecy was "designed to protect the privacy of individual postal employes."

He wrote Rep. John Moss, California Democrat who is chairman of the House subcommittee on government information, that "such lists can be turned into mailing lists and used for commercial purposes."

Apart from the fact that widespread use of such mailing lists might help reduce the postal deficit, this argument, if carried to its illogical conclusion, could bar the use of any names in newspapers.

Disclosure of any name might put the individual on a mailing list.

Long standing postal regulations forbid giving out lists of postal employes and their pay despite the fact that they are paid by the public, who is entitled to know what it is buying and the cost. This policy of secrecy is still being maintained.

Moss complained of the earlier Gronouski refusal to disclose the names of the summer workers with this telling logic:

"I don't think the employes' right to privacy is anywhere near as great as the public's right to know the public's business."

The reason that the nation's temperature rose on the policy of secrecy applied to summer workers was due reports that the Post Office Department did not follow the recommended youth opportunity campaign practice of hiring summer workers on a basis of need.

In many cases relatives of political figures were employed--in one the son of a congressman.

President Lyndon B. Johnson directed federal agencies to make available 25,000 summer jobs to needy youths to enable them to make money to return to college in the fall.

The post office department hired 8,577.

Before asking the employment service in the states to supply names of worthy students, Gronouski contacted Congressmen and made a political grab bag out of the program.

A total of 3,380 jobs were filled as a result of the recommendations from congressmen.

Before relenting and permitting the names of summer workers to be disclosed, Gronouski, refused, saying it might "embarass some of these innocent individuals by implying that they were guilty of an offense."

Nonsense. It was the department that was on the pan not the youths.

Gronouski should be more at home in the more dictatorial governmental atmosphere of Poland, where happily he soon is going to be this country's ambassador.

With President Lyndon Johnson being as busy as he is almost nobody noticed the 100th anniversary of Alice's Adventures in Wonderland.

"What is the use of a book," thought Alice, "without pictures or conversations?"

A tale told to three little girls more than 100 years ago continues to make publishing history. A publishing subsidiary of the Xerox corporation is reprinting by photo offset "Alice's Adventures under Ground" using Lewis Carroll's original and hand-printed script to mark the centennial of the publication of "Alice in Wonderland" in 1865.

Making a book from the facsimile of the author's handwritten work is hailed as a new publishing concept.

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, lecturing in mathematics at Christ Church College, Oxford, found great delight in the company of the three little daughters of Dean Liddell, the head of the College. One of these was named Alice.

On a day in early July in 1862, Dodgson rowed up the Thames with the three little girls. They had tea in a hay field and afterwards the girls insisted that he tell them a story. It was quite a tale, so entrancing that it was half past eight of the long summer evening before they got home to Christ Church.

There, on later days, the tale was written. Three years after the picnic of that golden afternoon the story was published as Alice's Adventures in Wonderland. From the beginning it was a popular book.

Dodgson, using the pen name Lewis Carroll, published "Through the Looking Glass" and "What Alice Found There" seven years later. Together the books are known popularly as "Alice in Wonderland."

The mingling of absurdity and logic, of the familiar and the fantastic has made Alice a continuing delight to adults as well as the children. Fortunately the manuscript of "Alice's Adventures under Ground" survives. It was bought by an American from Alice Liddell for $50,000. This, the first form in which Dodgson set down the Alice story, was given in 1946 to the British Museum by a group of U.S. donors formed by Luther H. Evans, former Librarian of Congress.

As a mathematician should, Dodgson wrote with a remarkably precise hand. His drawings strike one as less imaginative than his prose, and traditionalists may miss the illustrations of Sir John Tenniel that have been associated with Alice since that first printing 100 years ago.

How unfortunate that the 100th anniversary of Alice should fall on this, a year of the Great Society, whose miracles wrought by President Johnson make the imaginative creations of Dodgson fade into insignificance and seem by comparison to be only a pale, puny, unworthy and trifling effort.

There is nothing so prosaic now as a magic mirror what with the bottomless federal treasury and all of the wonders it produces.

But there is no want of femininity or of adventure.

While thoughts of Alice and her three sisters have all but vanished, there are the exploits of Lady Bird, Lynda Bird and Luci Baines to stir the imagination of the people.

BOOT HILL, Dodge City, Kan.- He was not Coleridge's Ancient Mariner, but he was at least a kissing cousin of the old nuisance. Rather than skin, he wore tanned leather on his face and hands, the product of decades of action by sun, wind and sand. He was so lean he had to stand twice in the same place to cast a shadow; his Levi's clung to his legs and pelvic area as if they had been applied with an aerosol spray and his 10-gallon hat, a Stetson felted during the William Howard Taft presidency, testified to long use as drinking fountain shelter from the elements, wash basin, and weapon to turn stampeding cows.

We had coffee in the museum which stands between the town of Dodge City and the grim exhibits, including the hanging tree, on Boot Hill. Our waddie-from-way-back-yonder didn't care for it, for the brew was not "biled" coffee, and when the cups were half emptied, you could see the bottom.

"It don't take a lot of water to make good coffee," he growled, adding; "I don't aim to drink a whole creek dry to get a little bit of coffee."

* * *

He was in garrulous mood, and I encouraged him with a few snorts of Lem Motlow's pride of Tennessee elixir. "Does it ever rain here?" I asked as he wiped his mouth with the back of his hand and reached for the flagon again.

"Well," he replied, "I went for 37 years once without seeing it rain, and when one finally come, the drops knocked me out. The other boys had to throw sand into my face to bring me to."

* * *

"But we get wind out here," he said. I knew it was so for all the trees had a way of leaning toward the northeast. "Sometimes it gets so bad it blows all the barbs on a barb-wire fence to the corners and it takes a crew a week to space 'em again."

"It gets cold too," he told me. "I out with some more waddies to set up a new drift fence one bitter cold day--the wind was howlin' down off the Rockies, an' we grabbed whatever we could find for posts. We drove 'em into the ground without payin' no mind to what we had. Next day, it come a thaw, and all them rattlesnakes thawed out and crawled away, and carried 17 miles of wire off with 'em."

* * *

"Well, sir," he went on, after I had prompted him with another sample of Lem Motlow's elixir, "one time I made a bet with a bunch of greenhorns that I could drink water faster than a windmill could throw it out. I knowed at that season of the year there come a calm about when the sun got to the top, but they didn't know that. So I watched my time, and commenced drinking out of the pipe, and shore enough, the wind quit and the mill stopped and there wasn't no mo' water comin' out, and I collected my bet."

"Do you know how come we druther water our cows at the windmill tank instead of in a creek at the foot of the mountain? Well sir, we had a chuckwagon cook who wanted to color down his coffee, and he always roped a fresh cow and got a little milk from her. When he commenced finding minnows in the milk, we kept the brutes away from the creek."

That was the same cook who swore "I do wash my hands. How do you think I get the dough off'n 'em?"

The worst thing that has happened along the Santa Fe Trail, my waddie said, "is that they took off all the steam engines that had cabbagehead smokestacks, an' put on these disel engines that blows rings out of pipes. The boys used to have a lot of fun a-ropin' engines, but I never saw a engine throwed so you could tie it up."

They still talk big around Boot Hill and Dodge City. You can tell the natives from the tourists, because the latter are togged out in Levi's, big hats, and rattlesnake belts. Natives dress Ivy League.

WHERE THE ATOM IS SAFE

A top officer of a leading electric manufacturing firm has called for an industry-wide program to inform the public on the safety of atomic power plants. "The nation's utilities and reactor manufacturers should join forces to spearhead this industry effort," he said. He then described the attack on atomic power as being as baseless as the "fanatical crusade that was carried on 75 years ago against alternating current."

He also pointed out that in the 17 years of the civilian atomic power program there has been no injury and no loss of life. Finally, he said that "We are now building fifth-generation plants whose reliability and safety are a proven fact."

We all have a certain built-in fear of the unknown, and the atom, in all its uses, is still a profound mystery to the average person. And the terrible destructive power of atomic weapons, which has been the subject of endless articles and news reports, has undoubtedly created a woefully false impression of the safety factor in nuclear power plants. Every real authority is certain that the chance of a nuclear accident occurring in these plants is so remote as to be hardly worthy of consideration. The safety program, in sum, has been solved so far as the most advanced science can tell. It would be a pity if nuclear power development was slowed by a false public impression of the safety element involved."

WASHINGTON LION-TAMERS

The boys at the mahogany desks in the Department of Agriculture in Washington, says President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation, remind him of the local yokel who constantly snapped his fingers.

He said, Mr. Shuman explains, that it was to "keep the lions away," and when people laughed at him he declared: "It works! You don't see any lions around here, do you?"

The finger-snapping in Washington, says Mr. Shuman in his monthly commentary, "This We Believe," comes from the same bureaucrats who told farmers there would be no wheat legislation if they voted "No" (as they did) in the last May 21 referendum and who now are trying desperately to dream up a new farm bill "in time to claim credit for saving the wheat farmers from the free market 'lions.'"

He notes that state Farm Bureau delegates attending the recent AFBF national convention were unanimous in their vote against "such 'finger - snapping' nostrums as (Brannan - type) compensatory payments and rwo-price certificates" while continuing support of sound wheat legislation.

"Naturally," concludes Mr. Shuman, "those whose jobs depend on Government programs do not want farmers to discover that the competitive market price is often higher than the political price and that the period of transition to the market may not be as rough as pictured."

Considering how wrong the Federal farm - planners have been through the years -- at the cost of billions to the tax - payers -- the only sane solution to the "farm problem" is the dissolution of the master minds in Washington -- as Mr. Shuman and the Farm Bureau have contended for so long.

LBJ MISSES PUNT

Football officials asked President Johnson literally to kick off the professional football season last weekend by booting the first football at the Washington Redskins' game.

The President was willing, and officials tried to arrange the game on Saturday, the day before the other teams play--the same as the baseball opener.

But the TV executives refused to change their schedule. Result: There was no opening game and no kick-off ceremony by the President.

SOCRATES AND SANTA

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler, asked in Europe what advice he had come to give the financial community, said he had taken to heart what a grade-school girl once wrote about Socrates.

"Socrates was a wise man," she wrote. "He gave advice. He was poisoned and died."

Afterward, aides presented Fowler with a miniature Santa Claus. An attached note declared: "This is one fellow they will never poison."

PRAISE FOR LBJ

Most of our European allies are critical of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies, but West Germany's acting Secretary of State Felix Von Eckardt has come out in strong support.

In an article in Quick Magazine, one of the most widely read in West Germany, Von Eckardt declares:

"The worldwide engagements which the United States took upon itself for the national and personal liberty of the non-Communist states must be looked upon as a whole. Such guarantees must be fulfilled to uphold the political and military value of all such U. S. commitments.

"It's not only the national prestige of the United States which is at stake, but the value of American power as a protecting nation."

Mrs. Robert Eugene Taylor

Miss Lana Kay Mulcahy Says Vows With Robert E. Taylor

First Baptist Church was the scene Saturday, September fourth, at eight-thirty in the evening, when Miss Lana Kay Mulcahy pledged her nuptial vows with Robert Eugene Taylor.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Mulcahy, 815 Greer. Mr. Taylor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira "Scotty" Taylor, 711 Montgomery.

The Reverend James W. Hackney performed the double ring ceremony before a setting of two large baskets of different colored dahlias, greenery and colladiums. Candelabrum holding 28 white tapers and an arch decorated with ivy and mums completed the background.

Shirley Altom, organist, furnished the wedding music. Soloist Arnold B. Heuiser, cousin of the bride, sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of Chantilly lace and peau de soie designed and hand fashioned for her by her cousin, Mrs. Wilma Wood. The bodice was of Chantilly lace fashioned with a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves closed with tiny covered buttons.

The floor - length skirt of peau de soie was accented with a front panel of tiers of Chantilly lace. Beaded lace motifs graced the panel and bottom of the skirt.

The detachable train, made of peau de soie, was scalloped and trimmed in the same beaded lace motifs. The applique was repeated in large V's on the train. The train fell from a large satin bow.

Her headpiece, also fashioned by Mrs. Wood, was a matching lace cornet embroidered with crystal and seed pearls. An elbow - length veil of illusion fell from the headdress.

The bride carried a colonial bouquet of white baby mums centered with a white orchid. White satin streamers tied in lovers' knots fell from the floral arrangement.

Miss Marcia Mulcahy, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Janice Shipman, cousin of the bride, and Miss Brenda Stacy. David and Donna Mulcahy, twin brother and sister of the bride, were candlelighters. Little Beth Heuiser, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

The attendants wore gowns of blue brocade satin styled with A-line skirts and boat necklines accented with bows and cabbage roses in the back. The headpieces were large bows of self-fabric with blue nosetip veils of tulle. They carried bouquets of white baby mums.

Bill Taylor, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Dwight Vaughn, cousin of the groom, and Fred Matthews. Bobby Williamson and Dean Crowell of Osage Beach, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

Steve Taylor, nephew of the bridegroom, and John Howard Wood, cousin of the bride, were ring bearers.

Mrs. Mulcahy chose for her daughter's wedding a light blue linen dress with blue accessories and a white baby mum corsage. The groom's mother wore a beige linen dress with brown and beige accessories and a corsage of white baby mums.

Following the ceremony, the newly wed couple received their guests in the dining hall of the church. The bride's table was covered in blue and overlaid in blue tulle. White bows draped the cover at the corners of the table. Arrangements of pale yellow marigolds were accented on each side with white tapers. Mrs. M. H. Davis and Mrs. Eldon Ziegenhorn arranged the flowers. A three tiered wedding cake decorated in white and blue was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Yellow punch was also served to the guests.

Serving at the reception were Mrs. James Bryant, Mrs. Glenn Childers, Mrs. George Hensley, Mrs. Ray Bennett, Mrs. Wilma Wood, Mrs. Bill Taylor and Miss Garnetta Byrd. Miss Nancy Bryant was in charge of the guest register. Rice bags were given to the guests by Tim Morris.

After the reception, the new Mr. and Mrs. Taylor left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For travel, Mrs. Taylor wore a two piece pink lace dress with black patent accessories and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

They are now residing at 210 Woodlawn.

The former Miss Mulcahy is employed by Security Federal Savings and Loan Association as a secretary. The groom is a student at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chism and family of St. Ann, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Schneider and family of Alton, Ill., Dean Crowell of Osage Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Crowell of Springfield, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Jones of Springfield, Ill., Mrs. Ruth Crowell of Kansas City, Mrs. William Wood and children of Elvaston, Ill., Mrs. Tom T. Taylor, Tom Taylor, Jr., and Marjorie Taylor, all of Gobbler.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Morris and Tim of Evansville, Ind., Charlotte Foster of Florissant, Thomas R. Vincent of Fort Campbell, Ky., Hobert Kellett of Kansas City, Jack Crowell of Essex, Mrs. Louise Lacey of Dexter, Mrs. Lucille Lunt of Elvaston, Ill., and Basil Frederick of Lilbourn.

Rehearsal was held September 3 at the church. After rehearsal the bridal couple presented their gifts to the wedding party. Guests were served cake and punch.

A miscellaneous bridal shower honored the bride at Community Room of Security National Bank. The hostess were Mrs. James Bryant, Mrs. Louis Goehri, Mrs. Caster Alsup, Mrs. Glenn Childers, Mrs. George Hensley, Mrs. Ray Bennett, Mrs. Merrill Miller, Mrs. Johnny McVey, Miss Brenda Stacy, Mrs. Shirley LaMarque, Mrs. Frances Wallace and Miss Nancy Bryant.

The chosen colors of the bride were used in decorations. The gift table was covered in white and overlaid with blue net. White wedding bells decorated the table. The serving table was covered in white and overlaid in blue net. A large white cake with the names "Lana and Robert" inscribed in blue centered the table. Arrangements of blue and white roses appointed each side of the cake.

Games were played with the winners presenting the honoree with the prizes. Refreshments of cake, punch, mints and nuts were served by the hostesses.

Those attending the shower were Mrs. David Mulcahy, mother of the honoree; Mrs. Paul Mulcahy, grandmother of the honoree; Donna and Marcia Mulcahy, sisters of the honoree; Vicki Schindler, Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Ronald Lee, Mrs. Denny Shipman, Mrs. Edgar Byrd, Mrs. Eileen Coleman, Mrs. Hansel Duncan.

"Just Arrived"

CARTER

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Carter of Portageville are the parents of a baby boy born Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau. This is the couple's first child and he weighed 6 pounds and 10 ounces. Mrs. Carter is the former Miss Norma Jean Duff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Duff of Portageville. Mr. Carter, son of Mrs. Robert Carter of Portageville, is a self-employed plumber at Portageville.

My short legs and my mother's buttered biscuits assured there would be no athletic medals on my chest. I went out for track solely for the exercise. Having plenty of wind but no speed, I could run for miles.

When our stellar half-miler got sick on the ground, the coach, saving his faster runners each for his specialty event, shoved me at the last moment into the gruelling 880-yard dash.

At the gun I set my pace with the leaders and held that position throughout the first lap. Then a lead runner charged ahead, and others passed me, two, three, four, 'til soon all nine were ahead of me and all I could do was hold my steady pace.

Coming up the homestretch, the runner just ahead of me peeled off to the right and flopped on the grass beside the cinder track as if to shed his guilt. Then another and another, six fell out of the race ahead of me.

The tape was broken a fraction of a second before the second and third place winners, and I was in a miserable fourth and last place, 40 yards behind.

The thunderous applause from the crowd for the winners crushed my spirit. The din continued, until suddenly I realized it was not applause, but taunts! The cheers had turned to jeers, for me!

As I hammered at my unfaltering stride I accused myself, "Why hadn't I dropped out with the others a half lap back?" "Coach oughtn'ta made me run this race." "Wish I could drop dead."

Crossing the finish line six full seconds behind the winners, I was stopped by the waiting arms of a leading citizen and self-appointed adviser and friend.

"I'm proud of you, Boy! You finished the race!"

Few times in my annual or oftener short visits to my old home town during the almost 40 years that have passed has not some one honored me with the reminder:

"You're the boy who finished the race!"

Later, in college and medical school I saw students with grades better than mine drop out of classes and quit school before the term was over.

Many times my back has been to the wall. I have been run over, trampled upon, browbeaten, blackjacked, jailed falsely, lied to and lied about, cheated, stolen from, and just plain rooked.

But because one man was proud I finished the race, there have never been any "incompletes" on my card.

CARTER

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Carter of Portageville are the parents of a baby boy born Tuesday at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau. This is the couple's first child and he weighed 6 pounds and 10 ounces. Mrs. Carter is the former Miss Norma Jean Duff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Duff of Portageville. Mr. Carter, son of Mrs. Robert Carter of Portageville, is a self-employed plumber at Portageville.

My short legs and my mother's buttered biscuits assured there would be no athletic medals on my chest. I went out for track solely for the exercise. Having plenty of wind but no speed, I could run for miles.

When our stellar half-miler got sick on the ground, the coach, saving his faster runners each for his specialty event, shoved me at the last moment into the gruelling 880-yard dash.

At the gun I set my pace with the leaders and held that position throughout the first lap. Then a lead runner charged ahead, and others passed me, two, three, four, 'til soon all nine were ahead of me and all I could do was hold my steady pace.

Coming up the homestretch, the runner just ahead of me peeled off to the right and flopped on the grass beside the cinder track as if to shed his guilt. Then another and another, six fell out of the race ahead of me.

The tape was broken a fraction of a second before the second and third place winners, and I was in a miserable fourth and last place, 40 yards behind.

The thunderous applause from the crowd for the winners crushed my spirit. The din continued, until suddenly I realized it was not applause, but taunts! The cheers had turned to jeers, for me!

As I hammered at my unfaltering stride I accused myself, "Why hadn't I dropped out with the others a half lap back?" "Coach oughtn'ta made me run this race." "Wish I could drop dead."

Crossing the finish line six full seconds behind the winners, I was stopped by the waiting arms of a leading citizen and self-appointed adviser and friend.

"I'm proud of you, Boy! You finished the race!"

Few times in my annual or oftener short visits to my old home town during the almost 40 years that have passed has not some one honored me with the reminder:

"You're the boy who finished the race!"

Later, in college and medical school I saw students with grades better than mine drop out of classes and quit school before the term was over.

Many times my back has been to the wall. I have been run over, trampled upon, browbeaten, blackjacked, jailed falsely, lied to and lied about, cheated, stolen from, and just plain rooked.

But because one man was proud I finished the race, there have never been any "incompletes" on my card.

St. Louis Cardinals Beat Houston Astros 3-0

Cards-A's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The season cannot end too soon for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City A's, but Ray Sadecki must be wishing it was just beginning.

The Cardinal lefthander seems to have finally regained the form that made him a 20-game winner last season. He was never better than Tuesday night when he blanked the Houston Astros on five hits for 8 1-3 innings before walking two men and giving way to Hal Woodeshick.

Woodeshick got the double-play and the Cardinals got a 3-0 victory over Houston, only their fifth triumph over the Astros in 13 games.

For Sadecki, it was only his sixth victory against 13 defeats, but almost all of them have come in the last month. He also doubled home the second St. Louis run.

The A's continued the druggery of another last-place season Tuesday night, losing to the Washington Senators in Kansas City, 4-3. A bases loaded walk to rookie Jim French settled the issue in the eighth inning.

French also cracked his first home run in the seventh and Jim King provided the other two runs with a homer in the first inning.

Ken Harrelson got the only Kansas City hit--a home run--off Jim Duckworth in seven innings, but the A's got two in the eighth to tie.

The teams meet again tonight with Pete Richert 15-10 of Washington scheduled to face Ron Tompkins 0-0.

The Cardinals close their home season against the Astros with rookie Larry Jaster 0-0 of the Cardinals opposing veteran Robin Roberts 4-2.

96 Yrs. Since Invention Of Football

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It is 96 years ago since Princeton and Rutgers invented what now is known as American football. The rivalry was intense then and will be again Saturday when these ancient foes meet. That's about the only thing that remains the same, everything else has changed including the probable winner.

Rutgers won that first game but this time Princeton is the pick, perhaps by the same margin as the Tigers' 10-7 triumph of a year ago. There's added interest this season because twin brothers are the rival captains. Paul Savidge is a guard and the Princeton leader, Pete Savidge, is a center and the Rutgers captain.

Other picks for the coming weekend:

Purdue over Notre Dame: The Big Ten Boilermakers have burst previous Notre Dame bubbles and will do it again, drawing strength from the backing of the hometown crowd. Purdue will contain the speedy Nick Rassas.

Nebraska over Air Force: The Huskers have the better battery.

Texas over Texas Tech: But the losers' Donny Anderson will be the star of the game.

Michigan over California: The defending Rose Bowl champions still have plenty left.

Arkansas over Tulsa: Jon Brittenum has taken over as the Porker quarterback, the team's only major weak spot.

Louisiana State over Rice: The Texans will think they are being entertained by Hurricane Betsy.

Florida over Mississippi State: The Gators romped over Northwestern last Saturday.

Syracuse over Miami of Florida: Floyd Little was held in check last week. It can't be done two weeks in a row.

Kentucky over Mississippi: The home field gives the Wildcats a thin edge.

Georgia over Vanderbilt: The Georgia Bulldogs showed they could bite as well as growl in their amazing triumph over Alabama.

Iowa over Oregon State: Your television entertainment. The Coast Rose Bowl team lost 19 lettermen and it's coach.

Penn State over Michigan State: Two powerhouses. It should be close.

Minnesota over Washington State: The Gophers have found the quarterback they needed.

Ohio State over North Carolina: There are too many Ohioans.

19th Annual Shoot Of Ducks Unlimited

The 19th Annual Benefit Shoot of the Western Missouri Chapter of Ducks Unlimited will be held this year at the new Greater Kansas City Winchester Public Shooting Center on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 2 and 3.

As in the past, waterfowl will be the major beneficiaries of the annual event since all net proceeds from the shoot will go into Ducks Unlimited conservation projects. But people -- specifically shooters -- will run a close second, in terms of fun, prizes, trophies and sociability.

Starting at 8 a.m. on both days there will be a 50-target event in skeet and 16-yard trap. Regular Amateur Trapshooting Association and 12-gauge National Skeet Shooting Association classes will be used for registered shooters. Non-registered shooters will be classified into special Hunter classes by the Ducks Unlimited Shoot Committee.

The Lewis Class system will be used to award prizes and trophies, with three prizes available per class. Re-entries are permitted and a shooter may shoot any event as many times as he wishes by paying the $5.00 entry fee for each 50 targets. Shooters who break red targets, randomly mixed in with regular clay birds, will collect an additional prize.

Supplementing the shooting competition will be duck and goose calling contests. A separate junior class will lead off the duck calling competition on Saturday, at 2:00 p.m. Immediately following, at 2:30 p.m., a qualifying round will be held for the duck calling championship division.

Finals in the duck calling championship will get under way on Sunday, at 2:00 p.m., with the previous day's two semi-finalists, the junior class winner and all former champions eligible to compete for the 1965 title. Honker hunters will have their chance to vie for honors in the Open Goose Calling contest scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. The competition will be open to all classes, with no qualifying rounds required.

The Greater Kansas City Winchester Public Shooting Center, newest and most modern trap and skeet installation in the region, is situated approximately 16 miles south of Overland Park, Kansas, on Bucyrus Road, two-and-one-half miles east of U. S. Route 69. From the Missouri side, the center is easily reached by driving south on Holmes Road to 245th St., then west for one-and-a-half miles to Bucyrus Road.

The center's six trap and five skeet fields, all fully illuminated for night shooting, offer what is believed to be one of the finest backgrounds for shooting in the nation. A large modern club house, complete with lounge and machine-dispensed refreshments, adjoins the shooting fields and a spacious parking lot.

Owned and operated by the Greater Kansas City Trap and Skeet Association, Inc., the Winchester Public Shooting Center is managed by Richard Ristow. The center is open to the public Tuesday and Fridays (noon - 6 p.m.), Wednesday and Thursdays (Noon - 10 p.m.), Saturdays and Sundays (10 a.m. -- 6 p.m.).

Winchester shotguns, ammunition and free instructions are available on the grounds. Ammunition is sold for use on the premises only and guns can be rented at nominal cost. Shooters who wish to bring their own guns and ammunition are, of course, welcome and are charged only for clay targets.

During the 19th Annual Benefit Shoot of the Western Missouri Chapter of Ducks Unlimited, the shooting hours at the Greater Kansas City Winchester Public Shooting Center will run from 8:00 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and from 8:00 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Sunday. Officials for the shoot are: Ernest Jelley, general chairman; Bud Craddock and Mr. Jelley, shooting rules committee, and J. R. "Bob" Clagett, duck and goose calling contest chairman.

For further information on the 19th Annual Benefit Shoot or on the Greater Kansas City Winchester Public Shooting Center, phone Richard Ristow, (913) 964-9044.

Drysdale 21st Victory

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Drysdale -- good hitting pitcher, or good-pitching hitter?

Take your pick. He's helping keep the Los Angeles Dodgers afire in the National League race with both his arm and his bat.

Drysdale's versatile performance Tuesday night was typical. The tall right-hander recorded his 21st pitching victory of the season with a six-hitter, drove in the clinching run with a single, and helped build an insurance run with another single.

Result: The Dodgers' fifth straight victory, 3-1 over Milwaukee, and a notch upward in pennant scramble.

Second-place Los Angeles now is three games back of the San Francisco Giants, who were trimmed 7-4 by Cincinnati after an error by first baseman Willie McCovey opened the way for four unearned runs.

Drysdale's two hits raised his batting average to .298, highest for the Dodgers, while his third straight victory raised his pitching record to 21-12. The lone Milwaukee run, in the fourth inning after an error by Maury Wills, was unearned--giving the Dodger pitching staff the remarkable distinction of allowing just one earned run in 45 innings covering the club's five-game winning string.

In other NL action -- Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer with two out in the last of the ninth lifted the Pittsburgh Pirates to their fifth straight victory, 6-5 over the New York Mets; Ron Santo rapped two homers and drove in six runs as the Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 7-5; and St. Louis blanked Houston 3-0.

In the American League -- Baltimore topped front-running Minnesota 6-4 in 10 innings, Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 6-2, the New York Yankees bombed Cleveland 9-4, Washington shaded Kansas City 4-3, and California whipped Boston 4-0.

The Giants, who had won 17 of their last 18 games, went into the sixth inning at Cincinnati with a 4-1 lead -- but came out of it trailing 7-4.

Two Red runs were in, two were out and bases were loaded when Tommy Harper sent a grounder to McCovey. The big first baseman bobbled it, enabling another run to score. Then Pete Rose's single made it 5-4, and Vada Pinson capped the rally with his second hit of the inning -- a two-run single.

Frank Robinson hit his 30th homer for the Reds, and Jim Davenport homered with two on for the Giants.

Cleveland Fighter Is Fined

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, said today that Joe Cronin, president of the American League, had made a "very serious mistake" in fining Pedro Gonzalez with a hearing.

Cronin, on Tuesday, fined Gonzalez, a Cleveland infielder, $500 and suspended him for the remainder of the season "for engaging in a physical attack with a baseball bat" on Detroit pitcher Larry Sherry in Monday night's game in Cleveland.

The incident occurred in the fifth inning after Sherry had thrown two close pitches to Gonzalez. A melee resulted when Gonzalez charged Sherry with the bat in his hand. Gonzalez was ejected after order was restored.

"You have made a very serious mistake, particularly since you disregarded a request for a hearing before rendering a decision," Paul said in a telegram to Cronin's office in Boston. "It is positively unjust to convict a man and impose such a heavy penalty without giving him an opportunity to state his case."

Cronin could not be reached for comment on Paul's views.

Gonzalez, who learned of Cronin's action after he had arrived here with the Cleveland team for a series with the Yankees, said he didn't hit Sherry and "I don't remember even swinging at him. If I had wanted to hit him with the bat, I would have.

"I'm not saying I was right in going after him with a bat, but sometimes you don't think. Why should he want to throw at me? I never do nothing to him."

The episode recalled the Juan Marichal-John Roseboro incident in August.

Jack Nicklaus Competes For 6,000

SEATTLE AP -- The $45,000 Greater Seattle Open Golf Tournament gets under way Thursday with three of its four former champions hoping to repeat.

Bobby Nichols, who took the title two years ago, has pneumonia and withdrew Tuesday.

Competing for the $6,000 top prize will be Jack Nicklaus, the 1962 champion whose victory in the Portland Open last week boosted his total earnings to a record $145,539; Dave Marr, the winner in 1961, and defending champion Billy Casper.

Gary Lewis Rushing Leader

NEW YORK (AP) - Gary Lewis, an obscure minor league player at this time last year, is the rushing leader of the National Football League after the first week of action.

Lewis ground out 91 yards in seven carries for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday in their 52-24 romp over the Chicago Bears, including a 60-yard touchdown run.

John Brodie's passing against the Chicago Bears put the veteran San Francisco quarterback in first place with an average of 13.45 yards.

Persistent Middle Linebacker

NEW YORK (AP) - If Charley Johnson still has a feeling he is being followed, blame it on Dave Lloyd, the persistent middle linebacker of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Lloyd, an important member of the Eagles' blitzing defense that threw the St. Louis quarterback six times for losses of 58 yards has been named the defensive player of the week in the National Football League by The Associated Press. Philadelphia upset St. Louis 34-27.

"Johnson will be looking at those movies again and again trying to figure out what Lloyd was doing to him," said Joe Kuharich, the Eagles' coach.

The 248-pound former Georgia star who lost 10 pounds in the 94-degree heat at Franklin Field said the Eagles overshifted with the tackles head up on the Cardinal center, leaving only the fullback between him and Johnson.

"I was able to get a running start," said Lloyd, formerly with Cleveland and Detroit before he moved to Philadelphia in 1963.

Bill Mazeroski kept the Pirates alive against the Mets with a one-out single in the ninth. Then, after reliever Dave Eilers fanned Willie Stargell, Pagliaroni tagged his game-winning homer.

Santo socked his 30th homer, with two aboard, in the first inning, singled across a run in the third, and broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth when he hit his 31st homer, with one on. Ernie Banks accounted for the other Cub run against the Phils with his 26th homer, in the first inning.

Ray Sadecki and Hal Woodeshick combined for a five-hitter in the Cardinals' shutout of the Astros. Sadecki, who doubled in one St. Louis run left with one out in the ninth after walking two men. Woodeshick gave up another walk, but Norman Miller then banged into a game-ending double play.

Drysdale 21st Victory

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Drysdale -- good hitting pitcher, or good-pitching hitter?

Take your pick. He's helping keep the Los Angeles Dodgers afire in the National League race with both his arm and his bat.

Drysdale's versatile performance Tuesday night was typical. The tall right-hander recorded his 21st pitching victory of the season with a six-hitter, drove in the clinching run with a single, and helped build an insurance run with another single.

Result: The Dodgers' fifth straight victory, 3-1 over Milwaukee, and a notch upward in pennant scramble.

Second-place Los Angeles now is three games back of the San Francisco Giants, who were trimmed 7-4 by Cincinnati after an error by first baseman Willie McCovey opened the way for four unearned runs.

Drysdale's two hits raised his batting average to .298, highest for the Dodgers, while his third straight victory raised his pitching record to 21-12. The lone Milwaukee run, in the fourth inning after an error by Maury Wills, was unearned--giving the Dodger pitching staff the remarkable distinction of allowing just one earned run in 45 innings covering the club's five-game winning string.

In other NL action -- Jim Pagliaroni's two-run homer with two out in the last of the ninth lifted the Pittsburgh Pirates to their fifth straight victory, 6-5 over the New York Mets; Ron Santo rapped two homers and drove in six runs as the Chicago Cubs beat Philadelphia 7-5; and St. Louis blanked Houston 3-0.

In the American League — Baltimore topped front-running Minnesota 6-4 in 10 innings, Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 6-2, the New York Yankees bombed Cleveland 9-4, Washington shaded Kansas City 4-3, and California whipped Boston 4-0.

The Giants, who had won 17 of their last 18 games, went into the sixth inning at Cincinnati with a 4-1 lead — but came out of it trailing 7-4.

Two Red runs were in, two were out and bases were loaded when Tommy Harper sent a grounder to McCovey. The big first baseman bobbled it, enabling another run to score. Then Pete Rose's single made it 5-4, and Vada Pinson capped the rally with his second hit of the inning — a two-run single.

Frank Robinson hit his 30th homer for the Reds, and Jim Davenport homered with two on for the Giants.

Cleveland Fighter Is Fined

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- Gabe Paul, president of the Cleveland Indians, said today that Joe Cronin, president of the American League, had made a "very serious mistake" in fining Pedro Gonzalez with a hearing.

Cronin, on Tuesday, fined Gonzalez, a Cleveland infielder, $500 and suspended him for the remainder of the season "for engaging in a physical attack with a baseball bat" on Detroit pitcher Larry Sherry in Monday night's game in Cleveland.

The incident occurred in the fifth inning after Sherry had thrown two close pitches to Gonzalez. A melee resulted when Gonzalez charged Sherry with the bat in his hand. Gonzalez was ejected after order was restored.

"You have made a very serious mistake, particularly since you disregarded a request for a hearing before rendering a decision," Paul said in a telegram to Cronin's office in Boston. "It is positively unjust to convict a man and impose such a heavy penalty without giving him an opportunity to state his case."

Cronin could not be reached for comment on Paul's views.

Gonzalez, who learned of Cronin's action after he had arrived here with the Cleveland team for a series with the Yankees, said he didn't hit Sherry and "I don't remember even swinging at him. If I had wanted to hit him with the bat, I would have.

"I'm not saying I was right in going after him with a bat, but sometimes you don't think. Why should he want to throw at me? I never do nothing to him."

The episode recalled the Juan Marichal-John Roseboro incident in August.

Jack Nicklaus Competes For 6,000

SEATTLE AP -- The $45,000 Greater Seattle Open Golf Tournament gets under way Thursday with three of its four former champions hoping to repeat.

Bobby Nichols, who took the title two years ago, has pneumonia and withdrew Tuesday.

Competing for the $6,000 top prize will be Jack Nicklaus, the 1962 champion whose victory in the Portland Open last week boosted his total earnings to a record $145,539; Dave Marr, the winner in 1961, and defending champion Billy Casper.

Gary Lewis Rushing Leader

NEW YORK (AP) - Gary Lewis, an obscure minor league player at this time last year, is the rushing leader of the National Football League after the first week of action.

Lewis ground out 91 yards in seven carries for the San Francisco 49ers Sunday in their 52-24 romp over the Chicago Bears, including a 60-yard touchdown run.

John Brodie's passing against the Chicago Bears put the veteran San Francisco quarterback in first place with an average of 13.45 yards.

Persistent Middle Linebacker

NEW YORK (AP) - If Charley Johnson still has a feeling he is being followed, blame it on Dave Lloyd, the persistent middle linebacker of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Lloyd, an important member of the Eagles' blitzing defense that threw the St. Louis quarterback six times for losses of 58 yards has been named the defensive player of the week in the National Football League by The Associated Press. Philadelphia upset St. Louis 34-27.

"Johnson will be looking at those movies again and again trying to figure out what Lloyd was doing to him," said Joe Kuharich, the Eagles' coach.

The 248-pound former Georgia star who lost 10 pounds in the 94-degree heat at Franklin Field said the Eagles overshifted with the tackles head up on the Cardinal center, leaving only the fullback between him and Johnson.

"I was able to get a running start," said Lloyd, formerly with Cleveland and Detroit before he moved to Philadelphia in 1963.

Bill Mazeroski kept the Pirates alive against the Mets with a one-out single in the ninth. Then, after reliever Dave Eilers fanned Willie Stargell, Pagliaroni tagged his game-winning homer.

Santo socked his 30th homer, with two aboard, in the first inning, singled across a run in the third, and broke a 5-5 tie in the eighth when he hit his 31st homer, with one on. Ernie Banks accounted for the other Cub run against the Phils with his 26th homer, in the first inning.

Ray Sadecki and Hal Woodeshick combined for a five-hitter in the Cardinals' shutout of the Astros. Sadecki, who doubled in one St. Louis run left with one out in the ninth after walking two men. Woodeshick gave up another walk, but Norman Miller then banged into a game-ending double play.

Woman Crazy Man On FBI Wanted List

EDWARD OWEN WATKINS

WASHINGTON - Edward Owen Watkins, a frequently paroled armed robber who is known as "woman crazy" and is alledgedly responsible for a string of Ohio bank robberies, has been added to the FBI's list of TEN MOST WANTED FUGITIVES. He is reportedly being aided in his flight by a young strip tease dancer who is wanted for aiding and abetting in connection with a bank robbery.

During a 4 1/2-month period in 1965, Watkins reportedly has participated in a series of bank robberies wherein loot totaling almost $103,000 was seized.

In both the gunpoint holdups of the Provident Office of the Cuyahoga Savings Association, Cleveland, Ohio, on July 9, when $45,344 was taken, and the $6,325 armed robbery of the Collinwood Office of the Central National Bank of Cleveland at Cleveland on June 21. Watkins alledgedly threatened any employees attempting to sound an alarm with being used for "target practice."

In addition, Watkins allegedly participated in the $4,488 holdup of a Cleveland bank on Feb 23; the $19,281 robbery of a Columbus, Ohio, bank on March 19; the robbery of a Lakewood, Ohio, bank on April 16 when $17,759 was taken; and the $9,613 holdup of a Lakewood, Ohio, bank on May 26.

Two individuals who have been charged with aiding Watkins in several of these bank robberies have been apprehended, one in Cleveland and the other in New Orleans, Louisiana.

Watkins is believed to be living in luxurious style during his flight from arrest, accompanied by Kathleen Marie Rosen, a tall and attractive fashion model, nude model and burlesque strip tease dancer who has utilized a variety of stage names and aliases. Rosen has been charged in a Federal warrant issued at Cleveland, Ohio, on July 13, 1965, with aiding and abetting in connection with the June 21st holdup at Cleveland.

Watkins has been charged with bank robbery in Federal warrants issued on July 12th and 13th at Cleveland, and September 1st at Columbus, Ohio.

The latest reign of lawlessness by Watkins alledgedly began 22 days after he was paroled from the Ohio State Penitentiary where he had been serving an armed robbery sentence. He has a 28-year criminal record which began in Cleveland in 1937 when he was arrested on a charge of robbery. Upon conviction, he was given a sentence of 10 to 25 years which he served in various Ohio penal insitiutions. He was released on parole several times while serving this sentence and returned to prison several times for violating this privilege.

In July, 1946, while on parole from Ohio, he was arrested in Tennessee, subsequently convicted for highway robbery and given a 5- to 15-year prison sentence. In January, 1952, he was again paroled.

Three months later, in April 1952, he and two accomplices robbed a Cleveland laundry. Apprehended by FBI Agents at Indianapolis, Indiana, while armed with two fully loaded pistols, Watkins was returned to Ohio and, upon conviciton, received a 10-25-year sentence in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Columbus. He was released on parole from this sentence on February 1, 1965, and less than a month later allegedly began his current crime binge.

Watkins is a white American who was reportedly born at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on April 10, 1919. He is 5' 10" tall, weighs 180 to 195 pounds, has brown eyes, black, graying hair, a heavy build and dark complexion. He has a small scar on his right cheek, one on his right arm and an appendectomy scar. He may wear glasses. Watkins has worked as a bookkeeper, typists, cook, clerk, door-to door salesman, painter, secretary, taxi driver, truck driver and window washer.

He reportedly enjoys frequenting night clubs featuring strip tease performers, spending lavishly on them, and likes gambling with dice, frequenly losing heavily. He is known to dress neatly and conservatively, to enjoy good food in expensive restaurants and to be a good cook, particularly fond of preparing pork chops with rice. Watkins reputedly drinks highballs, smokes cigarettes, likes air transportation and luxurious cars and brags about his past exploits.

Watkins has allegedly been the ruthless ringleader in several bank robberies, is known to have carried two fully loaded revolvers under his belt and should be considered extremely dangerous.

Should anyone have information concerning Watkins he is requested to notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of telephone directories.

Conclude Testimony In Labor Case

MALDEN -- Testimony in a hearing being conducted by the National Labor Relations Board on charges against the Sterling Division of Federal-Mogul Corportion in Malden was concluded in St. Louis Friday.

The charges, filed by the International Molders and Allied Workers Union, allege that the company violated the Taft-Hartley Act.

Malden testimony was concluded Wednesday afternoon. Some of the company officials and Malden attorney Veryl Riddle completed the testimony Friday in St. Louis.

Riddle said that no date has been set for the announcement of the hearing's results.

The hearing began in Poplar Bluff July 25 and was transferred to Malden the second week. Since that time all hearings have been conducted at the operations building at the Malden Airport.

Sidney Barban, trial examiner for the NLRB presided at the hearings. The union was represented by their agents, Frank Carducci and Earl Schlesinger and their attorneys, Philip Kaplan and Joseph H. Saline. Sterling was represented by the law firm of Riddle, O'Herin and Newberry of Malden.

In its complaint filed with the NLRB, the union is seeking to have 36 employes reinstated whom they claimed were discharged by the company for union activities after the union was voted down last fall, 146-106.

Also, they are seeking to have the election of September 21, 1964, set aside on the grounds that the Sterling Company engaged in unfair practices prior to the election.

The union is also seeking a federal court order for Sterling to negotiate with the Molders Union as a bargaining agent without an election.

The union claims it had a majority of the Sterling workers signed up prior to the election, but the company tactics destroyed the margin.

More than 200 witnesses were subpoenaed to testify in the case, either by the union or by Sterling.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --A former Blytheville airman, now turned civilian, has received a check from the Strategic Air Command (SAC) for his suggestion under the "Big R" program.

Airman Second Class Robert J. Persak, formally a mechanical accessories repairman with the 97th Field Maintenance Squadron, suggested a modification of a B-52 air enjector valve.

The suggestion was finally accepted by SAC, and they rewarded him with a check for $125. In the meantime however, Persak received his discharge from service early this summer.

To keep the record straight, the check will be forwarded on to Airman, now civilian, Persak.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., Sept. 13 -- Lieutenant Colonel Roger M. Warner recently assumed duties here as Vice Base Commander.

A veteran of over 24 years service, Colonel Warner entered service in 1940 as an enlisted man, and received his flying wings and commission one year later after completion of flying school at Kelly Field, Tex.

Following World War II Colonel Warner was stationed with the occupation forces in Japan. He later returned to Japan in 1954 as a B-29 bomber commander.

From 1950 until 1953, Colonel Warner was assigned to Patrick AFB, Fla. as the director of materiel. It was during this time that the first missile was tested at Cape Kennedy, adjacent to Patrick.

Among his service decorations he has the Army Commendation Medal and the Air Force Commendation Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster.

A native of Champagne, Ill., Colonel Warner is married to the former Miss Laverne Turner, and they have two sons.

Prior to his assignment here, Colonel Warner was stationed at Dyess AFB, Tex. where he was the base commander.

Conclude Testimony In Labor Case

MALDEN -- Testimony in a hearing being conducted by the National Labor Relations Board on charges against the Sterling Division of Federal-Mogul Corportion in Malden was concluded in St. Louis Friday.

The charges, filed by the International Molders and Allied Workers Union, allege that the company violated the Taft-Hartley Act.

Malden testimony was concluded Wednesday afternoon. Some of the company officials and Malden attorney Veryl Riddle completed the testimony Friday in St. Louis.

Riddle said that no date has been set for the announcement of the hearing's results.

The hearing began in Poplar Bluff July 25 and was transferred to Malden the second week. Since that time all hearings have been conducted at the operations building at the Malden Airport.

Sidney Barban, trial examiner for the NLRB presided at the hearings. The union was represented by their agents, Frank Carducci and Earl Schlesinger and their attorneys, Philip Kaplan and Joseph H. Saline. Sterling was represented by the law firm of Riddle, O'Herin and Newberry of Malden.

In its complaint filed with the NLRB, the union is seeking to have 36 employes reinstated whom they claimed were discharged by the company for union activities after the union was voted down last fall, 146-106.

Also, they are seeking to have the election of September 21, 1964, set aside on the grounds that the Sterling Company engaged in unfair practices prior to the election.

The union is also seeking a federal court order for Sterling to negotiate with the Molders Union as a bargaining agent without an election.

The union claims it had a majority of the Sterling workers signed up prior to the election, but the company tactics destroyed the margin.

More than 200 witnesses were subpoenaed to testify in the case, either by the union or by Sterling.

Armed Forces

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., --A former Blytheville airman, now turned civilian, has received a check from the Strategic Air Command (SAC) for his suggestion under the "Big R" program.

Airman Second Class Robert J. Persak, formally a mechanical accessories repairman with the 97th Field Maintenance Squadron, suggested a modification of a B-52 air enjector valve.

The suggestion was finally accepted by SAC, and they rewarded him with a check for $125. In the meantime however, Persak received his discharge from service early this summer.

To keep the record straight, the check will be forwarded on to Airman, now civilian, Persak.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK., Sept. 13 -- Lieutenant Colonel Roger M. Warner recently assumed duties here as Vice Base Commander.

A veteran of over 24 years service, Colonel Warner entered service in 1940 as an enlisted man, and received his flying wings and commission one year later after completion of flying school at Kelly Field, Tex.

Following World War II Colonel Warner was stationed with the occupation forces in Japan. He later returned to Japan in 1954 as a B-29 bomber commander.

From 1950 until 1953, Colonel Warner was assigned to Patrick AFB, Fla. as the director of materiel. It was during this time that the first missile was tested at Cape Kennedy, adjacent to Patrick.

Among his service decorations he has the Army Commendation Medal and the Air Force Commendation Medal with one Oak Leaf Cluster.

A native of Champagne, Ill., Colonel Warner is married to the former Miss Laverne Turner, and they have two sons.

Prior to his assignment here, Colonel Warner was stationed at Dyess AFB, Tex. where he was the base commander.

Gale R. Pruett

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman Third Class Gale R. Pruett, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pruett of R.R. 2, Dexter, Mo., has been selected for technical training as an air policeman at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Pruett, who has just completed U.S. Air Force basic military training at Lackland, is a member of the Air Training Command which conducts the educational programs necessary to provide skilled fliers and technicians for the aerospace force.

The airman is a 1965 graduate of Bloomfield (Mo.) High School.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. -- Airman Second Class Darrel R. Worley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Worley of 1410 E. Oak St., Dexter, Mo., has been selected Outstanding Airman of the month for his unit at Nellis AFB, Nev.

Airman Worley, a materiel specialist, was honored for his exemplary conduct and duty performance. He is a member of the Tactical Air Command which supports U.S. ground forces with air strikes, aerial delivery of troops and equipment and other combat airpower.

The airman is a graduate of Dexter Senior High School.

U. S. FORCES, GERMANY (AHTNC) -- Army Specialist Four John D. Clubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Clubbs, Route 1, Parma, Mo., is a member of the 4th Armored Division's 504th Administrative Company which was presented a certificate of excellence Sept. 4 as the outstanding personnel services division in the 7th Corps for the 1965 fiscal year.

The award was made in recognition of the Company's high efficiency in handling pay and personnel records.

Clubbs, an IBM Key-punch operator, entered the Army in June 1963, completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and was last assigned at Fort Polk, La.

Clubbs, 19, was graduated from Parma High School in 1963.

Lionel A. Cook

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman Lionel A. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvel D. Cook of 507 E. Ninth St., Portageville, Mo., has been selected for technical training at Gunter AFB, Ala., as a U.S. Air Force medical services specialist.

Airman Cook recently completed basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex. His new school is part of the Air Training Command which conducts hundreds of specialized courses to provide technically-trained personnel for the nation's aerospace force.

The airman is a 1963 graduate of Portageville High School.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. -- Airman Third Class John H. Cohen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cohen Sr., has received his first permanent U.S. Air Force duty assignment after completing basic military training at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Airman Cohen has been designated for training and duty as a supply specialist at Grand Forks AFB, N. D. He becomes a member of the Strategic Air Command, America's long - range nuclear bomber and missile force.

John H. Cohen

The airman is a 1963 graduate of Sikeston Senior High School.

New Type Confidence Men Since Medicare

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Paul J. Palmer, social security district manager, today cautioned Southeast Missouri residents about a new type of confidence man who has appeared in some sections of the country since passage of the new "medicare" provisions of the social security program.

He stated that the confidence men often represent themselves as employes of the Social Security Administration and say that they are authorized to sell and receive payment for health insurance in advance, at a discount.

These men attempt to swindle elderly people by confusing them about the new health insurance program, Palmer, added.

Particularly for the person 65 or older, the first line of defense against these swindlers is accurate information about both kinds of health insurance protection available under the program -- hospital insurance and medical insurance. The most accurate source of such information is the social security office at Cape Girardeau. The telephone number is ED 4-5281.

Medicare information kits are now being mailed to social security and railroad retirement beneficiaries. Each kit contains a booklet that tells the beneficiary what health services he or she gets under the basic hospital insurance plan and what additional supplementary protection is available under the voluntary medical insurance program.

An equally important line of defense against such swindlers, Palmer said, is the use of caution. Should a stranger implying that he works for social security call on you, always ask for his identification. If he asks for a fee to obtain a "medicare discount" or an increase in your monthly cash benefits, he's not a social security representative. Bonafide social security representatives never resent your precautions. Nor do they charge or accept fees for trying to help you.

People 65 and older on the social security or railroad retirement rolls do not need to take any action to get the basic hospital insurance protection, Palmer emphasized. But they need to let the Social Security Administration know that they want to take the voluntary medical insurance by completing and returning the enrollment card mailed to them with their information kit.

People over 65 who are eligible for social security benefits but who haven't applied for them because they are still working should get in touch with the nearest social security district office to apply as soon as possible. Even if they can't collect right now because their current earnings from employment are too high for them to qualify for benefits, they will be eligible for hospital insurance when it starts next July.

People over 65 who have never worked under social security -- or who have not worked long enough to qualify for social security benefits -- will need to apply for both hospital insurance and the voluntary medical insurance. However, those who are receiving old-age assistance under a public welfare program will get information on how to sign up at a later date.

People who will be 65 before the end of this year have until March 31, 1966 to apply for the voluntary medical insurance, which requires payment of a $3 monthly premium beginning July 1. This amount is matched by a monthly premium paid by the Government.

Hospital insurance and medical insurance protection under social security do not begin until the first of July 1966, Palmer said. He urged persons 65 and older not to cancel prior to this date any hospital insurance or medical insurance they may have.

Car Prices Affect Cost Of Living

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK -- Next to higher food prices a hike in the price tag on new cars is most likely to spell a rising cost of living to most people.

A costlier car means more to many auto - conscious Americans than even dearer clothing or higher rents.

With all of these tending upward this year, it's a good thing that incomes also are expected to rise for a lot of people--but not all.

Food prices soared in the spring and early summer. And now the public is watching the debuts of the 1966 car models both for their new styling and their price tags.

Many would-be buyers have expected higher prices this fall ever since the wage increases in the auto industry.

But Chrysler, in announcing that most of its models this fall will cost more than last, says the increases don't reflect higher production costs. Mainly, says the auto maker, they result from inclusion in the standard price of a number of safety devices previously found in the list of extras which the buyer has become accustomed to take into account.

As the new models -- and the new price lists -- are unveiled, leaders in the auto industry are expressing conviction that the American public is still in a buying mood. They expect still another record sales year. General Motors predicts car sales will rise by another two million units in the new model year.

The car makers may feel that higher prices can be made to stick.

People will doubtless grumble about the rising cost of living. They are more or less used to its going up gradually month after month, and react--mostly conversationally rather than in purse string tightening -- only when the spurt hits everyone at once, as in the case of rising food prices.

In a few days the government will issue another of its monthly reports on the cost of consumer prices. And most expect the index to rise again. Higher prices on new cars won't show up in the index until later.

The prospects for larger incomes to meet either a sizable or a gradual rise in living costs spring from these factors:

Employment is at a record high with good chances of even more people finding jobs and this means a higher total of personal income. For individuals, there are higher wage scales in many labor contracts this year, with some providing further increases next year also.

Social Security payments have been increased, bringing a bit more each month to those over 65. Next July medicare will cut the health care bills for many people and thus substitute for a rise in spendable income.

Dividend payments have risen this year for many stockholders. Profits have increased for many who are self-employed or run small business firms and the general expectation of a still more prosperous economy holds promise of still more jobs, still more take-home pay, still larger profits in the months ahead.

Fertility & Sterility

By Elizabeth Stewart
Women's Medical News Service

EXACT BIRTH DATE UNPREDICTABLE

"It's a wise obstetrician who refuses to pinpoint a pregnant patient's due date -- even when the pregnancy is planned." This is the view of Dr. Arthur Greeley, associate professor of bostetrics and gynecology, Cornell University Medical School, and obstetrician on the staff of New York Hospital.

Dr. Greeley, who has delivered more than 4,000 babies in the past 32 years, points out that although the average pregnancy is 266 days, some women may be pregnant for a somewhat shorter period, some for a longer one without anything being amiss.

Generally, babies are born when they have completed their full growth, he says. Whether this is 260 days or 270 days after conception is not significant. A woman who sees her doctor regularly during pregnancy need not be concerned about her due date, the doctor observes. The baby will be born when it is ready.

INFERTILE WOMEN HELPED BY BIRTH CONTROL PILL

"The pill," which is considered by physicians to be a 100 per cent effective contraceptive when taken properly, has still another and opposite effect. It can help make infertile women fertile.

Recent evidence comes from researchers in Canada's McGill University. They report that they gave "the pill" for an average of four to five menstrual cycles to 56 women who had been unable to conceive. When the oral contraceptive was withdrawn, almost 45 per cent of them became pregnant, half of them the month after "the pill" was discontinued.

The physicians who report these findings are Drs. W. S. M. Arrata and George Arronet.

PASTEL UNIFORMS MAKE HOSPITALS LESS SCARY

When children in a hospital are treated by nurses dressed in ordinary street clothes rather than their usual white uniforms and caps, the youngsters are apt to be less frightened and anxious. This is the finding of a study made by the Gainesville (Fla.) Hospital and Clinic, and reported in HOSPITALS, journal of the American Hospital Association.

Children from six months to five years, the study shows, "cried less, ate better, could be held for physical examination, and seemed more eager to be held" by nurses wearing colored dresses rather than white uniforms. School-age children, too, seemed more at ease.

Parents were also enthusiastic about the changeover. They felt that nurses were "more approachable" and their children "more manageable" in the changed atomosphere. One mother explained that her child had such a fear of white that the youngster was even afraid to go to the supermarket where the clerks wear white jackets. This is not an uncommon reaction, since children associate men and women in white with shots and medicine.

Venezuela Sells State Owned Property

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - "For sale: unprofitable sugar mills, railroads and hotel chain. For information contact Finance Minstry."

The Venezuelan government is not advertising quite this way, but wants to get rid of several state-owned enterprises. A spokesman says they have become a bureaucratic burden the government cannot afford to carry.

On the possible market list are six sugar mills owned by the Venezuelan Development Corp., the hotel chain Conahotu, the Railroad Institute, and bus lines.

What the government aims to do, in the case of the sugar mills for instance, is to seek a formula to turn them over to selected groups that will run them for the workers or in joint operation with the growers.

Eloy Anzola Montauban, the corporation president, has suggested that its enterprises could be turned into cooperatives of their stock offered for public sale.

The Conahotu runs 10 hotels and, despite promotional efforts, continues to lose money.

Imelda Marcos Aids Husband's Campaign

AP Special Report
By GEORGE MCARTHUR

MANILA (AP) — Imelda Marcos has the look of a beauty queen, the voice of a nightingale and the stamina of a paratrooper.

These assets may provide just the help her husband needs to become president of the Philippines. The election is Nov. 9 At 35, Imelda Marcos retains the 36-23-35 measurements that helped win her a beauty title and offers of moviedom more than a decade ago. She would be a formidable campaigner in any country. In Asia, where women are supposed to stay behind the scenes, she is a wonder.

In a tight, three-cornered race for the presidency, her husband, Sen. Ferdinand Marcos, 48, is slugging toe to toe with incumbent President Diosdado Macapagal while fighting off the flanking fire of Sen. Raul Manglapus.

Unfortunately for Macapagal and Manglapus, their wives are no match for Imelda on the campaign trail.

She sings at political rallies, crowns beauty queens, regally greets political callers and frequently goes careening along rutted back-country roads in a small campaign bus loaded with her accompanying "girls."

Her husband's campaign has been going full blast for 12 months. How does she feel about it all?

"Fine, just fine. Couldn't feel better. I just came back from Samar. We covered 52 barrios (villages or districts)."

Although she was born to an old political family on the island of Leyte, Imelda entered politics somewhat against her will. She didn't like it initially, then discovered it was the only way to keep up with her husband — whose energy matches hers.

They met in the cafeteria of the House of Representatives when she visited her father, then presiding officer.

In the tradition of his home province, he sent two roses to Imelda that very night — one in full bloom and one in delicate bud. They signified the full-blown love he already felt and the budding feeling he hoped to arouse in her.

Few young women could withstand such treatment from a war hero already regarded as the boy wonder of Philippine politics. She succumbed after a three-week courtship. Three children later she remains the envy of a beauty-loving nation.

Apart from praising her husband, Imelda publicly avoids issues but in private conversation she is thoroughly informed.

She is immune from attack.

"It would be unthinkable to attack a woman in the Philippines," admits one seasoned campaigner. "We have a national tradition of reverence for women and any candidate who got trapped into a thing like that would be finished."

The opposition acknowledges, somewhat ruefully, that there is little to be done about Imelda.

Theater Building Will House Regional Library

ILLMO -- The Ilmo Development Corporation announced the acquisition of the Rialto Theatre Building and the old post office building from O. W. Hartner and Mrs. Leona Hartner for $1. The post office building houses Trainmen's Hall.

The theatre building, which has been vacant is being remodeled by Seabaugh Construction Company of Jackson in preparation for occupancy by the Riverside regional library.

The development corporation has leased the building to the Riverside regional library. The building will be known as the Hartner Memorial building.

The building is to be ready about Oct. 20 when the library will move from the present quarters to occupy its new home which will give the library a space of 70 by 33 ft. The floor will be raised to the same level from front to back; the ceiling will be lowered to eight feet. The building will have a new front, with a canopy protecting the entrance from sun and weather.

Riverside regional library opened the Ilmo branch in April of 1957 in the building owned by Mrs. Geneva Sitze. In 1959 the library moved across the street into the building owned by Mrs. Agnes Hopke.

Otto Koenig, librarian of the Riverside Regional Library reports that during these eight years the library has grown much. From a small beginning, the book collection has grown to 11,000 volumes. During the first six months of this year, approximately 5,000 books were issued, 115 records, 28 film strips and 27 16 mm. films were loaned. The average attendance of the story hour this summer was 66 children.

Dexter Radioman In Project

ZAMBALES PHILLIPINES -- Naval Radioman Second Class Curtis L. Lively, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Lively of 227 S. Elm St., Dexter, Mo., participated in "Operation Schoolhouse" while serving at the naval communication station.

"Schoolhouse" provided tuition to Fillipino students who have academic promise but were too poor to attend school. The students passed an examination and other requirements before they were eligible to be sponsored.

The prospects for larger incomes to meet either a sizable or a gradual rise in living costs spring from these factors:

Employment is at a record high with good chances of even more people finding jobs and this means a higher total of personal income. For individuals, there are higher wage scales in many labor contracts this year, with some providing further increases next year also.

Social Security payments have been increased, bringing a bit more each month to those over 65. Next July medicare will cut the health care bills for many people and thus substitute for a rise in spendable income.

Dividend payments have risen this year for many stockholders. Profits have increased for many who are self-employed or run small business firms and the general expectation of a still more prosperous economy holds promise of still more jobs, still more take-home pay, still larger profits in the months ahead.

Fertility & Sterility

EXACT BIRTH DATE UNPREDICTABLE

"It's a wise obstetrician who refuses to pinpoint a pregnant patient's due date -- even when the pregnancy is planned." This is the view of Dr. Arthur Greeley, associate professor of bostetrics and gynecology, Cornell University Medical School, and obstetrician on the staff of New York Hospital.

Dr. Greeley, who has delivered more than 4,000 babies in the past 32 years, points out that although the average pregnancy is 266 days, some women may be pregnant for a somewhat shorter period, some for a longer one without anything being amiss.

Generally, babies are born when they have completed their full growth, he says. Whether this is 260 days or 270 days after conception is not significant. A woman who sees her doctor regularly during pregnancy need not be concerned about her due date, the doctor observes. The baby will be born when it is ready.

INFERTILE WOMEN HELPED BY BIRTH CONTROL PILL

"The pill," which is considered by physicians to be a 100 per cent effective contraceptive when taken properly, has still another and opposite effect. It can help make infertile women fertile.

Recent evidence comes from researchers in Canada's McGill University. They report that they gave "the pill" for an average of four to five menstrual cycles to 56 women who had been unable to conceive. When the oral contraceptive was withdrawn, almost 45 per cent of them became pregnant, half of them the month after "the pill" was discontinued.

The physicians who report these findings are Drs. W. S. M. Arrata and George Arronet.

PASTEL UNIFORMS MAKE HOSPITALS LESS SCARY

When children in a hospital are treated by nurses dressed in ordinary street clothes rather than their usual white uniforms and caps, the youngsters are apt to be less frightened and anxious. This is the finding of a study made by the Gainesville (Fla.) Hospital and Clinic, and reported in HOSPITALS, journal of the American Hospital Association.

Children from six months to five years, the study shows, "cried less, ate better, could be held for physical examination, and seemed more eager to be held" by nurses wearing colored dresses rather than white uniforms. School-age children, too, seemed more at ease.

Parents were also enthusiastic about the changeover. They felt that nurses were "more approachable" and their children "more manageable" in the changed atomosphere. One mother explained that her child had such a fear of white that the youngster was even afraid to go to the supermarket where the clerks wear white jackets. This is not an uncommon reaction, since children associate men and women in white with shots and medicine.

Venezuela Sells State Owned Property

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - "For sale: unprofitable sugar mills, railroads and hotel chain. For information contact Finance Minstry."

The Venezuelan government is not advertising quite this way, but wants to get rid of several state-owned enterprises. A spokesman says they have become a bureaucratic burden the government cannot afford to carry.

On the possible market list are six sugar mills owned by the Venezuelan Development Corp., the hotel chain Conahotu, the Railroad Institute, and bus lines.

What the government aims to do, in the case of the sugar mills for instance, is to seek a formula to turn them over to selected groups that will run them for the workers or in joint operation with the growers.

Eloy Anzola Montauban, the corporation president, has suggested that its enterprises could be turned into cooperatives of their stock offered for public sale.

The Conahotu runs 10 hotels and, despite promotional efforts, continues to lose money.

Imelda Marcos Aids Husband's Campaign

AP Special Report
By GEORGE MCARTHUR

MANILA (AP) — Imelda Marcos has the look of a beauty queen, the voice of a nightingale and the stamina of a paratrooper.

These assets may provide just the help her husband needs to become president of the Philippines. The election is Nov. 9 At 35, Imelda Marcos retains the 36-23-35 measurements that helped win her a beauty title and offers of moviedom more than a decade ago. She would be a formidable campaigner in any country. In Asia, where women are supposed to stay behind the scenes, she is a wonder.

In a tight, three-cornered race for the presidency, her husband, Sen. Ferdinand Marcos, 48, is slugging toe to toe with incumbent President Diosdado Macapagal while fighting off the flanking fire of Sen. Raul Manglapus.

Unfortunately for Macapagal and Manglapus, their wives are no match for Imelda on the campaign trail.

She sings at political rallies, crowns beauty queens, regally greets political callers and frequently goes careening along rutted back-country roads in a small campaign bus loaded with her accompanying "girls."

Her husband's campaign has been going full blast for 12 months. How does she feel about it all?

"Fine, just fine. Couldn't feel better. I just came back from Samar. We covered 52 barrios (villages or districts)."

Although she was born to an old political family on the island of Leyte, Imelda entered politics somewhat against her will. She didn't like it initially, then discovered it was the only way to keep up with her husband — whose energy matches hers.

They met in the cafeteria of the House of Representatives when she visited her father, then presiding officer.

In the tradition of his home province, he sent two roses to Imelda that very night — one in full bloom and one in delicate bud. They signified the full-blown love he already felt and the budding feeling he hoped to arouse in her.

Few young women could withstand such treatment from a war hero already regarded as the boy wonder of Philippine politics. She succumbed after a three-week courtship. Three children later she remains the envy of a beauty-loving nation.

Apart from praising her husband, Imelda publicly avoids issues but in private conversation she is thoroughly informed.

She is immune from attack.

"It would be unthinkable to attack a woman in the Philippines," admits one seasoned campaigner. "We have a national tradition of reverence for women and any candidate who got trapped into a thing like that would be finished."

The opposition acknowledges, somewhat ruefully, that there is little to be done about Imelda.

Theater Building Will House Regional Library

ILLMO -- The Ilmo Development Corporation announced the acquisition of the Rialto Theatre Building and the old post office building from O. W. Hartner and Mrs. Leona Hartner for $1. The post office building houses Trainmen's Hall.

The theatre building, which has been vacant is being remodeled by Seabaugh Construction Company of Jackson in preparation for occupancy by the Riverside regional library.

The development corporation has leased the building to the Riverside regional library. The building will be known as the Hartner Memorial building.

The building is to be ready about Oct. 20 when the library will move from the present quarters to occupy its new home which will give the library a space of 70 by 33 ft. The floor will be raised to the same level from front to back; the ceiling will be lowered to eight feet. The building will have a new front, with a canopy protecting the entrance from sun and weather.

Riverside regional library opened the Ilmo branch in April of 1957 in the building owned by Mrs. Geneva Sitze. In 1959 the library moved across the street into the building owned by Mrs. Agnes Hopke.

Otto Koenig, librarian of the Riverside Regional Library reports that during these eight years the library has grown much. From a small beginning, the book collection has grown to 11,000 volumes. During the first six months of this year, approximately 5,000 books were issued, 115 records, 28 film strips and 27 16 mm. films were loaned. The average attendance of the story hour this summer was 66 children.

Dexter Radioman In Project

ZAMBALES PHILLIPINES -- Naval Radioman Second Class Curtis L. Lively, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Lively of 227 S. Elm St., Dexter, Mo., participated in "Operation Schoolhouse" while serving at the naval communication station.

"Schoolhouse" provided tuition to Fillipino students who have academic promise but were too poor to attend school. The students passed an examination and other requirements before they were eligible to be sponsored.

It is impossible to cheat life. There are no answers to the problems of life in the back of the book.

'Fox Hunter Never Becomes Delinquent'

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP)—Provide a boy with a hound and teach him to be a fox hunter. Also teach him to love the woods.

That's the advice of Lew F. Gingery, who says "A boy who likes hounds and hunting will never become a juvenile delinquent."

Gingery is one of the best known experts on the fox hound in America. He will be 86 Nov. 6. Since 1912 he has lived in Rushville, Mo., a town of 380 five miles east of Atchison.

Associates say Gingery has judged more fox hound bench shows than anyone in the United States. He has friends in every fox hunting state from Texas and the Midwest, to the east Coast, and south to the Gulf of Mexico.

He says there are about 3,000 fox hunters in eastern Kansas and 10,000 to 12,000 in Missouri. "We have many fox hunters in California, although that is not considered a fox hunting state," he said recently.

Still enthusiastic Ginery says "Fox hunting is the greatest sport in the world because the hunter, the hound and the fox all enjoy it. The hunters don't try to kill the fox. A fox that is being chased can go into his den anytime he wants to. But he doesn't go in until he gets tired. A few nights later he is rested and ready to run again."

"I have heard many a fox-hunting farmer say he would rather lose his best cow than his running fox," Gingery says. "Now you know why we have fought so hard to save our foxes in Missouri."

Gingery is one of the reasons Missouri has never had a bounty law in his time.

Judge Haysler Pogue of Clinton, Mo., and Gingery organized the Missouri State Fox Hunters Association in 1934. Gingery was secretary-treasurer until a few years ago.

The Red Ranger, a magazine devoted to fox hunting and hounds, was published by Gingery from 1912 until he sold it in May, 1954. It is now printed in Licking, Mo. During his editorship Gingery fought bounty laws on foxes in all states and promoted the sport of fox hunting. For many years the magazine was published in Rushville.

For 30 years he published the American Fox Hound Breeders Stud Book. He wrote two books, "Dogs and Hounds" and "Forty Years with My Dogs." He is co-author of "American Sporting Dogs." He has written a new book about hunting and "many other things" which will be out next month. Its title is "The Other Side of the Coin."

Twelve years ago Gingery's doctor made him quit hunting because of high blood pressure. He says it was a sad day when he had to let his last 15 hounds go after having kept 40 to 60 of them during more than 40 years.

Many hunters named their sons for Gingery. Recently he attended the fox hunters' bench show at Dearborn, Mo., and introduced the judge, Emmett B. Adams. Adams' son, Charles Lew Adams, was named for Gingery.

Many honors have come to Gingery. Above his desk is a plaque awarded April 29, 1957, at Marshfield, Mo., by the Heart of the Ozarks Fox and Wolf Hunters Association. It names him "All-American Sportsman."

Gingery keeps busy. Many fox hunters come to visit him. As he sits at his desk pounding an ancient typewriter, he looks 25 years younger than his 85. He still writes about the sport he loves best.

The formula for fox hunting, American style, is the same as it was 100 years ago, Gingery says. "You go out in the woods with a pack of hounds, select a hunting site and build a big fire. Then you turn the hounds loose and wait for them to pick up a trail. All you have to do is listen to the voices of the hounds as the chase progresses. It is the prettiest music in the world."

Usually the hunting is done at night.

Television and other forms of entertainment have made inroads on fox hunting. Deer are plentiful in all states and deer hunting has interfered with fox hunting.

"Fox hunting is uphill business now because there are so many paved roads," Gingery says. "Fast automobiles kill a lot of the foxes.

"There will always be some people who will keep hounds and run foxes, if they can find enough room to do so. I hope that the sport, for the good of all, will not disappear."

In our parish, in Alexandria, Va., our altar boys occasionally serve at funeral services at Arlington Memorial cemetery. The son of a marine served at the burial of a marine's wife, and was much impressed by the military ceremonial. When he got home, he said exultingly to his mother, "Oh, boy, mom, wait until you see the funeral YOU'RE going to get."

Contract May Open Way For Building In Japan

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A Japanese newspaper has reported that the awarding of a highway construction contract in that country to the R. B. Potashnick Co. of Cape Girardeau may be the opening wedge for other foreign companies to enter the construction field in Japan.

The Asahi Evening News, a Tokyo newspaper, stated in its account of the bid letting, "Intense interest of Japanese construction circles will be centered on American construction methods and the manner in which the job will be handled, observers say, for this beachhead might open the way for more overseas companies to win jobs in Japan."

The newspaper concluded that if the Potashnick company is successful in its venture, "A strong possibility exists that foreign firms will enter the multi-storied building construction field here, a field in which Japan is said to be behind other advanced nations."

The Potashnick Company was awarded a $2,800,000 contract to build about a two-mile section of an expressway between Nakashima and Otani in Shizuoka. The project is part of an over-all Tokyo-to-Nagoya expressway.

The newspaper said the Potashnick contract marks the first time a foreign company had won a bid for a major construction project in Japan.

The evening News reported that because of the complex subcontracting system in Japan, it had been previously thought it would be impossible for foreign construction companies to gain a foothold in Japan.

However, the newspaper also observed that the overseas companies may be at some advantage in Japan because highway construction is highly mechanized, though the foreign concerns are unaccustomed to Japan's labor-management relations.

International bidding for the project was stipulated as a condition of loans to Japan by the World Bank to help finance highway construction.

Three American companies have submitted bids for one expressway job while a West German company has bid on another, the paper said.

In winning the contract, the Potashnick Co. outbid a joint proposal of three Japanese companies -- Fujita, Gumi and Komatsu--by about $200,000.

The project will include a 630-foot bridge and one interchange as well as doing considerable excavation.

The Evening News quoted the Japan Highway Corp. as saying the Potashnick Company is capitalized at $3,300,000 and grosses an average of $13,300,000 in business annually.

The negotiations with subcontractors and the signing of the prime contract was to take place Sept. 11-20.

The copy of the Japanese news story was sent to the Missourian by Foster Eaton, editor of the St. Louis Commerce, a Chamber of Commerce publication. He had received a copy of the story from his sister who is visiting in Japan.

Also receiving a copy of the story from Eaton, along with a letter of congratulations, was R. B. Potashnick, president of the construction company.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

The dissent was of the opinion that the Eighth Amendment did not give the courts the power to review the severity of the punishment imposed by the legislature, but only the kind of punishment. It found that the majority's position was unsound on policy grounds, declaring:

In the first place, if it be that the lawmaker, in defining and punishing crime, is imperatively restrained by constitutional provisions to apportion punishment by a consideration alone of the abstract heinousness of the offenses punished, it must result that the power is so circumscribed as to be impossible of execution; or, at all events, is so restricted as to exclude the possibility of taking into account, in defining and punishing crime, all those considerations concerning the condition of society, the tendency to commit the particular crime, the difficulty of detecting the same, the necessity for restoring to stern measures of repression, and various other subjects which have, at all times, been deemed essential to be weighed in defining and punishing crime. And certainly the paralysis of the discretion vested in the law-making authority which the propositions accomplish is immeasurable magnified when it is considered that this duty of proportioning punishment requires the taking into account of the standards prevailing in other or different countries or jurisdictions, thereby at once exacting that legislation on the subject of crime must be proportioned not to the conditions to which it is intended to apply, but must be based upon conditions with which the legislation, when enacted, will have no relation or concern whatever. And when it is considered that the propositions go further, and insist that, if the legislation seems to the judicial mind not to have been sufficiently impelled by motives or reformation of the criminal, such legislation defining and punishing crime is to be held repugnant to constitutional limitations, the impotency of the legislative power to define and punish crime is made manifest. When to this result is added the consideration that the interpretation, by its necessary effect, does not simply cause the cruel and unusual punishment clause to carve out of the domain of legislative authority the power to resort to prohibited kinds of punishments, but subjects to judicial control the degree of severity with which authorized modes of punishment may be inflicted, it seems to me that the demonstration is conclusive that nothing will be left of the independent legislative power to punish and define crime, if the interpretation now made be pushed in future application to its logical conclusion.

Lady Bird Stirs Politics In Journeys

MILWAUKEE, Wis., (AP) — On a day's journey promoting parks and beautification, Lady Bird Johnson gently mixes in the Peace Corps, school kids and home town folks.

It seems like a political campaign.

But workers in the beautification vineyard call the President's wife the "leader of the crusade for a more beautiful America."

"America's No. 1 ambassador of beauty," was the title bestowed by Howard W. Gregg, general manager of the Milwaukee Park Commission as he led Mrs. Johnson on a tour of his parks Tuesday.

"Our most powerful ally in Washington," said Milwaukee Mayor Henry W. Maier, appealing to Mrs. Johnson for a research program to conquer Dutch elm disease, which has played havoc with historic trees here.

Mrs. Johnson had an appeal of her own. She urged the thousand members of the American Institute of Park Executives meeting here to instill in more young people a desire to preserve natural beauty.

The blessings of progress "are in many cases engulfing us," said Mrs. Johnson.

"No one wishes to turn back the clock of progress, but surely a civilization that can send a man to the moon can also find ways and means to mtaintain a clean and pleasant earth."

After the speech, the First Lady visited some beauty spots of Milwaukee's park system, followed by picture-taking tourists and serenaded by a gathering of first and second graders.

Pig Crop In Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported Tuesday pig production in 10 midwestern corn belt states during the June-August quarter was down 10 per cent from a year earlier.

The crop in the 10 states — which produce about three-fourths of the nations hogs — was estimated at 14,761,000 compared with 16,366,000 in the similar period last year.

The department said a survey indicated that pig production in these states during the September-November period will be down 5 per cent from a year earlier.

The report also said farmers plan to step up production slightly during the December-February period.

The department said the number of hogs and pigs on farms in these states on Sept. 1 totaled 43,161,000 head, a decrease of 12 per cent from the number on farms a year earlier.

The production of pigs by states in the June-August period this year compared with the like period last year, respectively, included: Missouri 1,435,000 and 1,519,000; and Kansas 484,000 and 514,000.

'Fox Hunter Never Becomes Delinquent'

ATCHISON, Kan. (AP)—Provide a boy with a hound and teach him to be a fox hunter. Also teach him to love the woods.

That's the advice of Lew F. Gingery, who says "A boy who likes hounds and hunting will never become a juvenile delinquent."

Gingery is one of the best known experts on the fox hound in America. He will be 86 Nov. 6. Since 1912 he has lived in Rushville, Mo., a town of 380 five miles east of Atchison.

Associates say Gingery has judged more fox hound bench shows than anyone in the United States. He has friends in every fox hunting state from Texas and the Midwest, to the east Coast, and south to the Gulf of Mexico.

He says there are about 3,000 fox hunters in eastern Kansas and 10,000 to 12,000 in Missouri. "We have many fox hunters in California, although that is not considered a fox hunting state," he said recently.

Still enthusiastic Ginery says "Fox hunting is the greatest sport in the world because the hunter, the hound and the fox all enjoy it. The hunters don't try to kill the fox. A fox that is being chased can go into his den anytime he wants to. But he doesn't go in until he gets tired. A few nights later he is rested and ready to run again."

"I have heard many a fox-hunting farmer say he would rather lose his best cow than his running fox," Gingery says. "Now you know why we have fought so hard to save our foxes in Missouri."

Gingery is one of the reasons Missouri has never had a bounty law in his time.

Judge Haysler Pogue of Clinton, Mo., and Gingery organized the Missouri State Fox Hunters Association in 1934. Gingery was secretary-treasurer until a few years ago.

The Red Ranger, a magazine devoted to fox hunting and hounds, was published by Gingery from 1912 until he sold it in May, 1954. It is now printed in Licking, Mo. During his editorship Gingery fought bounty laws on foxes in all states and promoted the sport of fox hunting. For many years the magazine was published in Rushville.

For 30 years he published the American Fox Hound Breeders Stud Book. He wrote two books, "Dogs and Hounds" and "Forty Years with My Dogs." He is co-author of "American Sporting Dogs." He has written a new book about hunting and "many other things" which will be out next month. Its title is "The Other Side of the Coin."

Twelve years ago Gingery's doctor made him quit hunting because of high blood pressure. He says it was a sad day when he had to let his last 15 hounds go after having kept 40 to 60 of them during more than 40 years.

Many hunters named their sons for Gingery. Recently he attended the fox hunters' bench show at Dearborn, Mo., and introduced the judge, Emmett B. Adams. Adams' son, Charles Lew Adams, was named for Gingery.

Many honors have come to Gingery. Above his desk is a plaque awarded April 29, 1957, at Marshfield, Mo., by the Heart of the Ozarks Fox and Wolf Hunters Association. It names him "All-American Sportsman."

Gingery keeps busy. Many fox hunters come to visit him. As he sits at his desk pounding an ancient typewriter, he looks 25 years younger than his 85. He still writes about the sport he loves best.

The formula for fox hunting, American style, is the same as it was 100 years ago, Gingery says. "You go out in the woods with a pack of hounds, select a hunting site and build a big fire. Then you turn the hounds loose and wait for them to pick up a trail. All you have to do is listen to the voices of the hounds as the chase progresses. It is the prettiest music in the world."

Usually the hunting is done at night.

Television and other forms of entertainment have made inroads on fox hunting. Deer are plentiful in all states and deer hunting has interfered with fox hunting.

"Fox hunting is uphill business now because there are so many paved roads," Gingery says. "Fast automobiles kill a lot of the foxes.

"There will always be some people who will keep hounds and run foxes, if they can find enough room to do so. I hope that the sport, for the good of all, will not disappear."

In our parish, in Alexandria, Va., our altar boys occasionally serve at funeral services at Arlington Memorial cemetery. The son of a marine served at the burial of a marine's wife, and was much impressed by the military ceremonial. When he got home, he said exultingly to his mother, "Oh, boy, mom, wait until you see the funeral YOU'RE going to get."

Contract May Open Way For Building In Japan

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A Japanese newspaper has reported that the awarding of a highway construction contract in that country to the R. B. Potashnick Co. of Cape Girardeau may be the opening wedge for other foreign companies to enter the construction field in Japan.

The Asahi Evening News, a Tokyo newspaper, stated in its account of the bid letting, "Intense interest of Japanese construction circles will be centered on American construction methods and the manner in which the job will be handled, observers say, for this beachhead might open the way for more overseas companies to win jobs in Japan."

The newspaper concluded that if the Potashnick company is successful in its venture, "A strong possibility exists that foreign firms will enter the multi-storied building construction field here, a field in which Japan is said to be behind other advanced nations."

The Potashnick Company was awarded a $2,800,000 contract to build about a two-mile section of an expressway between Nakashima and Otani in Shizuoka. The project is part of an over-all Tokyo-to-Nagoya expressway.

The newspaper said the Potashnick contract marks the first time a foreign company had won a bid for a major construction project in Japan.

The evening News reported that because of the complex subcontracting system in Japan, it had been previously thought it would be impossible for foreign construction companies to gain a foothold in Japan.

However, the newspaper also observed that the overseas companies may be at some advantage in Japan because highway construction is highly mechanized, though the foreign concerns are unaccustomed to Japan's labor-management relations.

International bidding for the project was stipulated as a condition of loans to Japan by the World Bank to help finance highway construction.

Three American companies have submitted bids for one expressway job while a West German company has bid on another, the paper said.

In winning the contract, the Potashnick Co. outbid a joint proposal of three Japanese companies -- Fujita, Gumi and Komatsu--by about $200,000.

The project will include a 630-foot bridge and one interchange as well as doing considerable excavation.

The Evening News quoted the Japan Highway Corp. as saying the Potashnick Company is capitalized at $3,300,000 and grosses an average of $13,300,000 in business annually.

The negotiations with subcontractors and the signing of the prime contract was to take place Sept. 11-20.

The copy of the Japanese news story was sent to the Missourian by Foster Eaton, editor of the St. Louis Commerce, a Chamber of Commerce publication. He had received a copy of the story from his sister who is visiting in Japan.

Also receiving a copy of the story from Eaton, along with a letter of congratulations, was R. B. Potashnick, president of the construction company.

A FEW OBSERVATIONS ON THE MEANING OF THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT

The dissent was of the opinion that the Eighth Amendment did not give the courts the power to review the severity of the punishment imposed by the legislature, but only the kind of punishment. It found that the majority's position was unsound on policy grounds, declaring:

In the first place, if it be that the lawmaker, in defining and punishing crime, is imperatively restrained by constitutional provisions to apportion punishment by a consideration alone of the abstract heinousness of the offenses punished, it must result that the power is so circumscribed as to be impossible of execution; or, at all events, is so restricted as to exclude the possibility of taking into account, in defining and punishing crime, all those considerations concerning the condition of society, the tendency to commit the particular crime, the difficulty of detecting the same, the necessity for restoring to stern measures of repression, and various other subjects which have, at all times, been deemed essential to be weighed in defining and punishing crime. And certainly the paralysis of the discretion vested in the lawmaking authority which the propositions accomplish is immeasurable magnified when it is considered that this duty of proportioning punishment requires the taking into account of the standards prevailing in other or different countries or jurisdictions, thereby at once exacting that legislation on the subject of crime must be proportioned not to the conditions to which it is intended to apply, but must be based upon conditions with which the legislation, when enacted, will have no relation or concern whatever. And when it is considered that the propositions go further, and insist that, if the legislation seems to the judicial mind not to have been sufficiently impelled by motives or reformation of the criminal, such legislation defining and punishing crime is to be held repugnant to constitutional limitations, the impotency of the legislative power to define and punish crime is made manifest. When to this result is added the consideration that the interpretation, by its necessary effect, does not simply cause the cruel and unusual punishment clause to carve out of the domain of legislative authority the power to resort to prohibited kinds of punishments, but subjects to judicial control the degree of severity with which authorized modes of punishment may be inflicted, it seems to me that the demonstration is conclusive that nothing will be left of the independent legislative power to punish and define crime, if the interpretation now made be pushed in future application to its logical conclusion.

Lady Bird Stirs Politics In Journeys

MILWAUKEE, Wis., (AP) — On a day's journey promoting parks and beautification, Lady Bird Johnson gently mixes in the Peace Corps, school kids and home town folks.

It seems like a political campaign.

But workers in the beautification vineyard call the President's wife the "leader of the crusade for a more beautiful America."

"America's No. 1 ambassador of beauty," was the title bestowed by Howard W. Gregg, general manager of the Milwaukee Park Commission as he led Mrs. Johnson on a tour of his parks Tuesday.

"Our most powerful ally in Washington," said Milwaukee Mayor Henry W. Maier, appealing to Mrs. Johnson for a research program to conquer Dutch elm disease, which has played havoc with historic trees here.

Mrs. Johnson had an appeal of her own. She urged the thousand members of the American Institute of Park Executives meeting here to instill in more young people a desire to preserve natural beauty.

The blessings of progress "are in many cases engulfing us," said Mrs. Johnson.

"No one wishes to turn back the clock of progress, but surely a civilization that can send a man to the moon can also find ways and means to mtaintain a clean and pleasant earth."

After the speech, the First Lady visited some beauty spots of Milwaukee's park system, followed by picture-taking tourists and serenaded by a gathering of first and second graders.

Pig Crop In Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported Tuesday pig production in 10 midwestern corn belt states during the June-August quarter was down 10 per cent from a year earlier.

The crop in the 10 states — which produce about three-fourths of the nations hogs — was estimated at 14,761,000 compared with 16,366,000 in the similar period last year.

The department said a survey indicated that pig production in these states during the September-November period will be down 5 per cent from a year earlier.

The report also said farmers plan to step up production slightly during the December-February period.

The department said the number of hogs and pigs on farms in these states on Sept. 1 totaled 43,161,000 head, a decrease of 12 per cent from the number on farms a year earlier.

The production of pigs by states in the June-August period this year compared with the like period last year, respectively, included: Missouri 1,435,000 and 1,519,000; and Kansas 484,000 and 514,000.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a man who is about 40 pounds overweight and trying hard to reduce. (Doctor's orders.) If Clara ever met up with a mountain lion I'd put my money on her.

Clara fixes me a half a grapefruit in the morning, a poached egg and a cup of coffee. She eats bacon and eggs and buckwheat cakes. The smell of that bacon frying drives me nuts.

At night I get two ounces of meat and a half cup of spinach. Clara has fried chicken, corn fritters, and mashed potatoes with gravy.

When we watch TV together after supper she shovels in the popcorn like crazy. I go out of my mind from the crunching sound. Sometimes she fixes herself a malted. When she zoops that last drop through a straw I'd like to hit her.

I have never told Clara how annoyed I am because I don't want to give her the satisfaction. What do you suggest? --WALLY

Dear Wally: Let's face it--a man who loves food and is on a diet is going to suffer. But Clara shouldn't compound the suffering by crunching popcorn in your ear and you ought to tell her so.

Dear Ann Landers: I am presently employed in a large eastern city where people think they are awfully sophisticated. Several times in the past few weeks I've heard the expression "It might be O. K. in Iowa---".

It so happens that I'm from Dubuque. I resent the implication that Iowans are hayseeds. I concede that Iowa has its share of boobs and frumps but after traveling around the country I've concluded that there are fewer slobs in Marshalltown and Davenport than in most other cities - i.e. Boston, which considers itself a cultural center.

So please, Ann Landers, do us Iowans a favor and set the record straight. This letter may sound chauvinistic but if the people from your state were constantly being run down you'd be resentful, too. SELF-APPOINTED SPOKESMAN

Dear Spokesman: What do you mean IF the people from my state were being run down. I'm from Iowa, too. Sioux City, to be exact, and I don't appreciate the insults any more than you do -- especially when people make cracks about the corn.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a high school senior, almost 17 years old, and my grades are better than average. I sent for your booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts" and you say high school kids should not be allowed to date during the week. You seem to be on the side of us teen-agers in everything but this. Why are you against mid-week dating if we promise to be in by midnight?

I'm going with a great guy who is also a senior. I'm afraid I'll lose him if we don't get to see each other at least every other night.

I do my share of housework and I'm on good terms with my parents. They are going to see this letter before I mail it and we will all await your reply. Thanks. NATALIE

Dear Natalie: A Friday and Saturday night date and a Sunday afternoon date is enough social life for any high school girl.

High school students who date during the week look dead tired and so do their grades. A teen-ager can't do justice to a staggering load of homework if mid-week dating is allowed.

No girl ever lost a first-rate boy friend because she gave him too little time. It's really the other way around, Buttercup.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex --Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The old Chief Mate was filling out a preflight form. When he came to the question, "Who should be notified in case of accident?" he laboriously scrawled, "Air-Sea Rescue."

THE PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Wednesday, September 22, 1965

Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up. (James 4:10)

PRAYER: O Lord, when our path is dark and cold, and life is hard and bitter, lift us up above the clouds. Help us to abide with Jesus Christ, Thy Son and our Savior, and to see the light of His countenance and feel the warmth of His love. In the name of the Redeemer we pray. Amen.

Today in U. S. History

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 22, the 265th day of 1965. There are 100 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, Nathan Hale was hanged as a spy by the British.

On this date

In 1862, Abraham Lincoln issued the preliminary Emancipation Proclamation.

In 1938, Adolf Hilter met Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain at Bad Godesberg.

In 1939, Russian and Germany agreed on the demarcation of Poland.

In 1940, Japanese troops invaded Indochina.

In 1946, President Truman named W. Averell Harriman as Secretary of Commerce to replace Henry A. Wallace, who had resigned in a difference of opinion with Truman over U. S. policy toward the Soviet Union.

Five years ago - President Eisenhower flew to New York, addressed the U. N. General Assembly and conferred privately with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

One year ago - The Defense Department said it believed that one, and perhaps three, unidentified craft were sunk in an encounter with two U. S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin off Viet Nam.

The winning of freedom is not to be compared to the winning of a game -- with the victory recorded forever in history. Freedom has its life in the hearts, the actions, the spirit of men and so it must be daily earned and refreshed -- else like a flower cut from its life-giving roots, it will wither and die.

Ku Klux Klan Gets Attention

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(AP) Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK -- The Ku Klux Klan is receiving special attention from television now, probably because of a pending congressional investigation of the secret organization.

NBC's Huntley-Brinkley news program Tuesday night wound up a three-part, once-over lightly looked at the operations of the cross-burning society.

A few hours later "CBS Reports" devoted an hour to an illustrated lecture on the past, present and probable future of the 100-year-old organization that started as a six-member social club and was so strong in the 1920s that it has been credited with a part in the defeat of presidential nominee Alfred E. Smith.

Although narrator Charles Kuralt said it is believed that there are no more than 30,000 to 50,000 active Klansmen today, the general tone of the program suggested that its influence - asserted by terror, harassment and assault - is widespread, particularly in smaller Southern communities.

Highlight of the hour were films of a Klan gathering. The costumes, masks and childish-sounding titles made the whole thing seem like a silly game except for rabble-rousing speakers exhorting their audiences to fight for white, gentile, Protestant supremacy. Later, a Negro told how he had been tottured by a group he described as Klan members.

But even with the films, the hour crept along at snail's pace and revealed nothing with which the average newspaper reader was not already familiar.

CBS' "Rawhide," back for a seventh season, keeps those dogies moving across those plains. This year, for a change, Clint Eastwood has been promoted to trail boss-and solo star-and a couple of new drovers have been added to the cast.

Eric Fleming, who either quit or was fired as trail boss after so many seasons, probably will be missed, but nothing much has happened to the basic format of this Western.

Soviet Studies Make Anti-German Moving Pictures

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet film studios still make features with the kind of anti-German sentiment that characterized Western films in wartime.

An example is "Father of a Soldier," the most publicized of the movies entered in the fourth Moscow film festival. Sergo Zakariadze plays a grizzled peasant who becomes lonesome for his son fighting at the front with the Red army, and sets out to find him.

He blusters his way into combat zones, charms his way into the company of a regular army unit and proves his fighting mettle.

When the old man finds his son, the lad has just been fatally wounded in hand-to-hand fighting and dies in his father's arms.

The anti-German flavor shows up particularly in vividly portrayed battlefield scenes. In one, a German soldier brutally shoots to death a wounded young Red army soldier.

Zakariadze, who has been helping the lad, goes into a towering rage, takes the German's gun away and kills him by bashing him on the head with it.

The audience applauded loudly.

The funeral of Chas. W. Clark, whose death occurred last Thursday morning following an injury received in being run over by an automobile the previous afternoon, was held at his home on Northwest street last Friday afternoon.

Howard E. Morrison and Miss Fleta Joe Kizer surprised their many Sikeston friends with the news of their marriage on last Saturday, September 19, at Jackson.

In an effort to protect themselves from labor agents and others who would induce cotton pickers to go from farm to farm as higher wages are offered, about 75 farmers living in the vicinity of Sikeston met in the Chamber of Commerce room yesterday afternoon and banded themselves into an organization that has for its object the stablizing of wages for cotton pickers and to eliminate efforts of one farmer to hire labor away from another farmer without the latter's consent.

Willis Guess, Sikeston's well known bus and transfer man, was taken to St. Mary's Infirmary at Cairo Tuesday night suffering from a hernia.

Coach Lou Bona's Sikeston High School Bulldogs will have their first testing tomorrow night when they meet the East Prairie Eagles on the East Prairie High School gridiron.

Dr. M. C. Cunningham, chairman of the education department and director of the Horace Mann Laboratory School at Maryville, Mo., was named dean of Northwest Missouri State College at Maryville. Dr. Cunningham, known as "Pete" to friends, here, was formerly principal of the Sikeston High School.

Mexico, Mo. -- Fielding Potashnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Potashnick, 197 West Gladys, has been promoted to the rank of cadet corporal in the Missouri Military Academy Junior School, according to a special order released here.

Patricia Lou Ellise left Monday for Tallahassee, Fla., where she wil attend the Florida State College for Women.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I am a man who is about 40 pounds overweight and trying hard to reduce. (Doctor's orders.) If Clara ever met up with a mountain lion I'd put my money on her.

Clara fixes me a half a grapefruit in the morning, a poached egg and a cup of coffee. She eats bacon and eggs and buckwheat cakes. The smell of that bacon frying drives me nuts.

At night I get two ounces of meat and a half cup of spinach. Clara has fried chicken, corn fritters, and mashed potatoes with gravy.

When we watch TV together after supper she shovels in the popcorn like crazy. I go out of my mind from the crunching sound. Sometimes she fixes herself a malted. When she zoops that last drop through a straw I'd like to hit her.

I have never told Clara how annoyed I am because I don't want to give her the satisfaction. What do you suggest? --WALLY

Dear Wally: Let's face it--a man who loves food and is on a diet is going to suffer. But Clara shouldn't compound the suffering by crunching popcorn in your ear and you ought to tell her so.

Dear Ann Landers: I am presently employed in a large eastern city where people think they are awfully sophisticated. Several times in the past few weeks I've heard the expression "It might be O. K. in Iowa---".

It so happens that I'm from Dubuque. I resent the implication that Iowans are hayseeds. I concede that Iowa has its share of boobs and frumps but after traveling around the country I've concluded that there are fewer slobs in Marshalltown and Davenport than in most other cities -- i.e. Boston, which considers itself a cultural center.

So please, Ann Landers, do us Iowans a favor and set the record straight. This letter may sound chauvinistic but if the people from your state were constantly being run down you'd be resentful, too. SELF-APPOINTED SPOKESMAN

Dear Spokesman: What do you mean IF the people from my state were being run down. I'm from Iowa, too. Sioux City, to be exact, and I don't appreciate the insults any more than you do -- especially when people make cracks about the corn.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a high school senior, almost 17 years old, and my grades are better than average. I sent for your booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts" and you say high school kids should not be allowed to date during the week. You seem to be on the side of us teen-agers in everything but this. Why are you against mid-week dating if we promise to be in by midnight?

I'm going with a great guy who is also a senior. I'm afraid I'll lose him if we don't get to see each other at least every other night.

I do my share of housework and I'm on good terms with my parents. They are going to see this letter before I mail it and we will all await your reply. Thanks. NATALIE

Dear Natalie: A Friday and Saturday night date and a Sunday afternoon date is enough social life for any high school girl.

High school students who date during the week look dead tired and so do their grades. A teen-ager can't do justice to a staggering load of homework if mid-week dating is allowed.

No girl ever lost a first-rate boy friend because she gave him too little time. It's really the other way around, Buttercup.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex --Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The old Chief Mate was filling out a preflight form. When he came to the question, "Who should be notified in case of accident?" he laboriously scrawled, "Air-Sea Rescue."

THE PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

Wednesday, September 22, 1965

Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up. (James 4:10)

PRAYER: O Lord, when our path is dark and cold, and life is hard and bitter, lift us up above the clouds. Help us to abide with Jesus Christ, Thy Son and our Savior, and to see the light of His countenance and feel the warmth of His love. In the name of the Redeemer we pray. Amen.

Today in U. S. History

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 22, the 265th day of 1965. There are 100 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, Nathan Hale was hanged as a spy by the British.

On this date

In 1862, Abraham Lincoln issued the preliminary Emancipation Proclamation.

In 1938, Adolf Hilter met Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain at Bad Godesberg.

In 1939, Russian and Germany agreed on the demarcation of Poland.

In 1940, Japanese troops invaded Indochina.

In 1946, President Truman named W. Averell Harriman as Secretary of Commerce to replace Henry A. Wallace, who had resigned in a difference of opinion with Truman over U. S. policy toward the Soviet Union.

Ten years ago - A British airliner crashed in Libya, killing 15 of the 47 aboard.

Five years ago - President Eisenhower flew to New York, addressed the U. N. General Assembly and conferred privately with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

One year ago - The Defense Department said it believed that one, and perhaps three, unidentified craft were sunk in an encounter with two U. S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin off Viet Nam.

The winning of freedom is not to be compared to the winning of a game -- with the victory recorded forever in history. Freedom has its life in the hearts, the actions, the spirit of men and so it must be daily earned and refreshed -- else like a flower cut from its life-giving roots, it will wither and die.

GOP Can't Win Without Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — About the best reason former President Dwight D. Eisenhower seems able to think of now for telling voters to go Republican next time is that the country needs a two-party system.

But that's not an issue, the usual basis on which voters choose between the parties. It's just another way of saying please help the Republican party stay alive.

Last month Eisenhower was asked specifically what he thought Republicans should make campaign issues of in next year's elections, the first big test since their devastating defeat in 1964.

He mentioned fiscal responsibility, frugality, self-dependence, self - reliance, self-respect and integrity. But he himself so far hasn't been at deep odds with President Johnson's administration on any of those subjects.

The Republican leadership in general hasn't been any more specific than Eisenhower on issues to wrap around the Democrats' necks, except for occasional criticisms that seem to melt away.

Republicans cut themselves up so badly with intraparty antagonisms in the 1964 campaign, and were so smashed in the election, that they haven't yet recovered any kind of broad voice to show how they differ from Democrats.

Instead, much of their time has been taken up trying to heal last year's wounds and finding some way to save the party from being ruined altogether by splinter groups.

They have no top leader. Usually a defeated presidential candidate is considered the titular head of his party until the next election when he or someone else carries the party flag.

But this month Barry Goldwater, who led the Republicans to their 1964 disaster, said he doesn't consider himself the party's titular head. And, if he tried to be, he'd have a lot of opposition.

At this point there is not one Republican who looks like a sure bet even to try for the presidential nomination in 1968, although Richard M. Nixon, as usual between elections, is eyed.

The former vice president and defeated Republican presidential candidate of 1960 may still have hopes the party, which passed him over in 1964, will take a chance again on him three years from now.

He has been touring Asia, making statements on world affairs, and suggesting how Johnson should be tougher in Viet Nam. But, like Eisenhower, he, too, seems lacking in any basic criticism of the Democrats.

The only fairly consistent pecking and picking on Johnson has come from House Republicans, particularly from their leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, but he is not getting much mileage out of it.

The House Republicans had tried to make an issue of the origin of U.S. policy — that is, the military involvement — in Viet Nam. Johnson had said he was following the policy of Eisenhower and President John F. Kennedy in promising and making good on American aid to the South Vietnamese.

House Republicans tried to stress that Eisenhower's help was economic, not military, but, just as they were stressing it. Eisenhower said it was "rot" to suggest a difference between him and Johnson on Viet Nam. He backed Johnson.

For awhile the House Republicans obviously thought they had an issue on Johnson's decision to drop the fight to make the Soviet Union and 12 other nations pay their share of the United Nations' peace-keeping costs.

But Eisenhower backed Johnson on that, too. Nixon took pretty much the same position as Eisenhower on Viet Nam and the American backdown in the United Nations.

Johnson's handling of his constant critic, Ford, gives a good insight into the President's political technique. When he knows he has wide support on a problem, he avoids a fight that would give his opponent extra publicity.

Even Goldwater seems muted. In 1964 he called Johnson "the phoniest individual who ever came around" but now is calling him "the most astute politician I have ever known."

If the Republicans hope to stay alive, they'll have to find something to fight the Democrats about. They haven't yet.

Dr. Spratt To Speak At Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Dr. John S. Spratt, will speak at the 11th annual Semo Cancer Conference scheduled Oct. 4.

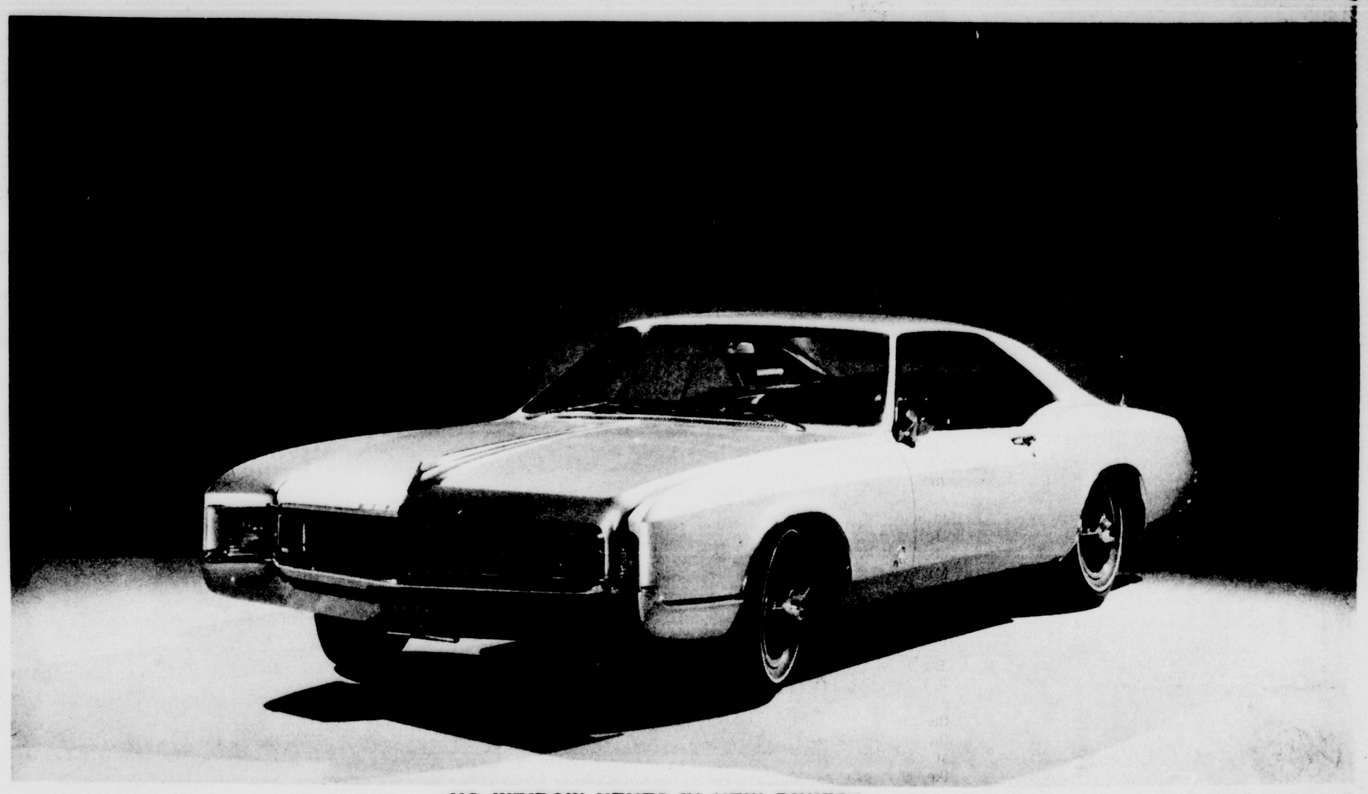
Dr. Spratt is chief surgeon of the Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital at Columbia and as associate professor of surgery at the University of Missouri school of medicine. He will speak on "Detection and Treatment of Post-Treated Pelvic Cancer Complication."

The conference, conducted by the Cape Girardeau County Medical Society and the Missouri Division of the American Cancer Society, will be held at the Colonial Restaurant, beginning with registration at 6 p.m. A social hour is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7 p.m. Following Dr. Spratt's presentation, there will be questions and answers and discussion.

Dr. George Magaletta, conference chairman, has issued an invitation to physicians throughout Southeast Missouri.

"Stop deluding yourself," said the psychiatrist to the unemployed patient. "You're perfectly healthy, so there's so reason why you shouldn't work."

"What for?" asked the patient. "To support a bum like me?" --K. C.



NO WINDOW VENTS IN NEW RIVIERA

Buick's 1966 Riviera introduces an entirely new ventilation system, eliminating the familiar side window vents. Another feature is the new headlight design. When not in use the lamps are out of sight behind the grille. When turned on they drop down into driving position. Parking lamps and turn signals located in the fenders emphasize the width of the new grille. Power plant for this car is Buick's 425 cubic inch V-8 with a new quadrajet carburetor for better performance.

FLINT, MICH., Sept. 22 -- A completely new Riviera sport coupe, featuring the biggest innovation in body ventilation in 32 years -- the elimination of window vents, was introduced today by Buick Motor Division.

The new "second generation" Riviera has a 119-inch sheelbase, two inches longer than last year, and a four-inch wider tread for improved ride and handling, and features a longer hood and fenders, a more sloping windshield and a modified fastback roof and rear deck.

For the first time the Riviera will be available in a six-passenger model with a bench seat in front.

Both the Riviera and the Riviera Gran Sport are powered by Buick's 425 cubic inch V-8 engine.

One of the most significant changes in the Riviera is the elimination of window vents, providing the driver with an unobstructed view through the side window.

A new ventilation system -- Circulaire -- makes the vents unnecessary. Fresh air is taken into the car through a grille in the hood, just in front of the windshield. It is exhausted through a similar grille in the rear window ledge, passing under the window to an exterior grille in the rear deck. Elimination of the window vents reduces wind noise in the front compartment.

Inside the car the air is circulated at two levels, through vents on each side of the passenger compartment at the lower level and through three vents in the instrument panel at the upper level.

Engineering tests show that this system of ventilation will keep the interior of the car comfortable in 70-degree plus temperatures without opening the windows.

In keeping with the disappearing headlamp feature inaugurated in 1965, the 1966 Riviera headlamps are concealed in the radiator grille, beneath the hood. When the headlight switch is turned on, the lamps drop into position. Parking lamps and turn signals form a curvature between the front fenders and the extreme ends of the grille.

Standard interior trim includes bench-type seats, front and rear, or bucket seats and console in front. Rivieras ordered with bench-type front seat will have no console. A new front "strato bench" seat with notch down center arm rest has been designed specifically as a Riviera option.

All gauges and instruments have been re-grouped to a position directly in front of the driver. The speedometer, a new concept in speed indication, is a drum-type cylinder which revolves vertically. As speed is changed, the easy-to-read numbers roll down into view. Oil, temperature and generator gauges are equipped with pointers instead of warning lights.

A conveniently located smoking compartment is immediately below the instrument panel and contains a lighter with ash trays for driver and passenger. On the passenger's side of the front compartment, the instrument panel has been moved forward to provide more room and to make the large, drop-down bin-type glove compartment more accessible.

While styling has been predominant in the changes for 1966, several improvements have been made in chassis components to improve riding comfort, handling stability and maneuverability without disturbing the basic chassis design of the original Riviera.

A new cruciform frame to accommodate the two-inch longer wheelbase and four-inch wider tread has been designed. The wider tread improves cornering stability and permits a shorter turn. The longer wheelbase affords greater directional stability, more interior seat room, and gives better weight distribution by increasing weight on rear wheels. This is particularly evident during acceleration and braking, especially on ice and snow.

The Riviera's front suspension system provides better road isolation through new shock absorbers and improved handling characteristics with new steering linkage and revised steering geometry. Upper and lower control arms with specially tuned rubber bushings at the inner pivots complete the front suspension.

The rear suspension has been completely redesigned by moving the springs from the lower control arms to the axle. The geometry of the rear suspension has been altered for 1966 to effect greater control over "squat" on acceleration and rear end lift during braking.

Problems Of Elderly Will Be Studied

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A grant of $54,298 has been made by the United States Public Health Service to the University of Missouri in support of a study of the problems of the elderly in small communities.

The grant supports the first year of the 3-year study being conducted in the school's department of sociology. Dr. C. T. Philblad, professor of sociology and Dr. Robert L. McNamara, professor and chairman of the departments of rural sociology and of sociology and anthropology are directing the research.

"Three states, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska, rank above all others in the proportion of persons in their populations over 65 years old," said Dr. Philblad.

He said limited studies have been made on the problems of the aging.

"Much of the information gathered, however, has been focused on the problems of the elderly in larger metropolitan centers," he said. Relatively little attention has been directed toward those residing in rural areas, especially in the smaller towns of the state.

"Yet no segment of the population in Missouri, or in the states of the North Central Region, contains a higher proportion of older people than do the small towns in this area."

Thalidomide May Win Reprieve

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — The drug thalidomide, convicted of deforming unborn babies, may win a reprieve as a treatment for some of the reactions of leprosy.

Israel has about 200 lepers.

Specialists at Hansen Hospital here started using the drug, a tranquilizer, to lessen the pains of lepers and allow them to sleep. Doctors were surprised to find that some of the symptoms of leprosy, such as efflorescence of the skin and inflammation of the eyes, tended to disappear in a few hours. No serious side effects were noted.

Thalidomide was developed by a German company. It was withdrawn from general circulation after its effects on babies became known. The pills used here are made by a Haifa company.

A government for the people must depend for its success on the intelligence, the morality, the justice, and the interest of the people themselves.

Airman Rodgers, a radar repairman, served at Little Rock AFB, Ark. He is a member of the air force communications service, which operates five million miles of communications channels and more than 1,000 air traffic control facilities around the globe.

The airman is a graduate of Essex, Mo., high school.

Don't Treat Your Water Closet Like A Garbage Pail

The average mother of small children has to call a plumbing contractor about twice a year to remove small toys and other obstructions tossed into the water closet by energetic offspring.

However, adults are responsible for even more clogging problems, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It offers these two basic tips on how to avoid such emergencies:

1. Make it a family habit to keep the seat cover down at all times. This will discourage tots from throwing in whatever is handy. It will also lessen the likelihood of adults accidentally knocking something off the tank top or dropping in articles as they're being used.

2. Don't use the water closet as a garbage can or waste basket. Some people flush down kitchen grease, coffee grounds and fruit parings. They throw in tissue paper that's heavy with face cream or large wads of paper towels used to wipe up spilled articles. They throw in everything from broken glass to bent bobby pins, hair clips, bits of soap, empty shaving cream tubes and used razor blades.

If you have been abusing your water closet and it clogs up, try using a force cup (also called a plunger) or a commercial cleaner first. If that doesn't work, don't experiment with tools, but call an experienced plumbing contractor. He'll correct your problem and advise you on how to prevent it in the future.

New Plant For Paducah

Mr. Ed Riley, Vice-President of Manufacturing, has announced that International Shoe Company has completed negotiations to construct a new manufacturing plant in Paducah, Kentucky.

The new plant to be located in the Tyler Industrial Park in Paducah will be a one story fully air-conditioned and humidity controlled structure of approximately 80,000 square feet. It is to be equipped with the most modern shoe manufacturing machinery for pruducing men's shoes.

Mr. Riley emphasized the fact that, through the years International Shoe Company has enjoyed the cooperation, and support and loyalty, not only of its employees, but of the entire community of Paducah. This fine relationship is appreciated and certainly facilitated recent negotiations and planning for the new plant.

International has produced shoes in Paducah since 1919 in a building that was constructed in 1907. This facility is now obsolete and does not lend itself to modern manufacturing methods and requirements. The entire production of the old plant will be transferred as soon as the new building is complete. Production in 1964 was 1,053,000 pairs of men's and boys' shoes. The payroll in 1964 was $1,750,000.

362 Are Given Typhoid Shots

BENTON- Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe, reported that 362 persons received vaccinations at the Rockview clinic against typhoid fever Friday. A case of typhoid was reported in the vicinity. The patient is recuperating satisfactorily in a Cape Girardeau hospital.

No additional cases have been reported, but it was learned the patient was a truck driver, who did long distant hauling. Two more vaccinations will be given on succeeding Fridays.

"The trend, for at least 30 years, has been to a completely centralized Government.

"Today we're seeing small business in trouble because of the oppressive size of Government, which requires taxation to the point where small businessmen can't retain profits.

"The big man can get along today, but how long is it going to be before even big business can't withstand the combined pressures of big labor and big Government? Then how long will it be before big labor can't withstand the total power of big Government? Then you have one thing left--you have Government, period -- Government running business, the labor unions, the daily lives of the people. These are my fears."
Barry Goldwater

Dexter Airman Arrives In France

TOUL, France--- airman First Class Jimmie D. Rodgers, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rodgers of Dexter, Mo., has arrived for duty at Toul - Rosieres AB, France.

Airman Rodgers, a radar repairman, served at Little Rock AFB, Ark. He is a member of the air force communications service, which operates five million miles of communications channels and more than 1,000 air traffic control facilities around the globe.

The airman is a graduate of Essex, Mo., high school.

Problems Of Elderly Will Be Studied

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A grant of $54,298 has been made by the United States Public Health Service to the University of Missouri in support of a study of the problems of the elderly in small communities.

The grant supports the first year of the 3-year study being conducted in the school's department of sociology. Dr. C. T. Philblad, professor of sociology and Dr. Robert L. McNamara, professor and chairman of the departments of rural sociology and of sociology and anthropology are directing the research.

"Three states, Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska, rank above all others in the proportion of persons in their populations over 65 years old," said Dr. Philblad.

He said limited studies have been made on the problems of the aging.

"Much of the information gathered, however, has been focused on the problems of the elderly in larger metropolitan centers," he said. Relatively little attention has been directed toward those residing in rural areas, especially in the smaller towns of the state.

"Yet no segment of the population in Missouri, or in the states of the North Central Region, contains a higher proportion of older people than do the small towns in this area."

Thalidomide May Win Reprieve

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP) — The drug thalidomide, convicted of deforming unborn babies, may win a reprieve as a treatment for some of the reactions of leprosy.

Israel has about 200 lepers.

Specialists at Hansen Hospital here started using the drug, a tranquilizer, to lessen the pains of lepers and allow them to sleep. Doctors were surprised to find that some of the symptoms of leprosy, such as efflorescence of the skin and inflammation of the eyes, tended to disappear in a few hours. No serious side effects were noted.

Thalidomide was developed by a German company. It was withdrawn from general circulation after its effects on babies became known. The pills used here are made by a Haifa company.

A government for the people must depend for its success on the intelligence, the morality, the justice, and the interest of the people themselves.

Don't Treat Your Water Closet Like A Garbage Pail

The average mother of small children has to call a plumbing contractor about twice a year to remove small toys and other obstructions tossed into the water closet by energetic offspring.

However, adults are responsible for even more clogging problems, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. It offers these two basic tips on how to avoid such emergencies:

1. Make it a family habit to keep the seat cover down at all times. This will discourage tots from throwing in whatever is handy. It will also lessen the likelihood of adults accidentally knocking something off the tank top or dropping in articles as they're being used.

2. Don't use the water closet as a garbage can or waste basket. Some people flush down kitchen grease, coffee grounds and fruit parings. They throw in tissue paper that's heavy with face cream or large wads of paper towels used to wipe up spilled articles. They throw in everything from broken glass to bent bobby pins, hair clips, bits of soap, empty shaving cream tubes and used razor blades.

If you have been abusing your water closet and it clogs up, try using a force cup (also called a plunger) or a commercial cleaner first. If that doesn't work, don't experiment with tools, but call an experienced plumbing contractor. He'll correct your problem and advise you on how to prevent it in the future.

New Plant For Paducah

Mr. Ed Riley, Vice-President of Manufacturing, has announced that International Shoe Company has completed negotiations to construct a new manufacturing plant in Paducah, Kentucky.

The new plant to be located in the Tyler Industrial Park in Paducah will be a one story fully air-conditioned and humidity controlled structure of approximately 80,000 square feet. It is to be equipped with the most modern shoe manufacturing machinery for producing men's shoes.

Mr. Riley emphasized the fact that, through the years International Shoe Company has enjoyed the cooperation, and support and loyalty, not only of its employees, but of the entire community of Paducah. This fine relationship is appreciated and certainly facilitated recent negotiations and planning for the new plant.

International has produced shoes in Paducah since 1919 in a building that was constructed in 1907. This facility is now obsolete and does not lend itself to modern manufacturing methods and requirements. The entire production of the old plant will be transferred as soon as the new building is complete. Production in 1964 was 1,053,000 pairs of men's and boys' shoes. The payroll in 1964 was $1,750,000.

362 Are Given Typhoid Shots

BENTON- Dr. Thelma Buckthorpe, reported that 362 persons received vaccinations at the Rockview clinic against typhoid fever Friday. A case of typhoid was reported in the vicinity. The patient is recuperating satisfactorily in a Cape Girardeau hospital.

No additional cases have been reported, but it was learned the patient was a truck driver, who did long distant hauling. Two more vaccinations will be given on succeeding Fridays.

"The trend, for at least 30 years, has been to a completely centralized Government.

"Today we're seeing small business in trouble because of the oppressive size of Government, which requires taxation to the point where small businessmen can't retain profits.

"The big man can get along today, but how long is it going to be before even big business can't withstand the combined pressures of big labor and big Government? Then how long will it be before big labor can't withstand the total power of big Government? Then you have one thing left--you have Government, period -- Government running business, the labor unions, the daily lives of the people. These are my fears."

Two Teenagers On Bikes Hurt

KENNETT -- Two teenagers on bicycles were injured Saturday when they were struck by a car on highway 25, one mile south of Kennett.

Injured were Leonard Coward, Jr., and Jerry Stirnaman, ages 14 and 15. Both were treated at a clinic and released. One received cuts to the shoulder and knees, the other received cuts and bruises to the back and possible internal injuries.

According to the Missouri Highway Patrol, Fred Lock, 72, of Senath, driving a 1957 Ford north on highway 25, started to pass another vehicle and hit the two boys on bicycles. No arrests were made. The accident occurred about 2:20 p.m.

Odd, but the only way a cat can swim is by dog-paddling.

13,940 Vehicles Move Daily On Busy Main Street

Editors Note: This is the second of a series of six articles concerning a study made by the Missouri State Highway Department and the city of the streets and highways in the Sikeston area.

By Dan Whittle

A street network is the foundation of a transportation system.

The Sikeston area network was studied in three ways -- usage, physical characteristics and traffic service -- by the Missouri state highway department and the city.

Streets and highways were classified by their function:

Primary arterial, which provide for the movement of large volumes of through traffic between major areas and across the city.

Secondary arterial, which provides much the same service but are generally located in less heavily traveled regions.

Collector streets, which provide for traffic movement between the arterials and local streets and direct access to abutting property.

Streets serving only the abutting land and local traffic movements.

Two routes are classified as primary arteries. These are route 61 or Main street and Malone Avenue, which also carries federal and state highway markings.

Eight streets have been designated secondary arterials: North and south bound; Kingshighway, Ingram Road, State routes H and AA, and New Madrid Street; east and west bound; Salcedo Road (Route Y), Tanner Street, Gladys Avenue-Tanner Road and Murray Lane.

Ten streets have been classified as collector streets; North and south bound; West street, Allen Boulevard; Pine street, Broadway and Branum; East and west bound; Wakefield, Smith, North, Gladys and Murray Lane.

Any street not named compose the local street system.

The study of the physical characteristics included pavement types and widths of right of way and pavement. Pavement widths were measured from back to back of curbs.

To measure traffic volume more than 200 automatic traffic recorders were used.

The highest observed volume was on Main Street, highways 61 and 62 with an average of 13,940 vehicles per day.

Malone avenue, business highway 60, has an average daily vehicle count of 13,565.

Other 24-hour counts were taken on New Madrid, 5,959; Kingshighway, 5,878; Tanner, 4,760; North Street, 4,082; and Murray Lane, 3,283.

In general the heavier volumes are found within a half-mile radius of the downtown business district.

The volume of traffic varies sharply by hours, day and the season. The highest volume of traffic in all seasons comes at 4 p.m.

Traffic control devices in use in the survey area consists of signals, flashers, stop signs, curb parking restrictions, one-way streets and speed limits.

The signal and stop signs are used primarily to expedite major street traffic movements.

Two one-way streets exist. Front Street in the downtown business district is west bound from Kingshighway to Stoddard Street. Heath street between Tanner and Lake Streets is one-way northbound primarily due to narrow width.

Former Teacher At Dexter Dies

DEXTER-- L. D. Graves, an 80-year-old retired school teacher who had been ill several months, died at 2:30 p.m. Monday at his home.

Graves, who had taught 45 terms of school, was a life-long resident of Stoddard county and was born May 29, 1885, at Bloomfield. He was a member of the Baptist church.

Carole Deals With Fire Alarm

LOS ANGELES (AP) -"I've always wondered what I'd do if a fire alarm went off during a show," said Carol Channing, star of "Hello, Dolly."

She found out Tuesday.

Just as she launched into the first act finale four fire alarms went off in Los Angeles' Music Center, where "Hello, Dolly" has been playing to sold-out crowds of 3,217 persons nightly.

As the alarms rang, Miss Channing just sang louder. The chorus came on and sang louder. Orchestra conductor Myron Roman directed the musicians to play louder.

The entire audience remained quietly in their seats, while more than 30 electricians scurried through the building searching for the alarms' off-button. It was a false alarm.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wood and children, went to Flint to bring his parents home. On Sunday the latter Mrs. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Lewis of St. Louis were their guests.

POPULAR MODEL—When four contestants in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, N.J., showed up for a reception in the identical dress, it brought only laughs—at least for the camera. It only proves, they say, that all four have good taste. Left to right are Misses Oklahoma, Sandra Curtis; Washington, Kippy Brinkman; Texas, Mary Lou Butler, and Indiana, Eileen Smith.

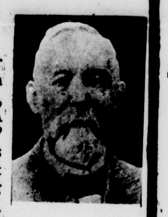
When I Was A Boy



B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

October 3, 1919

When I was a boy the Negro slaves did not have a church building of their own any where in our part of the country. In those days the Negroes joined the white folks' churches and were always made welcome when attending religious services by their white brethren. A lot of seats were reserved in the back of the church for the Negroes and they would groan and say: "Amen" and "Yes, Lord" whenever they felt like it; and that was pretty often. The first and only church building I ever heard of belonging to Negroes was at Glasgow about 1854, I think. The white Methodists built a new and handsome church building for that day, and gave their old house to the Negro brethren, who held some of the most wonderful meetings I ever heard; for you could hear them shout and sing, almost a mile. They were the happiest people I ever saw.

When I was a boy many things were done that are not so much in vogue now. One was the Methodist class meetings that were a regular thing in my neighborhood, it being the only church within five or six miles. At these class meetings it was expected that all present, that is all the membership, would tell what the Lord had done for them, and how they felt. It was told that when the leader asked an old black brother the question it was hard for Uncle Moss to make the right answer and he had been doing something that caused his conscience to hurt him, so he stood up and said: "Please, sir, I feels dis like the dam son of a gun what I is." Uncle Moss was never called on again.

When I was a boy, the home of the celebrated scout and Indian fighter, Kit Carson, was at the village of Boonsboro, in Howard county. That is, it had been his home before he left and became famous. At this place there had been a lot of Chestnut trees put out and they grew and flourished as well as they would have done in old Virginia or anywhere else. It was at this place Carson sent his pretty half breed daughter, Adeline to be educated. I remember well her girl companion, Lizzie Amick, with whom she attended school at Rock Springs. Lizzie grew up and married a man named Calvin, while Adeline was taken west by her father, married and died in California. It begins to look as if everyone is dead now that I knew when I was a boy.

When I was a boy almost all the dwelling houses in the country were log houses. Many of them had but one room and a kitchen; some had two good sized rooms, while some were two story houses and weather boarded, but the frame houses were few and far between. Once in a day's travel you might see a small brick house. At every house the cooking was done in a great wide fire place, and about all the cooking utensils any one owned was a coffee pot, a skillet in which to bake bread, a pot to boil meat in, a pie pan or two and a big kettle in which to boil water to do the family washing. Yes, there was a cake pan, too, and the old fashioned pound cake was much better than our modern cakes. People were happy and contented then.

When I was a boy, most of the boys and girls got their education in the little old log cabins that could be found in all school districts, and it was a very rare thing that a boy or girl ever had the chance to go to college. Only one girl that I can remember ever got to go to college and that was a young Aunt of mine about 17 years old. She was sent to the college at Fayette, and on her occasional visits home was made more over than is made over a girl just returned from Europe now. I hardly think the colleges away back there were any better if quite as good as the average High School in any town is now. Away back there in the Country we never heard of a High School, and it is a wonder to me now that I ever learned to write all this stuff about things that happened when I was a boy.

Dexter Studies Hiring C. of C. Manager

DEXTER -- Dexter's Chamber of Commerce has decided to study the idea of hiring a full-time secretary - manager for the Chamber of Commerce and establishing an office in the downtown area.

The plan for such a study was recommended to the organization by the merchants committee.

Activities of the Chamber of Commerce are now so numerous and varied that many persons feel that a full-time secretary - manager is now needed.

This would require an increase in the budget of the Chamber of Commerce it was pointed out by members present at Monday night's meeting. But they said they felt that the budget could and should be increased to provide for the fulltime services.

President Joe Weber appointed a special committee composed of C. H. Parsons, Jr., James Smyth, Dr. Robert Isbell and Dale Stites to investigate the possibilities and report to the Chamber of Commerce at the next meeting.

We have really everything in common with America now adays, except of course, language.

Stoddard Fair Parade Thursday

DEXTER -- The parade for the Stoddard County Fair through downtown Dexter will be on Thursday. The parade will start at 6 p.m. and will be made up of bands, floats, queens and many other entries.

Floats will be divided into two groups and prizes of $50, $25, and $15, will be awarded to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in each group. The first group will be floats from schools, 4-H clubs and all school organizations. The second group will consist of all other entries.

Each member of bands appearing in the parade will be given $1. spending money and admission to rides and shows at the fair will be reduced that day.

"Miss Stoddard County" will be selected from the queens appearing in the parade. She will be judged on poise, personality, and attractiveness. "Little Miss Stoddard County" will also be selected. They will be crowned at the fairgrounds immediately following the parade.

Bertrand News

By Mrs. Florence Fenimore

Subject of Church school lesson Sun was Evangelism by Partiure Ken Wilson my Gran-Son took me riding by farm all over Charleston came back down Super duper high ways cant hardly get used 2 riding in a car. Used 2 pray everytime I got in car but do manage 2 hold on. In my earlier days 2 dirt rodes covered wagons my Pop bought 1st team of mules in this neck of woods. Walter Lee went over 2 Europe in ship and bought a steamship full of mules and brot them 2 South East Mo. We bought 2 fine steppers Red sorrel mules and a new new green Spring wagon from Uncle Ab McCullmurry of Charleston. Then we got a sulky car and horses Then the Black-topped buggy and black topped fringe 2 seated surry now cars airplanes we have found that Maw can survive in air and outerspace now we men 6 scientest 2 live under water. They have a glass house 2 shelter them and sleeping equipment.

They have asbestus suits on. They 2 explore under water I see they had fish dinner the other day That who he have on Fri. Ive been 2 Sain Monica, Calif. We could look thro glass see pretty Grass sea shell and an a aquinot swimming under water I could have gon into it didnet want 2 the Pump oygen down there in case you want 2 go we went on a boat 2 Catalina 2 explore when we boarded the board across a Mexican Band play Missouri Waltz in honor of me and the late George Fenimore and wife Bennetta. We Took a ride around mount in a black surry with 2 black horses. We saw the big dance hall and several places of interest. We had lunch at a cabin in mountain. Mrs. Perry had lots company. The other day from Anniston Mo.

The Storms run a motel in Springfield and the Scwabs Bushes visit them they go fishing see 2 women in St. Louis mo. 1 100 yrs. another 104 they are in nursing homes says one way for longevity of live not eat and drink 2 much, the 104 woman says reason her Paw dident go 2 Civil War she hid his hat woulent let my Pop go he was Just 14 yers of age so he got married. He lived in Granpas old smoke house.

It was during Civil War days They came stole all their food horses Just broke by Grandad Bill Bushes heart. They took all his slaves. I remember my Granmother Mollie Russell Bush she wore more long black Alpaca dress, high black shoes hose and black sun bonnet. She could ride old black Stonewall Jackson. She was blind I remember seeing her when I was 5 yrs of age ride all over country side visiting the sick feeding the Poor. Mr. Gran Pa Perkins was rich 2 he married 5 times that was enough 2 break anyone up he live in Hollyrock Juntion Tenn.

The Civil War broke him took all his slaves, horses and mules burnt their crops up so let Pray not 2 drop bombs. Pope Pius 5th got stuck up in mud in Italy been 2 church and church School 2 day on the value of Memory by minister I think he ended up on atom bombs and what 2 to do with atom Bombs. We had about 20 at Church 2 day this was world communion day all partaking even Briget Syres boys and preachers daughter.

Those in the choir Sun were Carol Ann Collier, Lois and Linda Miller, Ruth Ann Voelker, John Gaty and Harold Delk, he was our candlelighter and snuffer. Bertrand WSCS meets Wed beginning at 11:30 a.m. Potluck luncheon Miss and Business meeting in afternoon. Mrs. Blanche Miller, Elva Gaty. I guess Preacher Burke and wife Mary several others from Bertrand attended Methodist Seminar at Malden M e Church with Rev. Bowers officiating I see Webber Gilmore, Harry C. Blanton will attend lawyers convention in Mulbick hotel Truman will be there be and Bess. 2 Greet The Guests Judge J. C. McDowell is 2 be honor 2 Circuit Judge and Mrs. Cathriace Craig are vacatiog in Palm Beach Calif. It see their Nancy. My George and Benetta visited them last week. Ola and Ray Marsh came 2 see me last wk. They were on their way 2 visit Dolph and Frank Maude Marsh in Charleston Mo. Our lunch 2 days was barbecued pork, bread, escalloped Irish Potatoes tossed tomatoe salad, with cottage cheese dressing, 2 biscuits, Golden Grain Corn, Ice Cream, Ice tea, coffee.

Frankie Beard showed me his black and white pussy cat. It had blue calico dress on it. I got my new pink fruit of loom dress done wore it 2 church Sun, cream leather hat, got silk shoes and pink button suit 2 finish up then I can peice on my Rose Sharol quilt.

Husband of Bertrand Woman Retires

COCOA BEACH, Fla. -- Technical Sgt. Walter F. Cryder, son of Mrs. Ida R. Cryder of Sayre, Pa., has retired from the air force at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., after 20 years of service.

Sergeant Cryder served as a telephone exchange supervisor at Patrick prior to his retirement.

The sergeant served in the South Atlantic and Africa during World War II and is a veteran of the Korean war.

His wife, Mildred, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Patrick of Bertrand, Mo.

QUITS—Resignation of Maj. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera and his junta government paves the way for a provisional government in the Dominican Republic.

Two Teenagers On Bikes Hurt

KENNETT -- Two teenagers on bicycles were injured Saturday when they were struck by a car on highway 25, one mile south of Kennett.

Injured were Leonard Coward, Jr., and Jerry Stirnaman, ages 14 and 15. Both were treated at a clinic and released. One received cuts to the shoulder and knees, the other received cuts and bruises to the back and possible internal injuries.

According to the Missouri Highway Patrol, Fred Lock, 72, of Senath, driving a 1957 Ford north on highway 25, started to pass another vehicle and hit the two boys on bicycles. No arrests were made. The accident occurred about 2:20 p.m.

Odd, but the only way a cat can swim is by dog-paddling.

HINTS FOR TEENAGERS

TOTAL! TOTAL! TOTAL! TOTAL FASHION!

This is the cheer roaring through fashionable campuses, offices, suburbs and cities—in other words—EVERYWHERE! This great new coordinated look is sweeping the coming semester and the country . . . and a delightful look it is. Everything is beautifully planned for head-to-toe perfection. All the parts of your Fall wardrobe, as a mathematically perfect equation, must add up to a completely charming "you."

DELIGHTFUL DISUNION CAN EQUAL HEAVENLY HARMONY

There was a time in the world of fashion when everything in an ensemble was exactly the same color. Now, a smashing outfit is created by combining subtle blends and variations of the same shade. No longer does one have to worry about the dying of shoes or spending hours shopping for matching hats and gloves. With the emphasis on the total look, shopping has become fun. For example, you might start with a deep, rich brown dress or suit and follow through with an elegant suede taupe hat . . . ivory bisque stockings and shoes (with fashion-right brown stacked heels, of course) . . . and beautiful beige or topaz to complete the ensemble. It's truly a masterpiece of coordination.

TERRIFICALLY TOTAL

. . . is what you will be if you sew your own Fall wardrobe! Fabrics are lovelier than ever and as coordinated as they can be. The woolens have solids perfectly blended with plush tweeds . . . corduroys now feature brilliant prints which can be matched to rich wide wale solids . . . and double knits are available in high-fashion colors. Today's pattern is an excellent example of complete coordination. This Simplicity design, 6085, has as many parts as possibilities. Only ONE simple pattern will give you a dress, a blouse, jacket and skirt for you to color and fabric blend and re-blend.

YOU'RE THE DESIGNER!

TO BELT OR NOT

Sheaths, A-lines and skimmers are as popular this Fall as they have been for some time. They are marvelously comfortable and are, as you know, sometimes enhanced by a well-placed belt. The dress in today's pattern, for example, may be worn smartly straight from the shoulders or, you can tie a belt at the waist, high and empire-like or (very-new) slung low at the hip. Whichever, it will look better if you make carriers to keep it where you want it! I have a most helpful leaflet which will give you detailed instructions and diagrams on the making of belts, loops and carriers . . . if you would like a copy of these important instructions, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Sewing Editor of this newspaper along with your request. I'd be delighted to hear from you.

Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Sir:

I am presently in the U. S. Marines serving in the Republic of Vietnam. Well sir, the primary reason I am writing this letter is to let the people back home know that I am a very proud Marine to serve my country here. So many times I have read in the papers about people back home asking why we are here and why are our servicemen dying for a backward people, and a people who doesn't care about what we are doing for them.

Well Sir, I would like very much to set these people straight as to why we are here.

Well, sir, the first and foremost reason that I am willing to fight and be in the jungles of Vietnam is so that my fellow Americans such as those who condemn the very reason I am here, may continue to express their opinions which under the Communist rule, that would be impossible. I am here so that my family and friends may continue to live in peace and in a fine country where freedom of speech is one of our most important heritages. Those ignorant people seem to have the idea that we are here to protect Vietnam. Well, sir, that is one of the reasons, but the most important reason is to stop Communism before it spreads to our own back yard.

Sir, I have been here for 3 months, and not once have I regreted coming here, nor has any other Marine I know. We know that the job we are doing here is an important one and sir, I speak for each and every Marine here, when I say that we will not falter nor fail in the task that has been given us. Our job is to stop the spread of Communism and Sir, I promise every person back home that we shall do it, no matter what the cost in human lives are. I feel that if I can give my life so that my future children and all the children at home can know the peace and happiness I have known for so many years, then it is very much worth it.

I am 21 years old, but since I came to Vietnam, I feel that I have learned more in these 3 short months than I could ever hope to learn in a lifetime. I used to sit in school and listen to my very wise school teachers preach about the evils of the Communist, but yet, I just couldn't comprehend fully what they meant, but since I came to Vietnam, and have come here and seen it at work, Sir, I would like to say that I am a very proud Marine that I have been given the chance to do my part, small as it may be, to do my part for God and my country.

Also before I close Sir, may I say that although those who condemn us for being here are so very wrong, but I understand their views and I only pray to God that they wake up before it is too late and back us in our fight. Thank you very much for taking the time to read this letter Sir. I hope that you can help us in our fight to preserve freedom and our American heritage.

Sincerely,
LCPL Ralph Sturgeon Jr.

Three Midwest States Swept By Violent Band Of Thunderstorms

A broad, violent band of thunderstorms swept across Oklahoma, central and eastern Kansas and northern sections of Missouri late Monday with an assortment of tornadoes, high winds and large amounts of rain.

Property damage was extensive, cities were temporarily without power and flooding streams forced evacuation of some lowland areas with the runoff likely to affect other sections today. Two people suffered minor injuries at Wichita and two in Kansas City when trailer homes overturned in the high winds.

Up to eight inches of rain was recorded in widely scattered sections of the three-state area as the storms descended on Strong City in western Oklahoma and began a rapid movement east and north.

Winds reached hurricane velocities of 80 to 90 miles per hour near Blackwell, Okla., and in the Abilene and Wichita, Kan., areas.

Tornadoes were reported at Strong City, El Reno, Yukon, Piedmont, Agra, Drumright and Cushing, Okla.; Wichita, Williamsburg, and Benton, Kan., and St. Joseph, Bethany, Alma, Marshall, and Kirksville, Mo.

Several families were evacuated from Mountain View, Okla., as the Washita River went out of its banks following a five-inch rain.

Flash flood warnings were issued for portions of Osage, Tulsa, Washington and Nowata counties in Oklahoma and other areas in the northeastern section of the state.

An additional three inches of snow fell in Laramie, Wyo., where more than a foot was already on the ground.

An inch of snow also fell at Denver and in Craig, Colo.

The lowland community of Smithville, Mo., heavily damaged by flood in July, braced for more high water from the Little Platte.

The Kansas City area had nearly three inches of rain in a 24-hour period then was struck shortly before midnight by tornado-like winds that plunged large sections of the city into darkness. Power lines in nearly every city in populous, suburban Johnson County, Kan., were down.

At Wichita, two houses were destroyed and a dozen planes at the Cessna Aircraft plant were damaged.

KENNETT -- Two Kennett men, Thomas R. Legan and Joe R. Bankhead, have been appointed honorary Kentucky Colonels on the staff of Kentucky Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, according to word received from the Governor's Goodwill Ambassador, Keith E. Hill of Murray, Ky.

Legan, manager of the Kennett Cablevision System, and Bankhead, commercial manager of Radio Station KBOA, have been assigned duties of public relations and radio and TV publicity for the State of Kentucky within Missouri.

When I Was A Boy

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

October 3, 1919

When I was a boy the Negro slaves did not have a church building of their own any where in our part of the country. In those days the Negroes joined the white folks' churches and were always made welcome when attending religious services by their white brethren. A lot of seats were reserved in the back of the church for the Negroes and they would groan and say: "Amen" and "Yes, Lord" whenever they felt like it; and that was pretty often. The first and only church building I ever heard of belonging to Negroes was at Glasgow about 1854, I think. The white Methodists built a new and handsome church building for that day, and gave their old house to the Negro brethren, who held some of the most wonderful meetings I ever heard; for you could hear them shout and sing, almost a mile. They were the happiest people I ever saw.

When I was a boy many things were done that are not so much in vogue now. One was the Methodist class meetings that were a regular thing in my neighborhood, it being the only church within five or six miles. At these class meetings it was expected that all present, that is all the membership, would tell what the Lord had done for them, and how they felt. It was told that when the leader asked an old black brother the question it was hard for Uncle Moss to make the right answer and he had been doing something that caused his conscience to hurt him, so he stood up and said: "Please, sir, I feels dis like the dam son of a gun what I is." Uncle Moss was never called on again.

When I was a boy, the home of the celebrated scout and Indian fighter, Kit Carson, was at the village of Boonsboro, in Howard county. That is, it had been his home before he left and became famous. At this place there had been a lot of Chestnut trees put out and they grew and flourished as well as they would have done in old Virginia or anywhere else. It was at this place Carson sent his pretty half breed daughter, Adeline to be educated. I remember well her girl companion, Lizzie Amick, with whom she attended school at Rock Springs. Lizzie grew up and married a man named Calvin, while Adeline was taken west by her father, married and died in California. It begins to look as if everyone is dead now that I knew when I was a boy.

When I was a boy almost all the dwelling houses in the country were log houses. Many of them had but one room and a kitchen; some had two good sized rooms, while some were two story houses and weather boarded, but the frame houses were few and far between. Once in a day's travel you might see a small brick house. At every house the cooking was done in a great wide fire place, and about all the cooking utensils any one owned was a coffee pot, a skillet in which to bake bread, a pot to boil meat in, a pie pan or two and a big kettle in which to boil water to do the family washing. Yes, there was a cake pan, too, and the old fashioned pound cake was much better than our modern cakes. People were happy and contented then.

When I was a boy, most of the boys and girls got their education in the little old log cabins that could be found in all school districts, and it was a very rare thing that a boy or girl ever had the chance to go to college. Only one girl that I can remember ever got to go to college and that was a young Aunt of mine about 17 years old. She was sent to the college at Fayette, and on her occasional visits home was made more over than is made over a girl just returned from Europe now. I hardly think the colleges away back there were any better if quite as good as the average High School in any town is now. Away back there in the Country we never heard of a High School, and it is a wonder to me now that I ever learned to write all this stuff about things that happened when I was a boy.

Dexter Studies Hiring C. of C. Manager

DEXTER -- Dexter's Chamber of Commerce has decided to study the idea of hiring a full-time secretary - manager for the Chamber of Commerce and establishing an office in the downtown area.

The plan for such a study was recommended to the organization by the merchants committee.

Activities of the Chamber of Commerce are now so numerous and varied that many persons feel that a full-time secretary - manager is now needed.

This would require an increase in the budget of the Chamber of Commerce it was pointed out by members present at Monday night's meeting. But they said they felt that the budget could and should be increased to provide for the fulltime services.

President Joe Weber appointed a special committee composed of C. H. Parsons, Jr., James Smyth, Dr. Robert Isbell and Dale Stites to investigate the possibilities and report to the Chamber of Commerce at the next meeting.

We have really everything in common with America now adays, except of course, language.

Stoddard Fair Parade Thursday

DEXTER -- The parade for the Stoddard County Fair through downtown Dexter will be on Thursday. The parade will start at 6 p.m. and will be made up of bands, floats, queens and many other entries.

Floats will be divided into two groups and prizes of $50, $25, and $15, will be awarded to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in each group. The first group will be floats from schools, 4-H clubs and all school organizations. The second group will consist of all other entries.

Each member of bands appearing in the parade will be given $1. spending money and admission to rides and shows at the fair will be reduced that day.

"Miss Stoddard County" will be selected from the queens appearing in the parade. She will be judged on poise, personality, and attractiveness. "Little Miss Stoddard County" will also be selected. They will be crowned at the fairgrounds immediately following the parade.

Bertrand News

By Mrs. Florence Fenimore

Subject of Church school lesson Sun was Evangelism by Partiure Ken Wilson my Gran-Son took me riding by farm all over Charleston came back down Super duper high ways cant hardly get used 2 riding in a car. Used 2 pray everytime I got in car but do manage 2 hold on. In my earlier days 2 dirt rodes covered wagons my Pop bought 1st team of mules in this neck of woods. Walter Lee went over 2 Europe in ship and bought a steamship full of mules and brot them 2 South East Mo. We bought 2 fine steppers Red sorrel mules and a new new green Spring wagon from Uncle Ab McCullmurry of Charleston. Then we got a sulky car and horses Then the Black-topped buggy and black topped fringe 2 seated surry now cars airplanes we have found that Maw can survive in air and outerspace now we men 6 scientest 2 live under water. They have a glass house 2 shelter them and sleeping equipment.

They have asbestus suits on. They 2 explore under water I see they had fish dinner the other day That who he have on Fri. Ive been 2 Sain Monica, Calif. We could look throglass see pretty Grass sea shell and an a aquinot swimming under water I could have gon into it didnet want 2 the Pump oygen down there in case you want 2 go we went on a boat 2 Catalina 2 explore when we boarded the board across a Mexican Band play Missouri Waltz in honor of me and the late George Fenimore and wife Bennetta. We Took a ride around mount in a black surry with 2 black horses. We saw the big dance hall and several places of interest. We had lunch at a cabin in mountain. Mrs. Perry had lots company. The other day from Anniston Mo.

The Storms run a motel in Springfield and the Scwabs Bushes visit them they go fishing see 2 women in St. Louis mo. 1 100 yrs. another 104 they are in nursing homes says one way for longevity of live not eat and drink 2 much, the 104 woman says reason her Paw dident go 2 Civil War she hid his hat woulent let my Pop go he was Just 14 yers of age so he got married. He lived in Granpas old smoke house.

It was during Civil War days They came stole all their food horses Just broke by Grandad Bill Bushes heart. They took all his slaves. I remember my Granmother Mollie Russell Bush she wore more long black Alpaca dress, high black shoes hose and black sun bonnet. She could ride old black Stonewall Jackson. She was blind I remember seeing her when I was 5 yrs of age ride all over country side visiting the sick feeding the Poor. Mr. Gran Pa Perkins was rich 2 he married 5 times that was enough 2 break anyone up he live in Hollyrock Juntion Tenn.

The Civil War broke him took all his slaves, horses and mules burnt their crops up so let Pray not 2 drop bombs. Pope Pius 5th got stuck up in mud in Italy been 2 church and church School 2 day on the value of Memory by minister I think he ended up on atom bombs and what 2 to do with atom Bombs. We had about 20 at Church 2 day this was world communion day all partaking even Briget Syres boys and preachers daughter.

Those in the choir Sun were Carol Ann Collier, Lois and Linda Miller, Ruth Ann Voelker, John Gaty and Harold Delk, he was our candlelighter and snuffer. Bertrand WSCS meets Wed beginning at 11;30 a.m. Potluck luncheon Miss and Business meeting in afternoon. Mrs. Blanche Miller, Elva Gaty. I guess Preacher Burke and wife Mary several others from Bertrand attended Methodist Seminar at Malden M e Church with Rev. Bowers officiating I see Webber Gilmore, Harry C. Blanton will attend lawyers convention in Mulbick hotel Truman will be there be and Bess, 2 Greet The Guests Judge J. C. McDowell is 2 be honor 2 Circuit Judge and Mrs. Cathriace Craig are vacatiog in Palm Beach Calif. It see their Nancy. My George and Benetta visited them last week. Ola and Ray Marsh came 2 see me last wk. They were on their way 2 visit Dolph and Frank Maude Marsh in Charleston Mo. Our lunch 2 days was barbecued pork, bread, escalloped Irish Potatoes tossed tomatoe salad, with cottage cheese dressing, 2 biscuits, Golden Grain Corn, Ice Cream, Ice tea, coffee.

Frankie Beard showed me his black and white pussy cat. It had blue calico dress on it. I got my new pink fruit of loom dress done wore it 2 church Sun, cream leather hat, got silk shoes and pink button suit 2 finish up then I can peice on my Rose Sharol quilt.

Husband of Bertrand Woman Retires

COCOA BEACH, Fla. -- Technical Sgt. Walter F. Cryder, son of Mrs. Ida R. Cryder of Sayre, Pa., has retired from the air force at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., after 20 years of service.

Sergeant Cryder served as a telephone exchange supervisor at Patrick prior to his retirement.

The sergeant served in the South Atlantic and Africa during World War II and is a veteran of the Korean war.

His wife, Mildred, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Patrick of Bertrand, Mo.

...From your Sewing Editor

TOTAL! TOTAL! TOTAL! TOTAL FASHION!

This is the cheer roaring through fashionable campuses, offices, suburbs and cities—in other words—EVERYWHERE! This great new coordinated look is sweeping the coming semester and the country . . . and a delightful look it is. Everything is beautifully planned for head-to-toe perfection. All the parts of your Fall wardrobe, as a mathematically perfect equation, must add up to a completely charming "you."

DELIGHTFUL DISUNION CAN EQUAL HEAVENLY HARMONY

There was a time in the world of fashion when everything in an ensemble was exactly the same color. Now, a smashing outfit is created by combining subtle blends and variations of the same shade. No longer does one have to worry about the dying of shoes or spending hours shopping for matching hats and gloves. With the emphasis on the total look, shopping has become fun. For example, you might start with a deep, rich brown dress or suit and follow through with an elegant suede taupe hat . . . ivory bisque stockings and shoes (with fashion-right brown stacked heels, of course) . . . and beautiful beige or topaz to complete the ensemble. It's truly a masterpiece of coordination.

TERRIFICALLY TOTAL

. . . is what you will be if you sew your own Fall wardrobe! Fabrics are lovelier than ever and as coordinated as they can be. The woolens have solids perfectly blended with plush tweeds . . . corduroys now feature brilliant prints which can be matched to rich wide wale solids . . . and double knits are available in high-fashion colors. Today's pattern is an excellent example of complete coordination. This Simplicity design, 6085, has as many parts as possibilities. Only ONE simple pattern will give you a dress, a blouse, jacket and skirt for you to color and fabric blend and re-blend.

YOU'RE THE DESIGNER!

TO BELT OR NOT

Sheaths, A-lines and skimmers are as popular this Fall as they have been for some time. They are marvelously comfortable and are, as you know, sometimes enhanced by a well-placed belt. The dress in today's pattern, for example, may be worn smartly straight from the shoulders or, you can tie a belt at the waist, high and empire-like or (very-new) slung low at the hip. Whichever, it will look better if you make carriers to keep it where you want it! I have a most helpful leaflet which will give you detailed instructions and diagrams on the making of belts, loops and carriers . . . if you would like a copy of these important instructions, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Sewing Editor of this newspaper along with your request. I'd be delighted to hear from you.

Editor
Daily Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Sir:

I am presently in the U. S. Marines serving in the Republic of Vietnam. Well sir, the primary reason I am writing this letter is to let the people back home know that I am a very proud Marine to serve my country here. So many times I have read in the papers about people back home asking why we are here and why are our servicemen dying for a backward people, and a people who doesn't care about what we are doing for them.

Well Sir, I would like very much to set these people straight as to why we are here.

Well, sir, the first and foremost reason that I am willing to fight and be in the jungles of Vietnam is so that my fellow Americans such as those who condemn the very reason I am here, may continue to express their opinions which under the Communist rule, that would be impossible. I am here so that my family and friends may continue to live in peace and in a fine country where freedom of speech is one of our most important heritages. Those ignorant people seem to have the idea that we are here to protect Vietnam. Well, sir, that is one of the reasons, but the most important reason is to stop Communism before it spreads to our own back yard.

Sir, I have been here for 3 months, and not once have I regreted coming here, nor has any other Marine I know. We know that the job we are doing here is an important one and sir, I speak for each and every Marine here, when I say that we will not falter nor fail in the task that has been given us. Our job is to stop the spread of Communism and Sir, I promise every person back home that we shall do it, no matter what the cost in human lives are. I feel that if I can give my life so that my future children and all the children at home can know the peace and happiness I have known for so many years, then it is very much worth it.

I am 21 years old, but since I came to Vietnam, I feel that I have learned more in these 3 short months than I could ever hope to learn in a lifetime. I used to sit in school and listen to my very wise school teachers preach about the evils of the Communist, but yet, I just couldn't comprehend fully what they meant, but since I came to Vietnam, and have come here and seen it at work, Sir, I would like to say that I am a very proud Marine that I have been given the chance to do my part, small as it may be, to do my part for God and my country.

Also before I close Sir, may I say that although those who condemn us for being here are so very wrong, but I understand their views and I only pray to God that they wake up before it is too late and back us in our fight. Thank you very much for taking the time to read this letter Sir. I hope that you can help us in our fight to preserve freedom and our American heritage.

Sincerely,
LCPL Ralph Sturgeon Jr.

Three Midwest States Swept By Violent Band Of Thunderstorms

A broad, violent band of thunderstorms swept across Oklahoma, central and eastern Kansas and northern sections of Missouri late Monday with an assortment of tornadoes, high winds and large amounts of rain.

Property damage was extensive, cities were temporarily without power and flooding streams forced evacuation of some lowland areas with the runoff likely to affect other sections today. Two people suffered minor injuries at Wichita and two in Kansas City when trailer homes overturned in the high winds.

Up to eight inches of rain was recorded in widely scattered sections of the three-state area as the storms descended on Strong City in western Oklahoma and began a rapid movement east and north.

Winds reached hurricane velocities of 80 to 90 miles per hour near Blackwell, Okla., and in the Abilene and Wichita, Kan., areas.

Tornadoes were reported at Strong City, El Reno, Yukon, Piedmont, Agra, Drumright and Cushing, Okla.; Wichita, Williamsburg, and Benton, Kan., and St. Joseph, Bethany, Alma, Marshall, and Kirksville, Mo.

Several families were evacuated from Mountain View, Okla., as the Washita River went out of its banks following a five-inch rain.

Flash flood warnings were issued for portions of Osage, Tulsa, Washington and Nowata counties in Oklahoma and other areas in the northeastern section of the state.

An additional three inches of snow fell in Laramie, Wyo., where more than a foot was already on the ground.

An inch of snow also fell at Denver and in Craig, Colo.

The Weather Bureau warned residents of south central and southeast Iowa that streams in the area will rise, although it was not known how extensive flooding might be.

The lowland community of Smithville, Mo., heavily damaged by flood in July, braced for more high water from the Little Platte.

The Kansas City area had nearly three inches of rain in a 24-hour period then was struck shortly before midnight by tornado-like winds that plunged large sections of the city into darkness. Power lines in nearly every city in populous, suburban Johnson County, Kan., were down.

At Wichita, two houses were destroyed and a dozen planes at the Cessna Aircraft plant were damaged.

Three Books Put In Libraries

KENNETT -- Two Kennett men, Thomas R. Legan and Joe R. Bankhead, have been appointed honorary Kentucky Colonels on the staff of Kentucky Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, according to word received from the Governor's Goodwill Ambassador, Keith E. Hill of Murray, Ky.

Legan, manager of the Kennett Cablevision System, and Bankhead, commercial manager of Radio Station KBOA, have been assigned duties of public relations and radio and TV publicity for the State of Kentucky within Missouri.

Herodotus wrote of the cotton plant as early as 445 B. C.

HOT ITEM—Dr. Ray Jackson, of the Department of Agriculture, takes a swig from his solar still in Tempe, Ariz. The portable still extracts enough drinking water from desert soil and plants—up to three pints in 24 hours—to allow emergency survival. Heat from the sun causes moisture to condense on the underside of the plastic and roll down into a container.
